Who Are 'Concerned Citizens'?

Leaflet Raises A Storm In Harper Board Campaign

by TOM WELLMAN

A handbill distributed by a group calling itself "Citizens for an Outstanding Harper College" has caused a last minute furor in the college's board of trustees' race.

The leaflet, which endorses three Harper candidates, charges the election of two other candidates, Hannah Wilson and Larry Moran is directed towards a "student educator takeover" of the board.

It has been mass leafleted at train stations and will be handed out again today. The leafletting has inspired a threat by Moran that he will take legal action against the leafleteers.

Robert Faust, a Rolling Meadows resident, has asserted that James Hamill, retiring chairman of the Harper College board of trustees, is leading the group called Concerned Citizens for an Outstanding Harper College.

Faust said yesterday that the group, which he says includes current trustee Josselyn Nicklas, and several local political figures, met last Friday at the home of Richard Snyder, a GOP precinct captain in Palatine to plan the campaign.

SINCE THE ALLEGED meeting, a series of handbills have been distributed at railroad stations and through the mail to support the candidacies of Ross Miller, D. Eugene Nugent and Milton Hansen for the board.

The distribution of the handbills has angered Moran, a student at Northwestern Illinois State College and Mrs. Wilson, a nurse in Dist. 54.

The handbills indicate Moran's and Mrs. Wilson's candidacy, and assert that, if the two win, "chances are relatively great Harper students and the majority of citizens in the district will not be best served."

If they are elected and gain control of the board, "There is likely to be chaos on the board and with the administration, more disruption on campus, and, of most importance, accelerating tax referendum proposals," the handbills say.

MRS. WILSON in the past has charged it contains "blatant lies." She asserted yesterday she has no place in her campaign for smear tactics and it is the group's prerogative to lean on party politics, if they choose.

Moran, after several consultations with the Mount Prospect police, has threatened to complain to the State's Attorney on the grounds it is an anonymous publication.

He indicated that, unless Miller withdrew from the race last night, he will go to the State's Attorney today. He asserts that the "anonymous handbills were printed at Miller's orders by a print shop in Mount Prospect."

Hamill could not be reached Thursday afternoon to comment on the charges and statements. He was not present at last night's Harper board meeting.

MRS. NICKLAS SAID she had been active among her friends in the Inverness area, but that "groups overlap," and that she couldn't say if she attended the Friday meeting.

The handbill was distributed yesterday morning in Arlington Heights, and later in the day a slightly modified handbill was distributed at the Mount Prospect train station.

RICHARD COWEN, Wheeling Twp. GOP committeeman, said that his organization "has taken no stand and will not do so, it is not our policy."

He added, "I know there are a number of people who are actively involved — maybe 10 or 15 — and I think most of them are doing so because of friendship with Jim Hamill."

"We encourage Republicans to be active in local elections, but they do so only as individuals," he said.

School Ballots To Be Collected At 27 Polls

by JUDY BRANDEN

High School Dist. 214 voters will go to 27 polls tomorrow from noon to 7 p.m. to select two from six candidates to serve three-year terms.

Incumbents Richard Bachhuber of Mount Prospect and Leah Cummins of Elk Grove Village face opposition for their seats from Jack Matthews, Raymond Petersen, Jr., Robert Winkle and Don McGlothlin.

Traditionally, Dist. 214 candidates from Mount Prospect have benefited from voter turnout for elementary district elections in the town. Easter activities and no overriding issues in Elementary Dist. 57 may hold voter turnout this year, observers are saying.

IN ELK GROVE Village, where Mrs. Cummins lives, candidate Robert Winkle is said to have support from Elk Grove High School teachers. A $2.3 million junior high school referendum is also on the ballot tomorrow in Elk Grove Township.

Voter interest in district-wide issues has centered around discipline and what the district will do if it ever gets into a financial bind.

Both incumbents say they favor home-bound instruction rather than expulsion. Recently, in the first Dist. 214 formal expulsion in several years, Mrs. Cummins voted against Bachhuber for expulsion of a student.

All candidates say the district is in fairly good financial situation. The incumbents seem to disagree on whether to cut down on teachers or administrators.

LOCAL INTEREST in the election appears in Rolling Meadows, where Petersen lives, where the seventh Dist. 214 high school is being built and Wheeling, McGlothlin's area, where modular scheduling has upset many parents.

District officials report 181 residents, compared to 21 last year, have voted absentee in the election. The increase has been attributed to the holiday weekend when voters are more likely to be out of town.

During recent forums and candidates' nights, the candidates have spoken about a variety of issues. Here are some of their stands:

—Bachhuber stressed his experience in two terms as a board member and his dedication to the district. If budget cuts are needed in the future, they should be made in fringe areas and in such ways as combining classes.

He's also mentioned his work as chairman of the Committee of 75, which studied and recommended a year-round school program and an extended day. Some of those recommendations might have to be implemented if a referendum for the district's eighth high school is defeated.

—Mrs. Cummins has emphasized the "big job" left for her as a board member and the "mandate for every boy and girl" in the district.

MRS. CUMMINS would not favor an attempt to implement merit pay now and she is especially pleased with the district's program for perceptually handicapped children.

If budget cuts are needed, she'd try to trim administrative costs first.

Matthews believes the district needs an eighth high school. If forced to make money cuts, he would make them with "considerable care and study."

He's interested in devising a form of merit pay system for teachers "to reward the excellent ones." About vocational education, he'd work to educate parents first on the nature of it. Finally, he has a special concern for the district's "average students."

—McGlothlin believes the district doesn't need any more schools, preferring a split session program to eliminate "wasted study hall time" and "unnecessary" supervisory periods.

McGLOTHLIN candidly admitted he doesn't expect to win, and expressed con-

New School, Two Board Posts

Two Issues Facing Voters

Elk Grove Township Elementary School Dist. 59 residents will go to the polls tomorrow to approve or deny issuance of $2.3 million, in bonds and elect two candidates to the board of education.

Polls will be open from noon to 7 p.m.

Voting "yes" on the referendum will be a commitment to allow the district to sell bonds for construction of junior high school, the fifth in the district, and the last one that will be needed, according to school officials.

A 5.4 acre site for the school was purchased by the district for $159,000. The site is on Janice Avenue in Des Plaines, near St. Zachary Catholic Church and school on Algonquin Road.

The district reported the referendum will increase the bond and interest (and tax rate about three cents per $100 for 1972 and 1973). However, the figure was calculated before a recent Circuit Court decision eliminating the corporate personal property tax. If the suit is upheld by the Illinois Supreme Court the tax rate will be higher.

THE DISTRICT HAS 20 schools in the

A sketch of the building was not prepared in order to avoid spending much money on the school before voter approval, according to Leah Cummins, district public relations specialist.

A preliminary sketch would have cost $20,000 and a detailed sketch would have been $35,000 to $40,000, she said.

However, if the referendum is approved, the building for 750 students will be designed beginning after the referendum with construction planned for October. The district is planning to open the building in December, 1972.

FOUR CANDIDATES are seeking two three-year terms on the board of education: Allen Sparks, 908 Spruance, Des Plaines; Albert Domanico, 7 Grange, Elk Grove Village; Theodore Staddler, 1032 Brantwood, Elk Grove Village; and Erwin Poklacki, 1223 S. Fernandez, Arlington Heights.

Sparks is the only incumbent, serving on the board for three years. Domanico is a former board member who served for one year in 1969-70.

Staddler has a background in industrial education. Poklacki ran for the board last year, losing by six votes.

All of the candidates have children in Dist. 59 schools.

Results on the school board election and junior high school issue will be reported by the district on their automatic 24-hour phone message. The number is 437-7837. Returns are to be available by 9:30 p.m. on election night.

$355,000 Allocated

Village Mgr. Announces Street Recurfacing Plan

A $355,000 street resurfacing program that will include residential and industrial sections of Elk Grove Village was announced this week by Charles Willis, village manager.

Forty-three streets totaling 14 miles will be resurfaced in the coming construction season, said Willis. Last year $402,000 was spent to resurface 15 miles of residential streets.

Of the $355,000 to be spent this year, $201,000 is from motor fuel tax monies the village receives from the state and $154,000 from the village general corporate fund.

With completion of this year's work, 60 per cent of the residential streets in the village will have been resurfaced since 1970, said Jack Andrews, street department superintendent.

THIS IS THE second year of large scale street maintenance program in the community that has been primarily geared toward the residential sections, according to Andrews.

However, this year plans call for the resurfacing of streets in the portion of Centex Industrial Park north of Higgins Road. The streets there include: Scott, King, Le and Criss Circle. Bond Street is scheduled for extensive base work in some areas.

In addition, Arthur Avenue is scheduled to be resurfaced from Elmhurst Road to Ill. Rte. 83, also in the industrial park.

Landmeier Road from Arlington Heights Road to Tonne Road will be re-

Andrews said prior to resurfacing, $26,000 will be used to breakout, remove, and repair street surfaces within the 14-mile network of streets scheduled for improvement. Work is expected to begin later this spring.

The first residential area scheduled for resurfacing is the area bounded by Ridge, Cypress, Kennedy and Walnut, Andrews said.

Biesterfeld Road and Higgins Road

(Ill. Rte. 72) are also scheduled to be reconstructed this year by Cook County and the state highway department respectively.

BIESTERFELD WILL be constructed to two lanes from Bisner Road to Arlington Heights Road. Bids for the project are due April 28.

Work has begun on Higgins Road with widening to four-lanes from Landmeier Road to Ill. Rte. 53, part of a larger $10,198,000 project that extends west to Rte. 59 near south Barrington.

Arlington Heights Road is not scheduled to be widened by the county until 1974, according to Willis. Cost of the project, including widening to four lanes, is estimated at $4.4 million, according to the county.

Woman Killed In Crash

Killed was Mrs. Carlene Kunzie of 719 E. Ivy Ln.

She is survived by her husband, John P. Kunzie, and two daughters, Jane Elizabeth, 13; and Julie Lynn, 10.

Arlington Heights police said Mrs. Kunzie was northbound on Arlington Heights Road when her car left the roadway about 82 feet south of Valley Lane. Police said the auto apparently went off the road about 12 feet south of a steel guard rail along a 12-foot ditch.

The auto traveled about 35 feet into the ditch before crashing into the drainage tile.

Police said a passing motorist, John Caldarazzo, 806 Valley Lane, discovered the car in the ditch moments later and hailed a police squad car at the corner of Arlington Heights and Rand roads at 3:04 a.m.

Witnesses said police had difficulty extricating the woman from the wreckage. Mrs. Kunzie was pronounced dead on arrival at 3:29 a.m. at Northwest Community Hospital. She suffered injuries of the head, chest, arm and left ankle, according to police.

Workmen struggled for more than an hour to remove the car from the ditch, which is four feet wide, according to witnesses. There was four inches of water in the ditch, police said.

Voters eligible to select members on the Elementary School Dist. 54 board of education will go to the polls tomorrow.

There are four candidates running for two 3 year terms. None are incumbents. Listed on the ballot, in the order of their filing dates, are Dr. Bernard Powell, Adam J. Jelen, Sherwood Lee Spatz and Mrs. Connie Schoeld.

Spatz, a former educator, is currently working as an estimator. He lives at 7875 Ramsgate Circle South in Hanover Park.

Approve Annexation Of Algonquin-Elmhurst Tract

Annexation of William Alter's 54-acre site at Algonquin and Elmhurst roads was approved unanimously Tuesday by the Mount Prospect Village Board.

A $42 million office, apartment and recreation center — described as similar to New York's Rockefeller Center — is slated for construction on the site. The development will be known as the Mid-America Plaza.

Alter of Unity Venture Inc., owner of the site, estimates construction will be completed within five to eight years depending on the economies of the country and the market for office space.

Alter said the complex will be basically an office park designed to accommodate big companies with enough space for regional or national offices.

If developed according to plan, the center will include several office buildings ranging in heights from eight to 16 stories, three 12-story and two 10-story apartment buildings with a maximum of 1,200 living units, theaters, restaurants, year-round recreation, underground parking, retail shops and a hotel with convention facilities.

A SPORTS ARENA, schools, churches and museums may be included at a later date.

The village board approved the annexation with commercial (B-3) zoning and special-use provisions permitting the construction of such facilities as apartments, a hotel and indoor-outdoor recreation.

According to the village board, the development will be "highly beneficial" to the village because it will "increase the taxable value of the real property within the village and the number of persons who will be counted for the purpose of obtaining state motor fuel tax funds."

The development will "also extend the corporate limits and the jurisdiction of the village, will promote the sound planning and development of the village and will otherwise enhance and promote the general welfare of the people of the village."

The Fence Post

Dr. Poklacki Has Spent A Busy Year

Attention Dist. 59 voters who "bulleted" in last year's school board elections. By casting only one of your votes, you missed the opportunity to elect Erwin Poklacki, who was defeated by six votes.

Unlike many unsuccessful candidates, Dr. Poklacki has spent the year actively participating in school districts affairs. He has attended all of the board meetings and special budget meetings. He has served as a member of the School Community Council and worked on the Junior High Population Study. He has consistently demonstrated an independent, reasonable approach to finding solutions to the many problems faced by our educational community.

On Saturday you have the opportunity to elect Dr. Poklacki to a position of increased responsibility as a member of the board of education. Don't throw away your right to cast two votes and please consider giving one of them to Erwin S. Poklacki.

Circulating Pardon Petitions

Legion, Students Support Calley

Adults and children alike came out this week in Palatine Township with a show of support for Lt. William Calley, Jr.

On both sides of the "generation gap," a group of 7th graders from Plum Grove School, and a group of American Legion members from Post 690 in Palatine came to the defense of the 27-year old soldier who was recently sentenced to life imprisonment for mass murders in My Lai in 1968.

Those rallying to Calley's defense represent a cross-section of young and old throughout Palatine, Rolling Meadows and Inverness.

Monday night, 31 members of American Legion Post 690 unanimously passed a resolution asking for a full pardon and restoration of all rights for Calley.

The measure was adopted by only 10 per cent of the Palatine Legion's full membership, however, which is more than 300 men.

LAVERNE GUNDERSON, post commander, said the resolution will be sent to President Nixon, and Illinois senators and congressmen.

Gunderson said the resolution was based on the belief that Calley's conviction is not in the best interest of the morale of our troops and world opinion.

The resolution was passed, after a lengthy debate among Legion members. The Legion resolution also asked that all citizens from the surrounding area, join in their appeal by writing letters and sending telegrams to President Nixon and their representatives in Washington, D.C. and Springfield.

AND YESTERDAY, a group of 20 seventh graders from Plum Grove School started their long trek to gain some 4,000 to 5,000 signatures on a petition which will also be sent to President Nixon and other officials after it is completed in about two weeks.

A spokesman for the school said the petition is not sponsored by Plum Grove's administration or teachers and the children are not allowed to circulate it during class time.

Mark Rosanova, 13, 132 Halkirk Circle in Inverness, is heading the effort. He said the petition reads:

"We the undersigned believe that Lt. William Calley, Jr., should not be responsible for his actions at My Lai, under and pertaining to the Military Code of Justice, Article II. Therefore, punishment should not have been issued. We demand that justice be arrived at."

ROSANOVA SAID the petitions will be circulated in Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Inverness, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights and areas of high-density concentration such as Randhurst and O'Hare Airport.

"If all goes well, we even hope to get it out into Hoffman Estates and that area," he said.

Rosanova added that many of the school children will take petitions with them to other states over this spring vacation.

"After it's all over, we are even considering sending a petition to Lt. Calley just to show him that he has some backers," the 13-year old school boy said.

Twp. School Trustees On Ballots, Too

by STEVE NOVICK
Suburbanites at the polls will vote for school board candidates tomorrow, also have an opportunity to vote for township school trustees.

The little publicized trustees election is to select persons who sit on a board, holding title to property owned by schools within their township.

The trustees also select a treasurer, authorized to sign checks for school expenditures within their township and in some townships coordinates school district accounting.

The degree of activity in which the trustees and treasurer play a functional role is often contested by persons who say the school districts should be allowed to manage their own affairs, subject to audit.

Charges have been leveled that a duplication of services is created in the treasurer position and the jobs can be politically based with high pay benefits for minimal work.

DEFENSE HAS BEEN given that the treasurer and trustees provide necessary "checks and balances" over school spending.

The coordination of money management for townships that have several small school districts within township boundaries is another defense offered.

Savings in small districts is available because the treasurer's office is computerized, said Harold Ahlbeck, Main Township Trustee who serves Districts 62, 63, and 64 and High School Dist. 207.

Robert Noonan, treasurer for schools in Palatine Township said he could make more money serving private clients and the job is not political.

Noonan said he does detail work, mostly dealing with banks holding school money, and toward keeping those accounts straight.

TOWNSHIP SCHOOL trustees schedule regular meetings twice a year, but meet on an average of once a month to take action of school property and money matters, Noonan added.

Trustee candidates are up for election in Schaumburg, Palatine, Wheeling, Elk Grove and Maine Townships.

In Schaumburg Township the candidates are incumbent Richard Ritchie of Schaumburg, being challenged by William Fitzgerald of Schaumburg. Other members of the Schaumburg Township School Board of Trustees are Arthur Wegner of Schaumburg and Harold Bond of Hoffman Estates.

POLLING PLACES in the Schaumburg Township school trustees race are the same as for the Dist. 45 school board elections.

In Elk Grove Township, Ned Basile of Elk Grove is seeking reelection and is opposed by Thomas Maverrick, also of Elk Grove. They are seeking a six year term.

Other Elk Grove Township school trustees are Fred Lambkin of Des Plaines and Ed Conlon of Mount Prospect.

Palatine Township has one school trustee candidate, James W. Johnson Jr. of Palatine on the ballot to replace retiring Donald Winter for a six year term. Other Palatine Township school trustees are Walter Vartanian Jr. and William Heise of Palatine. Ballots will be at Elementary Dist. 15 polling places within the township.

Wheeling Township voters will be able to mark ballots in their precincts for two unopposed candidates at any school district polling place within the township boundaries.

THE CANDIDATES are Frank Alexander of Mount Prospect seeking a 6-year term and Raymond De Maertelaere of Arlington Heights, running to fill out 2 years of an unexpired term to which he was appointed.

Mrs. Joan Shelk of Arlington Heights is the third member of Wheeling Township's school trustee board.

In Maine Township, incumbent Goerge Scharringhausen, seeking a six year term, is the only name on the trustee ballot. Residents can vote at West School in Des Plaines, Washington School in Park Ridge and Ballard School in Niles.

Arthur Behrens of Des Plaines and William Graham of Morton Grove are the two other trustees.

River Shuttle Service Set

Commuters can cruise to work starting Monday as the Chicago and North Western Railway begins its annual shuttle service on the Chicago River.

Two cruises will be under the direction of Captain Albert Bergstrom as they pick up commuters at the railroad's Riverside Plaza dock at Madison and Canal streets in Chicago. The 140 passenger Wendella and the 108-passenger Sunliner will offer a seven-minute ride across the loop to the Wrigley Building dock under N. Michigan Ave.

A boat travels each way every 10 minutes during the morning and evening rush hours, Monday through Friday. The first morning sailing will be at 7:45 a.m. and the last morning sailing at 9 a.m.

Evening rush hour sailings from the N. Michigan Ave. dock will begin at 4:45 p.m. They will continue at 10-minute intervals through 5:25 p.m.

The fare will be 15 cents a ride in books of 10 tickets, or 40 cents for a single ride. Tickets will be on sale at ticket windows of the North Western's downtown terminal and at the Riverside Plaza and Drigley Building boat docks.

While regular service will be limited to the rush hours, the boats will make direct connections with North Western trains through advance arrangements for rail-boat excursions at special group rates. Thousands of school children as well as adult groups have made such rail-boat trips during the past eight years.

The cruises have carried almost three-quarters of a million passengers since they made their maiden voyage in 1963.

Local Fraud Offices Open

Assistant state's attorneys in North-west suburban court districts will now be receiving consumer fraud complaints from area residents.

Cook County State's Atty. Edward Hanrahan at a press conference yesterday announced branches of his office in the second and third Circuit Court Districts serving this area have been authorized to process directly complaints alleging consumer violations. Until now, complaints had to be filed at the Consumer Fraud Division in the Criminal Courts Building, 10th and California Avenues, Chicago.

The expanded service to this area is part of a trial program billed by Hanrahan as an effort to afford greater help to citizens most in need of the law's protection. Four neighborhood centers will be opened up in Chicago and assistant state's attorneys in each of the five suburban districts will now receive complaints.

Cost of the program was not disclosed but Hanrahan said it was partially funded by a grant from the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission.

ILL. STATE'S ATTORNEY also said that if the program proved successful his office would consider expanding other services to residents of outlying areas.

Consumer fraud complaints may be filed between 3 p.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Residents of the second district, which includes Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Palatine, Rolling Meadows and Wheeling are served by offices at 8333 Lincoln Ave., Skokie, (phone — 673-1274).

Complaints from residents in the third district serving Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Hanover Park, Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg should be filed with the assistant state's attorney's office, 7166 N. Milwaukee Ave., Niles, (phone — 647-7324).

"This office will continue to expand its role in serving the communities' needs," Hanrahan remarked. "We hope that by bringing the prosecutor closer to the people who need help we are taking a major step to serve that need."

Easter May Affect Vote

by JUDY BRANDEN

Easter, colored eggs and baskets will probably be more on people's minds Saturday in High School Dist. 211 than the names of the candidates on the school board election ballot.

The district's 11 precinct polls will be open from noon to 7 p.m. for the 40,000 registered voters in the district to select two of three candidates to serve three-year terms on the school board.

Though school board election day falls on the first day of Passover and the Holy Saturday before Easter, relatively few residents have opted to vote by absentee ballot, which may be an indication of a low voter turnout tomorrow.

In past years only five per cent of the registered voters in Palatine and Schaumburg Townships have come out to vote in Dist. 211 elections.

Three men — Robert Seger, Paul Hughes and John Sowa — hope to be one of the top two vote getters tomorrow. With neither incumbent board member seeking reelection, the campaign has been almost "invisible."

Geographically, no two candidates come from the same community. Seger lives in Schaumburg, Hughes in Palatine and Sowa in Hoffman Estates. Seger and Sowa are candidates from the "south-east" end of the district while Hughes is a "north-west" district candidate.

Community support for the candidates may be a factor in the election. Though all three say they favor naming the district high school for the community in which it is located, Civic-minded factors who are campaigning to have the school named for Hoffman Estates have been working for Sowa.

As they will appear on the ballot tomorrow, the candidates and their school district interests appear below.

Paul Hughes, 41 MacArthur, Palatine. He sees utilization of teachers and school buildings as a key to community involvement in the schools and financial stability for the district. Drug problems are a responsibility of the family and the community. The school becomes involved then more than a few students are affected by the problem.

Robert Seger, 919 Canterbury, Schaumburg. He has watched the school board operate for more than a year and would like to contribute to the proceedings as a voting member. Seger says he intends to ask questions about issues which come before the board.

From his experience on both sides of a negotiating table, Seger suggests teacher negotiations be opened to the public. He would also like to see the board become problem-oriented rather than issue-oriented, he says.

John Sowa, 151 Edgement Ln., Hoffman Estates. He feels Hoffman Estates, a town which will have two Dist. 211 schools located within its boundaries in two years, should be represented on the school board.

A background in civil engineering may be useful to the district in future construction projects, Sowa says.

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Here is an unusual problem. South succeeded in going down two at his one no-trump contract. He rose with dummy's king of clubs at trick one — a correct start. He led the 10 of diamonds, covered East's king with the ace, went to dummy with the heart ace, led a second diamond, won the queen and led a third diamond to West's nine. West led the queen of hearts which was won by dummy's king. A club lost to West's ace, whereupon a heart lead gave East two heart tricks and a spade lead back ended all hope for the declarer.

At different stages in the play, South could have made one, two or three no-trump. See if you can find these lost opportunities.

The first was when East played the

The play for three no-trump would have been for South to play three rounds of diamonds immediately. This would put West on lead with the nine and his best play would be to lead ace and another club, but this would allow South two clubs, two hearts and five diamonds for a total of nine.

The chance for eight tricks occurred when West led the queen of hearts. South should let this hold. If West played his last heart South would make nine. If West shifted to ace and another club, South would only make one heart trick, two clubs and five diamonds for eight tricks.

down because I have paroxysmal tachycardia. I am hospitalized for a few hours many times every month because the attacks last three or four hours. I read your book, doctor. Can nothing be done for such as us? My doctor says I have no signs of heart trouble and he wants me to learn to live with it.

That is easy for him to say. My job is in jeopardy because of my sudden unexplained disappearances with my attacks. My doctor says medicine should not be given a good heart — so what can I do? Give up everything?

Dear Reader — I understand your problem well. For years I dealt with pilots who had no heart disease but had an irregularity of the heart that could cause them problems while flying. It was always difficult. Many heart specialists would agree that if a person really had repeated episodes of heart irregularity that incapacitated the patient, usually some medicine should be given in an effort to prevent the attacks. These are not tranquilizers or sedatives but medicines that have a direct action on the heart muscle.

Why don't you ask your doctor to arrange a consultation with a cardiologist at one of the nearest university medical centers? All reputable physicians welcome a second opinion and help with difficult cases. If for some reasons nothing can be done to improve your situation, then you will both feel better about your management and have a better relationship with each other.

Here is an interesting item for people with hands deformed by rheumatoid arthritis. Some of them can be reconstructed using silicone rubber. The joints may not return to perfect function but hands can be made to be more effective.

The operation for the hand involves removing the knuckle joint and replacing it with a hinge joint of silicone rubber. Some patients have improved to nearly 75 per cent of the original efficiency. The rubber joints are expected to outlive the patients.

Dr. James Urbanik of the orthopedic service at Duke University who has pioneered this procedure cautions, however, that patients with rheumatoid arthritis need a complete evaluation since the disease involves more than just joints. Many patients can be helped by other procedures. The operation has helped in other deformities like those occurring in accident victims or Vietnam war casualties.

Rheumatoid arthritis is not the same thing as wear-and-tear arthritis.

It's Bob Hoese's Puddle

JUDY BRANDES

A mud road now goes past the front door of Rolling Meadows High School 2101 Central Rd. In September it will be a paved driveway for school buses to use to pick up and drop off high school students.

Mud is common all over the 40-acre site. The football field which runs north and south along Barker Avenue, the baseball diamonds on the east side of the lot behind the homes on Linden Lane and the parking lots in front and behind the building all have to be graded and sodded or paved before fall.

Inside the first floor of the two-story building is still thawing. The concrete floor should be poured soon but until it is wooden planks crisscross the mud puddles.

Robert Hoese, the school's principal, performed a balancing act on one of the planks while he explained what the entrance area would look like when it is finished.

The main entrance to the gym is off to the right, the music rooms, 499-seat theater and cafeteria go off to the left, he said as his arm made a 180-degree swing.

In the contest size gym, complete with four full basketball courts, metal duct work taller than a man is now being stored. Once the duct work is installed for the air conditioned school, the gym will be painted light blue and gold. A girls' gym and gymnastics area behind the contest gym will be painted white.

Downstairs a 14-lap to the mile track with a quarter-inch rubber mat fold out bleachers and boys' and girls' locker rooms lie under the contest gym.

The little theater with a built-in catwalk over the stage can be subdivided into three lecture classrooms and two rehearsal areas in the stage and orchestra pit section.

Climbing through scaffolding where workmen were putting up the theater ceiling, Hoese talked about the new educational technique which can be used in the high school. The hallways and commons are is where student lockers will be located can be closed off from the classroom areas.

On the first floor, the painted materials library is located in the middle of the instructional area. Students and teachers can enter the library from the locker hallway, an outside stairway, the second floor audio visual center or one of the resource rooms.

When classes end, students will just disperse. They can go from classroom to classroom or classroom to resource room to the library without ever going into a hallway, Hoese explained.

Movable walls, carpeting and classrooms without doors are the new features of the instructional area. On the second floor, science labs have permanent walls and no carpeting, but students still have access to the audio-visual center without going through locker hallways.

New, too, is the plan to have the principal's office near the instructional area rather than at the front entrance to the school.

We will have the dean of students and the activities director out where students will be. My office, the attendance office and the mail room will be on the east end of the building.

The dean of students and the activities director will have offices near the L-shaped cafeteria just off the front entrance. The other end of the cafeteria and the kitchen are adjacent to the home economics and vocational education labs.

It was too muddy to walk through the vocational area, so Hoese walked back through the vocal and instrumental practice rooms to the front entrance.

This will be my temporary office when we begin to move in, he smiled proudly.

As he gazed around the room, the principal seemed to be looking at tables piled with student schedules rather than the unpainted floor risers. Each week I see progress. It's amazing to see how fast things are going and know we'll have students in here in September.

Which way is Rolling Meadows?

Super-Transit Authority Is Urged

by CYNTHIA TIVERS

Two transportation experts Wednesday called for the creation of a single planning and operating agency to be responsible for all mass transit activities in the metropolitan Chicago area.

M. P. Venema, chairman and chief executive officer of Universal Oil Products and Theodore Schuster, associate general counsel for the Burlington Northern, Inc. spoke about their proposal on the central agency during an all-day seminar on mass transportation planning in the Pick-Congress Hotel in Chicago. The conference was co-sponsored by the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry and the Geography Department of the University of Illinois, Chicago Circle.

Venema, who is chairman of the Commerce Association's public transportation committee, said his committee undertook a study to determine the future needs for more effective co-ordination of all types of ground transportation in the Chicago Metropolitan area.

THE STUDY concluded that we should establish a new regional comprehensive planning commission," Venema explained, "and that the Chicago region needs an operating company framework which can facilitate both planning and the conversion of plans into an operating transportation system."

Venema said the plan was submitted to Gov. Ogilvie who, in February, recommended to the Illinois General Assembly that a regional public transportation agency for the six-county area of North-eastern Illinois be created.

According to Schuster, who spoke as a representative of Chicago area railroads, mass transit needs drastic surgery badly.

"I can report," he said, "that a strong consensus has developed among the six affected commuter roads in Chicago about mass transit matters and policies. This consensus has ripened into a commuter line proposal about future mass transit development in the Chicago area."

SCHUSTER said the railroads believe a single transit agency should be created to be responsible for all mass transit activities in the region. He talked about a position paper published by the six commuter railroads called "A Proposal to Create a Coordinated and Unified Chicago Metropolitan Area Transportation System" (CMATS).

Schuster said CMATS recognizes that the only logical way of doing justice to commuters, public transportation agencies and private mass transit companies is to merge private and public components of mass transit into a coordinated public system where mass transit objectives can be uniformly applied to all.

"The CMATS plan," Schuster explained, "calls for a strong central regional agency to be operated by a small board of professional business managers who are representative of the region as a whole."

THE AGENCY, Schuster said, should be given the means by which liaison with local governmental groups throughout the region is guaranteed and required. He added that the agency should include competent transportation planners.

"The central agency should be given the sole power to apply for Federal and state grants in order that wasteful competition for these funds can be eliminated between individual mass transit operators."

"The central agency," Schuster continued, "should be given the power and be required to set up an orderly system of grant priorities so that betterments can be tailored to people needs rather than determined by competition between trans-sit systems themselves."

SCHUSTER also said the central agency should be given the power to take over, at stated intervals, all publicly owned mass transit systems within the region. "Private systems likewise should be taken into the system, either by purchase, lease or operating contract."

According to the CMATS plan the regional transit agency should have the power to set fares and schedules and to operate mass transit facilities itself. If revenues fall short of meeting operational expenses the agency should be given supportive taxing power, according to the CMATS plan.

The plan, however, does not say where the burden of the taxing power should fall.

1,081 Injury Cases Disposed

Circuit Court Judge Paul F. Edward has disposed of 1,081 personal injury cases during the first eight weeks of an intensified program aimed at reducing the backlog of suits, court officials announced Wednesday.

Edward, named in February by Chief Judge John S. Boyle to head a special court to clean up the backlog, heard a total of 1,321, of which only 22 were returned to trial call. He dismissed for lack of prosecution or by motion more than 969 cases. Fifty-eight were dismissed by prior order.

Boyle praised Edward's performance calling it a "remarkable start."

The backlog now stands at 31,615 cases.

Public Schools Have Priority

When the Illinois General Assembly begins grappling with the issue of state aid to non-public schools, as it will sometime later this spring, we think the legislators should keep several things in mind.

First, the state's primary responsibility in the area of education is to the public schools. The new Illinois Constitution directs the state to provide "an efficient system of high quality public educational institutions" and also says the state has the primary responsibility for financing that system of education.

Second, the Constitution specifically forbids the use of public funds "to help support or sustain any school, academy, seminary, college, university or other literary or scientific institution controlled by any church or sectarian denomination whatever."

Third, the recent ruling by Cook County Circuit Judge Walter P. Dahl that personal property taxes on corporations are unconstitutional will remove substantial sums of money from school districts and will worsen the plight of many districts including several financially distressed districts in this area.

We clearly acknowledge that non-public schools in Illinois face a crisis with many on the brink of extinction and others already closed.

But given the particular considerations mentioned earlier, we do not think Illinois can provide help to them this year.

The state's Elementary and Secondary Non-Public Schools Study Commission, chaired by Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, recently proposed a system of state aid to parents of non-public school students that would cost the state $30 million a year.

Because the proposal does not provide direct aid to non-public schools, it probably could meet the requirements of the new Constitution. Parents, rather than schools, would be receiving the aid.

But we do not think the state can avoid its responsibility to the public school systems and until they are financially stable and providing the "high quality" education required by the Constitution, available funds for education must be directed to them.

If the Dahl ruling is upheld, the need for additional aid from the state becomes even more evident.

We recently endorsed a state aid proposal offered by State Superintendent Michael J. Bakalis that would have provided funds on a temporary basis to allow some non-public schools to gradually phase out while also providing aid to the public schools that would absorb the students.

Because such a plan does not call for a permanent commitment by the state to two school systems, we think it makes much more sense than a $30 million a year plan.

In view of the Dahl ruling, however, it is unlikely that even that kind of plan can be executed.

We think the facts are clear, as cruel as they may seem to non-public schools. But public schools need more money and the Constitution says the state must provide that money.

If the money is available, it must go to the public schools and if it is not available, the state must find it.

Teacher Aide Standards Important

There has been much discussion about teacher aides in MD Prospect School District 57 and particularly at Fairview School. I feel three important points have been overlooked.

1. The main reason we have no teacher aides at Fairview School this year is that to the best of my knowledge, no attempt has been made to recruit any. Surely there are willing and qualified mothers in the area who would be glad to volunteer some time if they were asked. Also Mrs. Donald Bedford has been Fairview School's coordinator for the Volunteer Bureau this year. She would have made every effort to fill any staff requests for teacher aides — if she had received any.

2. In formulating its policy regarding teacher aides, the District 57 school board had little choice but to comply with state law and the ruling of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction. If a school district disregards state recognition requirements it may lose not only its recognition but also financial aid from the state. When people point to other districts and say, "but they use high school kids and mothers with no college hours," they are like the child who tried to convince his parents with the argument, "but all the other kids are doing it!"

3. The main question to be considered, in my opinion, is "What is best for our children?" Each year efforts are made to recruit the best qualified teachers available. I feel it is also important to maintain high standards for volunteers assisting in the instructional program. They are working with impressively young children and have a direct influence on their learning experiences and attitudes. I feel volunteers working directly with children should be mature, stable, healthy people who enjoy children and are enthusiastic about learning. Willing volunteers who do not meet the 30-college-hour requirement can help in many ways other than instructing children. Lowering or eliminating state requirements for teacher aides may please some potential volunteers, but is it in the best interests of our children? This, after all, should be our primary concern.

The FENCE POST
Letters to the Editor

Helpful Coverage

Square Dance Coverage Excellent

We would like to take this opportunity to express our thanks for the excellent "coverage" your Square Dance Editor, Tommie Scialtitti, has accorded our HAPPY TWIRLER Square Dance Club, sponsored by the Congregational Church of Des Plaines. You may not know that this club is unique in several ways as compared with other such organizations. We have no constitution, no officers, no business meetings and consequently the members are free from the headaches and disagreements that frequently plague other clubs. Their only responsibility is to attend dances, wear their HAPPY TWIRLER badges and "have fun." All the receipts are directed to the church Building Fund or other worthwhile projects selected by Dr. James Spicer, Ph.D., Minister of the church.

Miss Scialtitti has been very helpful in publicizing an unusual event that will occur April 18, when a Square Dance will be held, following a buffet and "renewal of vows" ceremony celebrating our Golden Wedding Anniversary. We are informed on good authority, that this is the

Leaning Tower Of Appeasa

Remap Impact On Suburbs

by ED MURNANE
State Editor

The several hundred or so United States congressmen, including the 24 in Illinois, who are still wondering what their districts will look like for the 1972 elections, may decide to give themselves a stronger voice in the redistricting process.

Currently, redistricting of congressional and state legislative districts is in the hands of the various state legislatures, with the congressmen at the mercy of the home state politicians.

Every 10 years, following the federal census, districts must be redrawn to comply with new population figures for the states.

In some states, the question of redistricting is a volatile one. For example, nine states will lose at least one seat in the House of Representatives because the population of the state decreased since the 1960 census.

Depending on how the state legislators draw new lines for districts in those states, they can decide which incumbent congressmen are going to be out of jobs when election time comes around.

In Illinois, the problem is somewhat similar, although the state will continue to have 24 seats in Congress for the next 10 years.

But because of the declining population in Chicago and the corresponding rise in the suburbs, the ratio of city-suburban-downstate seats must be changed.

On paper, the city should lose a seat and the suburbs should gain one, which would give the Republicans a 13-11 edge, rather than the current 12-12 split.

But what happens on paper doesn't necessarily happen in the legislature and Democrats will do their best to gerrymander the district lines to preserve the 12-12 split.

Because that's the practice in so many states, legislation has recently been introduced in Washington to dilute the power of the state legislatures.

Rep. James M. Hanley, D-N.Y., has introduced a bill that would place the power likely have a 3-2 Democratic edge and would be expected to redistrict in favor of the Democrats.

But the Hanley proposal would have one likely benefit — it probably would speed up the redistricting process. The new Illinois Constitution provides for a similar commission, with nine members, as a last resort if the legislature cannot agree on a redistricting plan. It is expected that redistricting this year will be decided by the commission since the legislature has not yet moved off dead center on the issue.

That means the 24 congressmen probably will not know what their districts will look like until very late this year and shortly after, they will have to think about next year's spring primary elections.

By going to a commission at the very beginning of the redistricting process, it could be completed much earlier, which would be much fairer to the congressmen involved.

Hanley said his proposal has met the approval of Rep. Emmanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee. That would indicate it has a good chance for passage this year.

There's no guarantee that Hanley's bill would eliminate gerrymandering but it might be worth passage if for no other reason than speeding up the process.

State Report

er to redistrict in the hands of a five-man commission in each state. One commission member would be appointed by the leaders of each party in the two houses of the legislature, with the fifth made by the state Supreme Court.

"The bipartisan appointments, coupled with a representative from the Court, should keep things above board," Hanley said.

That may not necessarily be true since state courts in many states are as politically motivated as are the legislatures. In Illinois, the Supreme Court is Democratic controlled and a commission such as that proposed by Hanley would most

Dilemma Of Calley Verdict

Again, fuel has been added to the fires of radical dissent in this nation, as President Nixon has made a conscious decision to bend to public pressure and remove the fate of Lt. Calley's case from the judicial process. I wonder what the public's response would have been had Richard Speck or some other convicted mass slayer been allowed relative freedom for the two or three years of the appeal process without so much as having to apply for or post bond. Those who demand that we have faith in the "system" and give the courts a chance seem to be cutting their own ideological throats by asking us to overlook the verdict of a duly constituted military court martial.

Perhaps the Angela Davis crowd have struck a sensitive part of our corporate conscience. Perhaps justice is yours in America only if what you do and the beliefs you hold are in line with current popular opinion. Perhaps there is little reason for a black dissident to look for justice. The loopholes in the system which the "establishment" have tried to close don't even begin to compare to the express system opened by President Nixon's response on behalf of Lt. Calley.

Perhaps we should face the fact that

Thank You To Police

I would publicly like to thank to the two Police Officers who came to our aid in finding our son on Sunday morning, March 28.

We were visiting friends for the weekend and the children went to the park to play. When three of them came home and Glenn was missing, we all went searching for him. When we reached the park and saw the creek with the rapid current, I immediately thought he must have been in the water and needless to say, we were all hysterical. It made us feel quite secure to have the two officers helping us in our search for our little boy. He was lost and we found him walking back to the park another way. A big "THANK YOU" to the Buffalo Grove Police Department.

Wayne J. Anthony

we are involved in a war which denies conscience and condones as "good" what we would normally abhor. Perhaps the Christian absolutes to which we cling and about which I preach each week should become part of our lives and help us to realize that Lt. Calley is guilty of murder, according to the jury, and while we as a nation should be held responsible for his being in My Lai, we cannot be held responsible for his criminal acts.

Bored With Ecology

I for one am getting sick of reading mountains of garbage about the "quality of life" and people getting hysterical about the "environment." Your paper is one of the worse offenders. It seems like there hasn't been an issue where you aren't crying about so-called "open space" or bad water or muggy air or too few playgrounds. Isn't there other important news to report? Can't you find other topics to editorialize about? Such as relief for near-bankrupt taxpayers who won't be able to AFFORD living with or without "open space" and water and air and playgrounds unless this public tax boondoggle ENDS??? Come on, get with it!

Environment Effort Is Supported

I have long been impressed by Padlock Publications genuine concern for and commitment to the preservation and enhancement of our environment.

There have been a number of fine articles and editorials, but two recent examples prompt me to write and express my admiration and appreciation. I refer to your recent editorial on the urgent need for accommodating the present and future "open space" needs of metropolitan Chicago; this was an exceptionally well-reasoned and perceptive piece which was

Issue Raised

Last year the Village of Palatine informed its residents that they were going to improve our garbage system by requiring them to buy and use special plastic and/or paper bags. These bags were to better serve the people and lower the garbage rates.

On these bags were the words, "the Village of Palatine," (an appropriate place to show that the people of Palatine think of their village), and the rules and regulations printed twice.

We were not asked if we wanted these bags or if we were dissatisfied with our present garbage system. Besides being inferior and detrimental to our ecology, these bags are ridiculously priced at ten cents each when they are produced for two cents each. The Laissez Faire theory seems to best describe this practice.

The first plastic bags (they were tan in color) were chemically treated to encourage four-legged animals to stay away from them. They were discontinued because a few people complained that the smell of these bags (due to being chemically treated) bothered their asthma. No consideration was given to the majority of the people who do not have asthma.

The Village had failed to reveal the facts as to the possible consequences that may result from the use of these chemically treated bags. Not to mention the fact that this warning would not fit on the bags because the rules and regulations take up one side of it.

So now when these plastic bags are stored outside of your house, unwelcome visitors eat their way thru these bags and having no manners, leave the mess behind for you to clean up. This in itself has been a boon to the increased sales of these plastic bags.

In a recent article in the Herald on March 28, titled "Avoid Rat Problem with Cleanliness," Mr. Novick stated that "the bags whether plastic or paper should be chemically treated with rat repellants and closed tight with a sealing device when full." Yes, they should be. Buy why aren't they?

If you are disgusted with our present garbage system and want something to be done about it, go out and vote April 20. Show People Care. Elect Merwin E. Sopher, Donald M. Phares, and Dennis J. Collins. They will and can do something about it.

'Adults Only' Swim

With regard to Mrs. Cunningham's opposition (Herald, April 1) to the nightly adult swim at our outdoor pools this summer, I feel compelled to take issue with her absurd logic. Whenever I "wonder why there's so much vandalism," never in a million years could I reach the conclusion that it had anything to do with a nightly hour-and-a-half adults only swim in a community's local parks. To suggest that there is even a connection is an insult to our young people. Not for one minute would I expect all the kids to be in agreement with the time allotted for adults. On the other hand, not for one minute would I accept their disagreement with the program as an excuse and/or a reason for vandalism. Anyone (under 18 yrs.) "who wants to swim that badly" (to borrow Mrs. C.'s words) can do so during any one of the other many hours designated for them.

I might add that as one who found the whole concept of an adults only swim an extremely appealing luxury; that now, after reading this resident's objections, I'm beginning to look upon it as a necessity. It would appear that there are a few adults we should be — "trying to keep busy in this town."

Here's hoping the adults only swim works.

Drug Abuse Progress

In February you did an article on our group featuring Mr. Leonard Friedman, for which we thank you very much. We are sorry that you limited the article to appear only in your Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg, Hanover Park editions. We feel that the Padlock papers reach many of the surrounding suburbs and the issue of drug abuse is as timely in Arlington Heights as here.

We wish to state that since the article we have made some progress in our work; of course, not as much as we wish. A dog is in training at the present time and our prime concern at the moment is WILL THIS BE A FEASIBLE PROGRAM?

At this time we would like to state that Senator Percy has helped us greatly by securing literature for us. We appreciate the time and effort that he went through to get this for a non-political group.

Business Today

by HARRY HOBBS

LONDON (UPI) — The Rolls Royce group is bankrupt, but the Rolls-Royce auto division booms.

Hands already are poised to nurse the budget record order book for autos, the expansion program and secret engines being developed by the makers of the world's most prestigious cars.

Potential bidders already have an eye on the new generation of proven heavy-duty engines pioneered in the Rolls auto division, experts said.

PRECISION engineering and design genius were bedrocks upon which Rolls-Royce built its fame. The car still retains the quality that a worldwide public mainly links with the name, although autos these days account for only a tiny part of the group's total business.

The government-appointed manager and official receiver who must preserve the assets publicly has promised that the successful and profitable car division "will go on."

Worldwide demand for Rolls-Royce cars still is building, a senior official said. Domestic buyers must wait for 18 months for delivery of an auto ordered now. Overseas customers feed off a rationing system. Only in the United States are dealers allowed to deliver from stock.

ROLLS OUTPUT in 1970 set a record at about 2,000 deliveries, worth $36 million. A five-year expansion program aims for an annual output of 2,500 of the hand-built cars, each taking eight to 10 weeks to complete.

Of all the cars Rolls has built in 65 years, better than half still are motoring on the world's highways. The ticking of the dashboard clock often still is the loudest noise a Rolls makes.

Industry circles see a potential buyer in British Leyland Motor Corp. (BLMC). It makes Jaguar, Rover, Triumph, Daimler, Austin, MG, Morris and Wolseley cars.

Wall St. Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Apart from short-term fluctuations, the trend of the equity market is likely to continue upward," Invesco Counsel Inc. believes. The company says warning signs will be the return of the individual investor and a rising tide in business activity accompanied by an increase in money requirements. In the mean time, the firm urges investors to take advantage of the "conundrum" created by the present situation.

One technical department isn't unduly worried. "Sloan and Staff Inc. notes. The company believes the near-term outlook for the economy is around the present stock price levels. In general a cautious and selective investment strategy is advised," it adds.

The stock market is now in the "post-boom, pre-recession" phase, according to the firm. "The investment industry has been too much talk and not enough action," it says. "The short-term share price is being driven back into a 'bull' market. However, Dines says, the long-term picture remains 'trumpantly bull'."

The industry continues to push slow. "The P. H. Hutton & Co. says. The company says volume indications have been "moderate" with heavy trading in the futures. "On a long-term basis, the market seems to be more active than the selling of the stock market," it says. "There is no reason to depart from a conservative market approach," Hutton adds.

Tickets for the reception may be obtained from Mrs. Lee Roudin at 279-1111.

Personal Finance

by RICHARD PUTNAM PRATT

The art of salesmanship in America has become an interesting peaks over the hills. Sales of oil, underwater lots, and the Golden Bridge have all been land-grabs.

But the sheer longevity, the zeal of the encyclopedia salesman is deserving of a closer watch. Most American homes are deep in books, volumes whose circulation is to a large degree a bookcase of books.

No one will deny the educational value of a resource that distills the totality of human knowledge, but there is such a thing as overkill.

We all gave up owning our own cows when we found that milk could be purchased rapidly. We still buy encyclopedias, however, oblivious to the excess of our bookishness.

The difference is in salesmanship. If cows were peddled with the verve and imagination lavished on encyclopedias, every two-car garage would harbor at least one bovine.

It might not be so bad if these salesmen would stick to selling. The buyer with no resistance must learn to live with his weakness. Too often, however, encyclopedia buyers have been conned with the sleaziest of tricks:

• THE SALESMEN are almost never salesmen. They are educational consultants, takers of public opinion surveys, or field testers of a new product.

• ENCYCLOPEDIAS are commonly offered at prices seemingly too good to pass up. But then shipping costs, finance charges, and the price of 10 years' worth of supplements can boost the overall cost to startling levels.

• BUYERS ARE often promised a sizable rebate for every new customer they can find. Yet experience has shown that such referral schemes most often fail completely, leaving the buyer to pay the full freight.

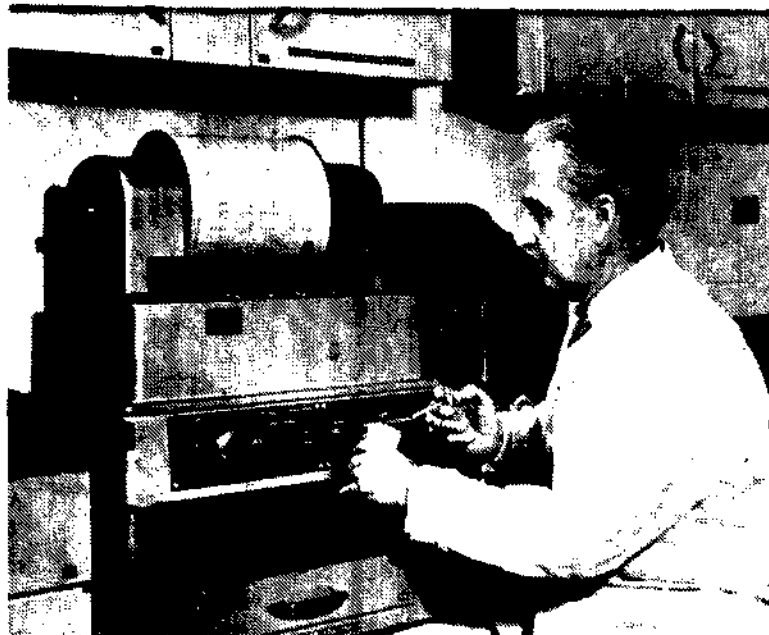

Rottenest of all is the salesman who takes advantage of ignorance or language difficulties to coerce the poor into buying his books as a guarantee of their children's success in school.

There are several ways to combat such situations.

The first is obvious. Don't let any salesman into your home until you know what he is selling. If it's an encyclopedia and you don't want any, close the door.

If you do want an encyclopedia, consider buying a used set. They age very slowly, and supplements that update them annually are easy to come by. Check the classified ads. Prices are usually realistic, so you can benefit from what was someone else's mistake.

Environment Heads Report

GREENWICH, Conn., —American Can Company's role in the day-to-day living of the American family and its efforts to help improve the environment are highlighted in the company's 1970 annual report.

The environment section of the report notes that in 1970 American Can expended $4.5-million in pollution control systems in its plants, exclusive of manpower. In addition, the company established a Corporate Environmental Affairs Department.

Early this year the company began collecting used cans in four can plants in Washington and Oregon, as part of a cooperative industry recycling program, which has now been extended to other can plants throughout the nation, according to the report.

American Can's Halsey, Ore., pulp and paper mill, pictured on the inside back cover of the report, has been cited by government and civic leaders as the most environmentally-sound mill in the country. The plant was conceived several years before ecology became a household word.

The theme of the report, "American Can and the American Family," illustrates the apparent as well as the subtle ways the company's products and services blend into the normal life style of a family.

In the report's message to stockholders, William F. May, chairman and president, noted that the company's net sales rose to $1.84-billion last year. Earnings per share were $3.55, compared with $3.48 for 1969.

Net sales composition for the corporation's three business groups last year were Packaging $1,243,431,000, up to 6.8 per cent; Consumer and Service Industries $393,697,000, up 7.4 per cent and Venture Businesses $201,018,000, up 4.2 per cent from 1969.

The company has facilities in Barrington and Elk Grove Village.

The Lighter Side

by Dick West

WASHINGTON (UPI)—In this hirsute age, vast numbers of men have undertaken the growing of beards. The results, if you will forgive my frankness, have not been universally glorious.

All too often, whiskers emerging from cheek and chin are scrubby, discolored, ragged and lackluster. The beard fails utterly in its primary mission, which is to enhance the features of the face.

In the hope that it might help alleviate the problem, I obtained an interview with Dr. Gerhardt von Follicle, the eminent authority on facial foliage, and asked for some pointers on beard growing.

"THE FIRST requisite is to have your skin analyzed and classified," he said. "Unless you know what type of skin your beard is growing in, the project is foredoomed.

"You need to ascertain whether your skin is alkaline or acid, porous or compact, organic or mineral, fertile or lacking in nutrients. Only then can you make proper preparations for raising beautiful beards.

I said, "What kind of skin is best for growing beards?"

"Generally speaking, beards grow best in skin that is slightly acid, medium textured, has a high calcium content, is exposed to the morning sun and is well drained.

"IF YOUR SKIN is light and friable, you probably can grow a sturdy beard with no more than occasional applications of fertilizer. But for heavy, plastic skin, you may need to add humus.

"Drainage is particularly important. If moisture stands on your face, forming puddles around the base of the beard, you may have trouble with mildew, which is one of the most common causes of beard failure.

"The proper amount of sunlight also is vital. A beard may grow rapidly in the shade, but it almost invariably will be spindly and susceptible to blight.

"For anyone with a cleft chin, my advice is to stick to sideburns."

Educator Group Declines Endorsement Of Candidates

The executive committee of Educators for Political Action (EPA) announced yesterday it would not endorse candidates this year in school board races.

However, an informed source reported a group of teachers identifying themselves as EPA members have been conducting an organized campaign for some of the candidates.

The candidates they are campaigning for are Erwin Poklaski, running for a three-year term in Elk Grove Township Elementary School Dist. 39 and Richard Bachmayer and Robert Winkle, running for two three-year terms for High School Dist. 214.

The EPA, which sponsored candidate nights for school board candidates in districts 21, 23, 25, 26, 57, 59, 214 and 512 in Wheeling and Elk Grove townships, was formed earlier this spring as a group of politically active educators.

A STATEMENT, released by Richard Chierico, a member of the executive committee, asserted that the programs of allowing candidates "the opportunity to present to the public their views" had succeeded.

"Tomorrow (Saturday) is election day and EPA urges every citizen who is a registered voter to work for and cast a ballot for the candidates of their choice in the elementary, high school and junior college elections in their area," it states.

Before the forums began, members of the executive council indicated they were undecided on whether to endorse candidates. EPA officials stressed yesterday no endorsement would be made this year.

A TRI-ORIFICE decorated goose egg requires infinite skill and patience to make. This one was made to order for an "angel" collector.

OUTSTANDING SHOWER gift or wedding remembrance is this tiny bridal party scene, complete even to the minister on the church steps.

Meet A Couple Of Good Eggers

by ELLA NOR RIVES

Welcome to the enchanting, miniature world of the egg.

The goose that laid the golden egg was a clumsy amateur artist compared to the egg people who take the shells, embellish them with pearls and jewels, and set charming miniature scenes within them.

Two Des Plaines women who pursue this artistic craft both for pleasure and profit are Mrs. John W. Hull and Mrs. Herbert Larsen. The pleasure and satisfaction are unlimited, the profit, compared to the hours of work involved, is negligible.

In terms of the craft, the artists are actually called "egg-ers." In terms of quality, Mrs. Hull and Mrs. Larsen are more than that — they are good egg-ers.

LET'S TAKE A peek into the teeny, calorie-reduced worlds they have created.

Inside one of their vertical goose eggs, seen through its long oval opening, two tiny gold deer serenely graze in a bed of moss beside a little twig tree. Gold braid, opalescent sequins and rows of pearls embellish the outside of the egg.

In a horizontal goose egg, a small colorful pheasant, in a mossy field, watches over a tiny pine-cone section nest. Three little pearls represent the eggs.

A third goose egg, perhaps the most difficult to create, has three vertical orifices, like heavenly oval windows, each framing a small gold angel playing a golden instrument. They seem to float on a base of angel-hair, each backed in lace. The exterior is trimmed in gold braid and pearls, and crowned with overlapping circlets of tiny seed pearls.

"I'd hate to estimate the time we put in on that one," said Mrs. Hull. "I think I'd faint."

EASTER, OF COURSE, is a busy season for the two women, with both sacred and secular scenes dominating their egg world. Children delight in the tiny bunmes and chicks peeking out of egg homes.

Christmas is another busy time. Miniature creches and tiny wooden figures tell the Christmas story within the confines of the egg.

The women have been experimenting with egg decoupage, decorating empty chicken eggs with cutouts of tiny delicate flowers and vines in pretty spring colors. Suspended by pipe cleaners from bare branches, these colorful little eggs make a gay spring centerpiece or room decoration.

Miriam Hull and Helen Larsen work as a team because it's more fun to work together than alone. "When there are two of you you set a day aside and have a goal. You let nothing else interfere," said Helen.

"And one of us can start an egg and the other finish it," added Helen.

Mrs. Hull and Mrs. Larsen were back-door neighbors 15 years ago. Both have a flair for artsy-craftsy pursuits. Helen has been creating three-dimensional dried flower pictures for many years. Miriam had at one time made 40 decorated eggs for a church bazaar. They began decorating eggs together right after Christmas 1968, getting an early start for the following Christmas.

In October, 1969, they launched a series of home boutique parties called the "Arts and Crafts Showcase," in which they showed and sold the work of six artists. Their own decorated eggs were a feature of the boutique.

THE TWO WOMEN now market their artistic eggs in the Sugar 'n Spice Shop in Des Plaines and in Hearthside Interiors in Barrington.

One of their biggest problems is finding a good source of supply. Goose eggs, which they use most often, are readily available only in the spring. Chicken eggs seem to be getting more flimsy all the time. Quail eggs, petite and highly valued by collectors, are difficult to get any time.

"We learned the hard way," said Mrs. Hull. "We practiced on chicken eggs. The shell is really not as delicate as you think each thing you add to it — glue, fabric, braid — makes it stronger."

The egg is emptied through an opening in the shell that will later be enlarged to frame the interior scene. A curved manicure scissors is used, not so much to cut the outline of the desired opening as to control the way the shell is breaking.

PAINT, GLUE, tiny cutouts, velvet pieces in soft colors, burlap, lace, gold braid, jewelry of all types, especially pearls and sequins, may be used to adorn the outside. Jewelry findings in gold or silver are used as a decorative base to support the egg.

The interior scene utilizes natural materials as much as possible — sedum, moss, mushrooms, strawflowers, parts of pine cones — all dried and treated with a fixative. Miriam and Helen are always on the lookout, too, for tiny men, women, children, animals to populate their egg homes.

Special occasions may be forever captured in egg artistry: a wedding, a graduation, a special trip, even a ski weekend. A small family heirloom may be mounted in a most imaginative way, memories of childhood may be preserved in a tiny mounted toy.

It's a small world when you're an egg-er. It takes infinite patience and a great deal of time. But the results are artistic, tiny and absolutely delightful.

Her Memories Of Easter

by MARY B. GOOD

Easter, Washington, D. C., 1941: The annual Easter egg roll on the White House lawn meant that every adult had to be accompanied by a child.

The story gets better as the years roll on, with the fabrication that my sisters and I sat on President Roosevelt's lap with our fabulous collection of egg-rolling race trophies.

Several years later, when the family moved to Chicago, we took part in swiensonka (sven SON ka). That's when people took their Easter food to St. Hyacinth's Church at 3636 W. Wolfram, so the priest could bless it. (They still have swiensonka there, too!)

It was traditional with our Polish people to line a basket for swiensonka with straw and lovingly set in the baranek (butter shaped like a lamb). The butter lamb was a symbol of Jesus, but the idea goes back to the Jews, who sacrificed a lamb during their Passover ceremony. Some connect the Jewish paschal lamb sacrifice with Christ's sacrifice on the cross.

THE BARANEK in the swiensonka basket was surrounded by homemade beet horseradish and kielbasa sausage, hard-boiled eggs and bread. The basket was always covered, of course, with a white linen napkin. Every bit of the blessed food had to be eaten, every crumb. All remains, including the egg shells, were burned.

I have memories of hauling the food to the church in a little red wagon, but mother says it wasn't as arduous as that.

These isolated incidents carry personal significance as very vivid symbols of childhood Easter warmth. And what are yours?

In the old neighborhood, the Polish babushkas (grandmothers) made hot cross buns on Shrove Tuesday and often during the Easter season as well. Each special little cake had a cross of icing on its top. The Greeks and Portuguese have a similar goodie, but theirs is a round, flat, cross-marked loaf decorated with Easter eggs.

THE REASON PEOPLE use eggs is because they symbolize nature awakening, the new life of spring that returns about Easter time.

Dying eggs is nothing new. The ancient Persians often dyed eggs as gifts to friends. It is said that they believed the earth had hatched from a giant egg. People in Germany color eggs green on Maundy Thursday and carry the eggs around with them for good luck. In some European countries, folks prefer red colored eggs, to represent the joy of the Resurrection.

That the Easter bunny brings eggs is a belief sprouting from a German legend. The story goes that a poor woman dyed some eggs during a famine and hid them in a nest for her children. Just as the children discovered the nest, a big rabbit leaped aside. The story spread that the rabbit brought the eggs. Chocolate marshmallow eggs and jelly beans are an extension of the egg legend.

ALMOST EVERY FEMALE has little girl memories of some pretty Easter dress she once wore, perhaps made by her mother. Maybe she had a wide-brimmed white hat or a pair of black patent leather shoes. New spring clothes used to be a part of the Easter parade to church, especially before hippies. (Father used to call the clothes horses who only came to church once a year: "Easter chicks.")

Many customs connected with Easter emerge from pagan festivals of spring. In Sweden, for instance, houses are decorated with birch twigs trimmed with chicken feathers.

A game of fire between boys and girls in Hungary sends lighted sticks flying through the air like pinwheels in a fireworks display.

The meanings of some old customs have been lost through the years. In early days, English children, dressed in their Easter best, enjoyed "clipping the church" on Easter morning. They formed a circle around the building with their backs to it. By joining hands they clipped, or embraced, the church.

NEW LITURGICAL WAYS have all but eliminated extensive penance and self-denial as a means of increasing virtue. But in strictly religious Catholic households, adults used to undertake a 40-day Lenten fast and prayer period (to recall Christ's 40-day fast in the desert). Mother anticipated breaking the fast with a beautiful, big Easter breakfast. The feast made the whole family feel proud that they had accomplished a strenuous physical and spiritual preparation for Easter.

Will your own children have a set of Easter memories?

WHEN SHE GROWS UP, will she remember the Easter egg hunt that is a cherished part of so many childhoods? Mary B. Good in the adjoining article reminisces about her own childhood Easters and relates some of the customs that have the egg at their basis.

Offers Abortion Bill

Rep. Bruce Douglas, D-Chicago, has introduced a watered-down abortion bill (HB1532) in the Illinois House of Representatives.

The bill would make abortion legal in the first 12 weeks of pregnancy.

Lazy Daisies Show At Indian Lakes

"Lazy Daisies" is the theme of the first annual spring luncheon and fashion show planned by St. Ansgar's Council of Catholic Women, Hanover Park. The show will be held Saturday, April 24, at Indian Lakes Country Club in Bloomington with fashions from Toni's Convention Clothes of Hanover Park and Bensenville.

General chairman is Mrs. David Latimer and co-chairman is Mrs. Leigh Helin. Committee members include Mrs. George Grafer, Mrs. Louis Bury, Mrs. James Snyder, Mrs. Wayne Roethlis, Mrs. Donald Chlari and Mrs. Ernest Orsky.

Tickets, at $15, and table reservations are available by calling 837-6680.

if performed by a licensed physician in a licensed facility.

Douglas withdrew an earlier bill which extended to 20 weeks after conception the deadline for abortion, if performed in a licensed hospital by a licensed physician consulting with an obstetrical specialist and one other physician.

A legislative aide to Rep. Douglas, Mrs. Edwin Smith, said that the climate for abortion reform is such at this time that HB1532 is more acceptable. (A similar abortion bill died in House committee just two weeks ago.)

Mrs. Smith said that the 12-week limit was a guideline presented in the three-judge federal court ruling that declared the Illinois abortion law unconstitutional.

The revised abortion bill introduced by Rep. Douglas, a Chicago dentist, is in the legislative hopper, but no committee hearing has yet been set.

Go All Out For Earth Day; Juniors Get In Shape

Members of Arlington Heights Junior Women's Club are getting their legs in shape for Earth Week.

The Juniors are planning to ride their bikes instead of running their polluting powered V.I. autos to and from the supermarket, park, school, bluebird meetings and other duties. It calls for a lot of leg work.

The Juniors' calendar of events which is being carried out in cooperation with the village's massive Earth Week activities, April 19 through April 21, include Thursday as Bike Ecology Day.

According to Mrs. Robert Qualls, publicity chairman, the Juniors are encouraging commuters to ride bikes if convenient or to walk to the train.

FOR THOSE AT HOME during the day, a bike ride with children and friends is being organized at four neighborhood parks: Pioneer Park, 500 S. Fernandez; Frontier Park, 1933 N. Kenilworth; Recreation Park, 500 E. Mine; and Hasbrook, 731 W. Maude.

Juniors will be at the parks to direct the ride and serve refreshments to thirsty bikers.

The bike ride will commence from the park at 9:45 a.m. A drawing for a free bike accessory will be held at each location.

Wednesday of Earth Week, the Juniors are promoting Think White Day.

geared to busy shoppers, who are reminded to buy only white paper products (and only beverage bottles which are returnable, they add).

On Friday, the women will take part in "Plant a Tree Day." They are encouraging neighbors and friends to plant a tree or shrub on this day. The Juniors will plant trees and start seeds for later transplant in the village's park.

WAIT! THE GIRLS don't stop with bicycle ecology, consumerism or beautification. They'll be supervising activities at the glass and newspaper recycling drop-offs.

Those parking lot locations are Rand Junior High School, 2600 N. Arlington Heights Road, 1530 S. Highland, and the commuter parking lot at the northwest corner of Sigwalt and Arlington Heights Roads. The recycling drop-off centers will be taking all recyclables on Saturday, April 24 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: Is the spring the only time one can know there are termites around — when they start swarming? — Marian K.

If termite damage was only discovered because they were swarming, that would be much too simple. You would get an exterminator at once to check. The exterminator could tell you quickly whether or not you have them — and act accordingly. The trouble comes when they work silently and do extensive damage before being discovered. One friend had an area under a dining table fall in before knowing there were termites in the house.

Unless one knows how to look for traces of termites — the tiny tubes they build in which to travel — experts should be called in periodically to check. No termites no charge. A new house can be just as vulnerable as an old one. The only new house we ever lived in was attacked. The workmen dumped all the excess wood scraps under the concrete porch. It was a direct invitation for termites.

Dear Dorothy: In regard to removing stains from teapots, as requested from a correspondent, I use a bleach-and-water solution, making it weaker or stronger, according to the resistance of the stain. — Minna B. Hoffmann

Dear Dorothy: Is there any hope of saving men's trousers that have worn threadbare at the bottom of the cuff in-back? — D. D.

It's not a difficult job, though a bit tedious. Rip the cuff, then change the bottom of the cuff so that it comes up about half an inch on the inside. Put press-on tape over the worn part, not deep enough so that it shows at the bottom of the cuff. Then remake the cuff, as it was before. It will be half an inch shorter on the inside. Just press carefully when done.

Especially for the Family

Coats, Suits Expand

The coat that's just a coat, the skirt-and-jacket suit — where are they this spring? More often, not, they've abandoned their traditional roles to become part of a costume.

A coat adds skirt and top or dress, and probably, pants too, while even the most basic and classic suit is likely to show up with its own ready-coordinated blouse or skirt.

When it appears, the separate coat is usually more than just a coat. It goes the other way, adding to fashion the extra dimension of protection against spring showers.

Separately, as rain-shine companions or as costume components, the season's coats present a new approach to the classics. Reefers, trenchies, boy coats shape up smartly for spring.

Wrap coats provide soft coverage. Belts mark waistlines, for coats with fit and flare. Or, belts rise high, just under the bustline, creating an Empire effect.

Suits with lightly fitted or easy cardigan-like jackets take a classic view of spring. However, jacket necklines may be widened to show off a turtle or high crew neck, or perhaps a softly flowing tie.

Because sleeves, big and bouffant, are fashion news in blouses, some suit jackets go sleeveless, becoming vests or long jackets.

Hacking jackets, blazers and boleros provide some of the newer ways to suit spring fashionably. Other jackets show off petky peplums.

STRING PAINTING

by Marilyn Hollman

To make a string painting, you'll need a large sheet of paper, tempera paint, and string. Fold the paper in half. Dip several inches of one end of an 18 inch string into the paint. Put the wet end between the two halves of the paper. Hold the other end. Slowly pull the string out, wiggling it around as you pull. It will make a design.

When it dries, add to your design by using other colors of paint. For variety, you may want to use yarn, thread, and heavy twine in place of string.

The Potting Shed

by Mary B. Good

Last weekend was made to order for gardening buffs. All the neighbors made it their first day out this season, raking debris from the lawns and checking the place for water damage.

I got shamed into the garden. The first garden thing I did was to clean out the fireplace for wood ashes compost ingredient for soil building.

I hadn't yet put away the Christmas tree ornaments, so I salvaged a straw wreath, also for use in the compost pile. Since my husband has intimated that I'm going to burn the house down with the heat of my compost pile (it rests against the house), the first order of business was educating it.

I DECIDED TO USE the Ruth Stout method of composting. Mrs. Stout is the queen of the organic mulch gardeners. I located the goodie heap underneath the sickliest tree on the lot. And stood back, waiting for it to take off.

The biggest problem this time of year is the five or six inches of green matter necessary to get the soil-making operation percolating.

I was forced to chop and strip pine branches, yucca, newly-sprouted tulip leaves, and dig up old sod. One other source I finally resorted to was mowing the grass on what sprouts I was nurturing indoors. That's how much importance I attach to a compost pile. And if you saw my compost-grown lawn and flowers, you might do it too.

Those who would like a simple, easy-to-follow compost guideline called, "Everything You Wanted To Know About Compost But Were Afraid To Ask," may drop a stamped, self-addressed envelope to this department care of Padlock Publications, Box 20, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60004.

DON'T RUSH TO BLAME the seeds if it's the flower seed you bought doesn't germinate. There's a good possibility that you — rather than the seed — are at fault.

Did you

- (a) overwater?
- (b) plant the seeds too deeply?
- (c) let the seeds dry out?
- (d) have the soil too cold?

Was there

- (a) poor air circulation?
- (b) just plain neglect involved?

Small, fragile flower seeds like potamas can easily dry out and die during the critical germination period. Conditions in a window of your home aren't likely to be ideal for germinating. A hotbed or mini-greenhouse is better. You can also use fluorescent lights to germinate and keep the seedlings growing.

DAMPING OFF is the greatest hazard in growing seeds. Ground rot caused by too much moisture is the problem, so water seeds sparingly. Sprinkle them once or twice a week with a cup of vinegar in a quart of water. But don't use all the concoction at once, naturally. Make it in volume and use a little as you go along.

A good starting mix indoors is vermiculite and sand.

As you can guess, germinating is tricky, and if you are impatient or lacking in motivation, chances are you might be better off to buy started plants. Flats establish quickly and flower sooner than those started from seed now. Also, you can estimate your needs ahead of time, eliminating expense and the time you invested in growing your own transplants. Flat planting time is still a month away, so cool it.

Tennessee Williams Play To Premiere At Ivanhoe

Eileen Herlie and Donald Madden will star in the premiere of Tennessee Williams' new play, "The Two Character Play," at the Ivanhoe Theatre, 3000 N. Clark. The new play opens July 8 and will be directed by George Keathley.

Herlie and Madden are the two actors Williams and Keathley had in mind when the decision was made to do "The Character Play" at the Ivanhoe.

Felice and Clare, the two characters, are a brother-sister acting team who are "fortyish but who have the quality of youth without being young," commented Keathley.

The drama contains the typical Williams lyricism and magic, but is a "different, brand new, right now, today work," said Keathley.

Rehearsals will begin in mid-June with Williams on hand for the three-week preparation period.

THIS WILL BE the second time Keathley has directed the world premiere of a Williams play. "Sweet Bird of Youth" received its first staging at his Studio M Theatre in Miami in 1956. Keathley also directed the 20th anniversary production of "The Glass Menagerie" on Broadway.

Mail orders and reservations for groups of 20 or more are now being accepted at the Ivanhoe Theatre. Tickets go on sale at the box office Monday, May 10. Information and reservations, 248-6800.

Countryside Exhibits Say 'Enjoy'

In contrast to the technologically oriented pieces by Joseph McElack which Countryside Gallery featured last month, the current April exhibit is what laymen would appropriately label "very down to earth."

There is little guesswork to the pieces here by the eight galleries artists featured this month. Most aren't even trying to convey a message. They are merely there to enjoy.

Yet while the work is quiet and soothing in initial impact, there is no way plain or ordinary adjectives can describe it. And the variety of media combinations employed even further reject the possibility.

The soft watercolors of Jack Schmitt, a Palatine artist, are a certain welcome prelude into spring.

ALSO EXHIBITING in the same media is Elizabeth Spencer. Her somewhat bolder use of colors and more calculated strokes are in contrast to Schmitt's gentler approach.

The media is further individualized by Marlene Hunt's combination of pencil drawings and watercolor and Sara Drow's idea of mixed media water color with pen and ink.

Fine intricate lines and details are characteristic of both Sara and Marlene, a local artist from Mount Prospect.

Charlotte Friedman's tissue overlay etchings are both striking and unusual. An interesting method of painting, gouache, is exhibited in one of Earl Teak's pieces.

ALSO EXHIBITING this month are Carol Lubick and Valerie Krakar.

Upstairs in the craft gallery of Countryside Art Center, the emphasis is a bit more on the contemporary side. For April and May the focus is on eight new craftsmen with exhibits of weavings, jewelry and ceramics.

Weavings by Barbara Ferguson Factor and Len Petralko of Palatine encompass a medley of colorful wall hangings and large beautifully woven pillows.

Ruth Duckworth, Cecil G. Strawn Jr. and Sarah Hermanson have provided the gallery with pieces of their ceramics.

RUTH DUCKWORTH has exhibited around the world, winning various awards for her individualized approach. She has also had a one-man show at the Art Institute of Chicago.

With an extreme emphasis on shapes, many of her pieces resemble ancient art. Ruth's works are collected by many museums and private collectors including the Duke of Edinburgh for Windsor Castle.

Cecil G. Strawn, a member of the art department at Northern Illinois University, tends to the functional in his exhibited pieces of bowls and containers.

Sarah Hermanson's ceramic sculpture tends to suggest where our society's preoccupation lies these days in reference to the female anatomy. As unusual as her subject matter are her prominent luster glazes.

THE JEWELERS in the show include Lisa Conley with her tall silver rings, Rick Lewis with modern sculptural jewelry and Fumi Ankrum, who works with semi-precious and precious stones inlaid into gold or silver.

The Countryside Gallery is located at 407 N. Vail in Arlington Heights. Gallery hours, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., Tuesday through Sunday.

WITH A GREAT DEAL of emphasis on shapes, Ruth Duckworth's ceramics are world renowned. Her pieces are presently being exhibited in the Countryside Craft Gallery through April and May.

ONE OF EIGHT GALLERIED artists appearing in Countryside's April exhibit, Marlene Hunt of Mount Prospect exhibits her pencil drawings. Other pieces include combinations of pencil drawing and watercolors.

Also in the cast are Gloria Dee, Hank Vandeboom, and Ruth Fickson. Directed by Tom Ventres.

Collecting Coins

by Mort Reid

Western collectors never cease to be amazed by oriental symbolism. Even the old line students of ancient Chinese history admit to being inspired by the simple picture book devices used on Chinese cash coins.

Oddly enough, translations of these symbols seem to carry an air of reverence whenever spoken or written by an occidental, probably because faith in a heavenly power was all that guaranteed the purchasing power of the copper. Political ideologies were unheard of and, except for mass recognition of the heavenly elements, all else was secondary to the heart of state.

The grandson of Gen. Chiang Kai-shek's chief of naval operations once explained to me the thought that usually accompanied a coin bearing reference to the issuing dynasty on one side and the heavenly bodies on the other. "Thank heavens," he said, "if it wasn't for him

IT WAS ISSUED with two different reverses (shown), and two specimens of each. The reverse on the left bears symbols representing the celestial constellation Ursa Major, a serpent, a turtle and a sword. The serpent and turtle are from a group of 12 animals of the Duodenary Cycle or Chinese calendar.

The reverse on the right also carries the sign of the constellation along with one for the moon, the earth and the sun.

Properly translated, these symbols mean the coin is, for all intent and purposes, universal currency capable of purchasing anything made from or as a result of any of the elements shown and negotiable wherever they may be obtained.

The Feb. 20-26 issue of TV guide carried an article describing actor Khig Dinegh's experiences with "I Ching" which literally translated means "The Book (Ching) of Changes (I)," a philosophical work based on an early Chinese psychological theory for the solution of life's everyday problems.

ACCORDING TO the article, the ancient triad lines of "Yin" (female-broken line) and "Yang" (male-unbroken line), play a key role in making the theory work. The system on which "I Ching" is based reportedly originated between 1150 and 1120 B.C.

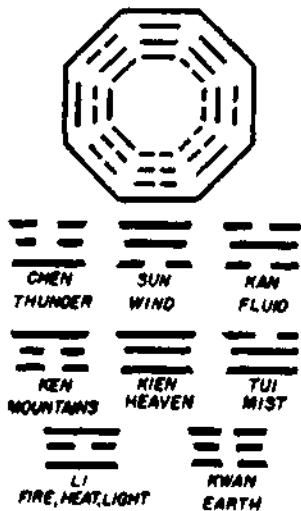

As a matter of fact, the eight triads or Pa-Kua symbols were discovered around 2100 to 2050 B.C. by the legendary monarch Fu Hsi, who copied them from the back of a turtle. Legendary, in this case, does not mean the ruler did not actually exist, for he did. But accurate research material records only to 1122 B.C., the beginning of the Chou dynasty.

As with Chinese philosophy, the powers of heaven and earth take precedence over those of the unworthy human race and they made no bones about their feelings in these matters when it came to outwardly proclaiming their daily importance. The eight triads representing either an active or passive power of nature were visibly present every day of their lives when used on their coinage.

The triadic symbol of Yin and Yang lines may be found on many early Chinese silver taels and as late as 1922 on the human silver dollar.

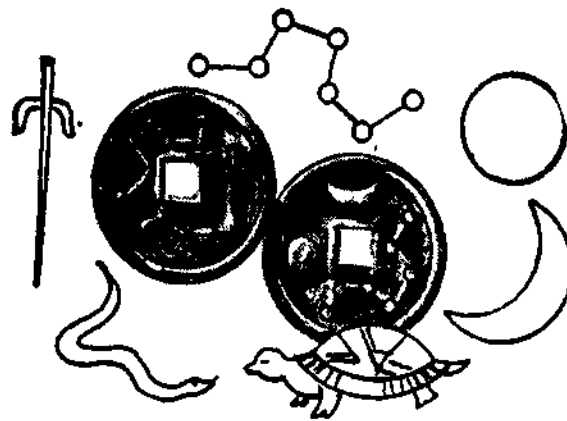

There is no further word on when the Eisenhower silver dollar order blanks will be made available but the Royal Canadian Mint just released word that Canada will make a 1971 British Columbia Commemorative silver dollar available to collectors at $3 each and will start accepting orders April 1.

The Pa-Kua Symbols

meaning the emperor during that dynasty. "I would be broke." In other words, one side of a coin served as a reminder to the other: that one without the other was powerless.

The coin illustrated was known as "The Great Currency of the Elements," issued during the northern Chou dynasty from A.D. 557 to A.D. 580 by Emperor Hsuan Ti. Translated, the obverse characters mean Wu Hsing for the five elements—earth, fire, metal, water and wood. The characters for Ta Pu mean "Big Coin."

THE NEW collector coin will be struck in the "old" 1.420-inch silver dollar size and will contain 360 grains of .500 fine silver.

Readers may write to Coins Uncirculated, P.O. Box 470, Ottawa 2, Ontario, Canada. All orders should be accompanied by either a postal money order or bank draft in Canadian funds.

There is no maximum limit on the number of dollars which may be ordered because Canada has plenty of silver. Each coin will be packaged in a special black and red case. — (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Do-It-Yourself

Quickly now — if you couldn't turn off the hot water faucet in the downstairs bathroom, would you know where to find the proper shutoff valve quickly?

If the light went out in the living room, do you know where the fuse box is and which is the proper fuse for that circuit? If the electric stove failed to work, would you know which circuit it was on and are you aware of any fuses in the appliance itself?

The time to determine certain information about your home is before an emergency arises. Ideally, if you move into a new home, get the information from the builder. Ask the previous owner of an older home.

Chances are he may not know. Some people do a little looking around and experimenting until you have figured everything out.

Don't leave the information sitting there in your memory, however. You may forget. Besides, every member of the family should be able to find things as easily as you. Prepare labels and lists and acquaint everyone with them.

Simple baggage tags fastened to shutoff valves will quickly identify them. There is the main water valve naturally, plus shutoff valves for kitchen, bath, laundry. Remember to indicate whether the valve is for hot or cold water. Identify the valve on the hot water supply line, and the cold water supply line to the hot water tank. If you have steam or hot water heat, tag the valve that controls the water supply. Don't forget those little valves on the tiny supply line for furnace humidifier.

Gas lines have their control valves, too. There is the main shutoff, plus supply line shutoffs for furnaces, water tank and space heaters.

Most fuse boxes have labels stuck inside the metal door with blanks provided for each circuit. Fill these in as clearly as you can. This information is especially handy if you have to make repairs, since you must cut off the electricity before you start to work.

Keep fuses handy to the fuse box. Keep plenty on hand and make certain they are the right size.

You can speed up plumbing repairs if you keep a master list of washer sizes for every faucet. Or separate washers into envelopes clearly marked with the faucets they go to.

You know which key on your ring is for which lock. But what about those loose keys all over the house? Label every extra key. It's a good idea to have a master set of extra keys clearly labeled.

Preserve parts lists that come with appliances. A large envelope will keep them all together. Then when you have to order a part there is no searching for model numbers and proper part designation.

Rough Afternoon For Area Teams; Hersey Triumphs While Five Fall

Bruce Frase, in his first appearance of the season, singled home one run and then scored the winning tally in a 10-9 Hersey come-from-behind over visiting Crown yesterday.

Frase slapped a single to left as a pinch hitter in the sixth frame after not starting any of Hersey's games because of an arm injury. The hit was one of five straight to open the final inning of play after the Vikings had owned a 9-5 lead earlier in the game.

Ken Kennepp and Jim Quade opened the sixth with base hits before Frase's single sent Kennepp in. Bill Ludwigsen followed up with a bad hop infield safety, scoring Quade with the tying run and then Ken Morales stroked a bunt down the first base line that had the victorious lally brezzing home.

Earlier in the contest, Mark Leonhard had poked a pair of home runs to right field to account for three Huskie runs and a triple by Steve Koch had pushed two more across. But the hosts still trailed 9-5 going into the fifth.

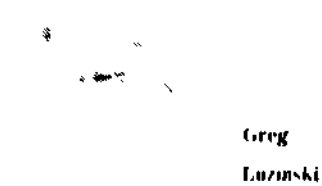

In the bottom of the fifth Koch came through again, singling up the middle to bring in two more runs and set the stage for the dramatic win.

Terry Smith, who pitched to only one man, was awarded the winning verdict. Greg Prosser started for Hersey and was relieved by Steve Perry in the fourth. Smith came on with two out and two on in the sixth and Koch made a brilliant running catch of a wind-blown pop-up to end the threat.

Hersey's first win in three outings this season was made with Len Bending at the helm, substiting for absent head coach Steve Chernick.

Falcons Bow, 7-1

York's unbeaten baseball team hit Forest View with three runs in the second inning and then coasted to a 7-1 victory yesterday in Elmhurst.

The Falcons, now 1-2, appeared on their way when Kent Koentopp blasted a full-count pitch over the left field fence, 360 feet away, to lead off the second inning.

However, the best coach Tom Seidel's Falcons could do after that was only threaten against York, now 3-0-1.

Forest View had runners on third in five of the six innings but each was stranded. Greg Fink went 2 for 3 for the losers. Also hitting singles were Mike Pryor, Bob Kasper, and Ed Banskfield.

Bob Novak was the starter and loser for Forest View. He struck out four and walked two in 3 1/3 innings. Steve Wells pitched 1 1/3 innings and Bob Sobieski finished up.

West In Romp

Maine West clobbered out 11 hits, four of the extra base variety, as the Warriors downed Prospect 11-5 in a non-conference baseball game at Maine West yesterday.

The Warriors reached Prospect starter Ron Smoy for four runs in the first inning with a single, a double and two walks.

Prospect tallied its first run in the second inning on singles by Nate Thurnhof, Dave Harbach and Stu White. Maine West made it 11-1 in the third inning with a seven-run outburst on seven hits and a walk.

The Knights put together their biggest rally in the fourth inning on a single by Harbach, a single by Casey Rush, a walk to White, a fielder's choice, a catcher's interference and a double by Mike Foltz.

Dennis Tate pitched the last three innings for Prospect and blanked Maine West on two hits.

Lions Fall, 6-4

St. Viator sophomore Mike Cook turned in another creditable performance yesterday by hurling five strong innings.

The sixth, however, proved fatal as a couple of Viator errors allowed Glenbrook South to emerge with a 6-4 decision.

Cook was coasting along on a four-hitter upon entering the sixth on the crest of a 4-2 Lion lead. A four-run disaster by Glenbrook, though, spelled defeat for Viator.

After spotting the Titans a 2-0 edge after one, the Lions erupted for the tying pair when Tom Smith, Tim Oliverio and Cook walked while both Mike Walsh and Ken Martin were hit by pitches.

Viator padded the lead with a run in the third on an RBI single by Tom Smith following a walk and error to Mark Rossi and in the sixth on a Cook double and another South error.

Cook went all the way, walking four and fanning six. The only other Lion hit came off the bat of Smith.

Tough 'Cat Loss

A freak play on a fly ball snapped seven innings of scoreless ball and allowed Niles West to sneak off with a 1-0 triumph over Wheeling on the loser's diamond yesterday.

The Indians tallied the game's lone run after a leadoff double in the top of the seventh. A flyout to right advanced the runner to third and he came in on another sacrifice fly when the toss in from left field bounced off his back and out of the catcher's reach.

The decisive tally came off Wildcat twirler Tom Doveale, who had come in after five strong innings of pitching by Dwaine Nelson. Nelson allowed only two hits and fanned seven during his stint on the mound.

The 'Cats couldn't get him any runs though. Koblhe Richter slammed out a trio of hits, the latter two occasions to lead off innings but he was cut down on the base paths both times.

In the bottom of the seventh the hosts nearly tied things up when Mark Newman belted a double out to the fence in center with two away but Mike Groot's high fly was hauled in deep in center to end the game.

Cougars Shaded

Conant was unable to protect a seemingly-safe lead and watched host Lake Park rally for four runs in the fifth inning and one in the seventh for an exciting 7-6 win Thursday.

Chet Pudlosky, who took the mound for Conant in the sixth, was the loser after giving up three straight hits in the final inning. Lefty Randy Jones hurled the first five frames.

Conant jumped to a 5-0 lead in the second inning when it batted around. Mike Honel, who paced the Cougars' eight-hit attack with three hits in four at-bats, started the outburst with a single. Rich Gallas clouted a long three-run home run.

Lake Park got two of the runs back in the third on another two-run homer, but Conant upped its lead to 6-2 in the fifth on Chet Pudlosky's run-scoring single. Then disaster came.

A NEW LOOK IN PLAYOFFS

Dear Sir:

I was wondering if the playoff system in the Mid-Suburban League will apply to baseball as it did in football and basketball. I feel that such a system helps to spread interest on the final standings and restores the incentive for an upset. If so, how will it work?

Edward Syzecki
Wheeling

As in football and basketball, the final baseball standings will also be governed by the playoff system, but in a different manner. An example may best describe how the system will work. Every North Division member plays each of its own teams twice while crossing over against each team in the South only once. If Team "X" wins the North and Team "Y" wins the South, the regular season game between the two schools will constitute the first of what boils down to a three-game playoff between the winners. If team "X" beats "Y" during the regular season and duplicates the feat in the first game of the playoffs, Team "X" would be declared the conference champion. If however, Team "Y" wins the playoff game after losing the regular season contest, the playoff would move to a third game to decide the eventual winner. — Jim Cook.

UNHAPPY WITH NBA

Dear Sirs:

I must express my disgust with the National Basketball Association for two things which I feel cost the Bulls their playoff series against the Los Angeles Lakers. My complaints are against the officiating and the league's system of assigning sites for the playoff games.

I feel that one man alone, referee Jack Madden, killed the Bulls' hopes with two horrible calls in the last 30 seconds of the first game in L.A. First, he gave the Lakers possession with them leading by one point on a ball obviously off a Laker's foot (every Chicago writer agreed on this). Then, after L.A. missed a shot with 10 seconds left, Gail Goodrich shoved Jerry Sloan out of the way for the rebound. No foul was called. Time ran out and the Bulls lost 100-99. Obviously this cost them the series since they lost it four games to three.

Second, why did the Lakers get the home court advantage with the extra home game (including the seventh and deciding) when their record was three games worse than the Bulls' for the regular season? The fact that L.S. was first in their weaker division and the Bulls second does not erase the fact that the Bulls earned the extra home game with their superior play throughout the season.

I also feel it is very "bush" of the NBA commissioner Walter Kennedy to take out his personal dislike of bulls coach Dick Motta with an outrageously high fine, $1500 for Motta's conduct during the third game. Motta did not lay a hand on anyone and a little profanity is no cause for such an outlandish fine. Other coaches get away with just as much or more than Motta without a fine or even a technical foul.

All of this may sound like sour grapes, but there's no doubt that it was the difference between winning and losing — with a lot of money involved — for the Bulls.

Nichoals Christopholis
Hoffman Estates.

The officiating is a matter of judgment, though Chicago writers at that first game concurred with your view on the two calls in question. The Bulls may have deserved the home court advantage but the league wants to reward first place above all. Motta's fine did see a little high, but there may have been more involved there than the incident which provoked it. Motta's behavior has been far from good for some time. But even if the fine were justified, it did not seem necessary for Kennedy to make a public announcement of the amount. This is usually kept secret in such cases. — Larry Everhart

HAIR-RAISING DISCUSSION

Dear Sir:

While watching the Bulls and the Lakers in the playoffs I couldn't help but notice the length of some of the players' hair. Players such as Keith Erickson looked atrocious with their long hair and they sure didn't benefit the idea of what I have always held as athletes.

Why doesn't the Laker coach enforce some rule about long hair and why don't the coaches of such "athletes" as Pete Maravich, Joe Pepitone and Joe Namath?

Mrs. Ann Duimstra
Prospect Heights

I am sure that coaches Joe Mullaney of the Lakers, Richie Gaerlin of the Hawks, Leo Durocher of the Cubs and Weeb Ewbank of the Jets have their own reasons for allowing their players to wear their long locks. They probably figure that if the player can perform on the court or the field, why rock the boat over long hair.

Though the players you mentioned do not represent the type of athlete we have come to know in past years, times are changing and so are styles and long hair just happens to be "in" right now.

Personally, as coach, I would put some restrictions on long hair. Maravich's long hair seems to be constantly getting into his eyes and bothering his play. Pepitone's batting helmet does not properly protect him because of his hair and Namath's football helmet does not protect him properly because of the poor fit over his hair.

As soon as the hair interfered with a player's performance (such as in Maravich's case) and as soon as a player's safety was put in jeopardy (such as in the case of Pepitone and Namath), as coach, I would have them cut some of the locks off, at least. — Larry Mlynzak.

LAMENTS SECTIONAL LOSS

Dear Sirs:

Arlington's recent loss in sectional (basketball) play was unfortunate for two reasons. First, a well-balanced and talented team was eliminated. Second, Bob Frisk once again made his annual sojourn to Champaign sans local talent.

The best-coached teams make the Elite Eight. Witness Rockford Boylan, coached by Dolph Stanley. The Titans were just about the smallest team in quarter-final play with no player over six feet, three inches. But throughout the year they gave opponents a run for their money. They never gave up and their coach had the experience to chance the teams' playing strategy when things took a turn for the worse.

My next observation is better stated as a question. When in the IHSA (Illinois High School Association) going to stop letting teams stall? This well-used tactic is boring to the fans, puts a stop to exciting finishes and comebacks (as it did in the Arlington-New Trier East game) and can't possibly instill anything in young athletes.

In my opinion, five 40-year-old men, given one hour of practice time, can play "keep-away" from another team all night long. It's a shame that a clock of some kind wasn't in use at Fremd. If it had been Bob Frisk may well have made a trip to Evanston, avec local talent.

R. S.
Wheeling

I appreciate your comments. Yes, I've been waiting a long time to follow an area team to Champaign for the state tournament, and now I'll wait another year. But with big guys like Roger Wood and Andy Paneratz around next winter, maybe . . . just maybe. Stalling in basketball offers some intriguing discussion at both the high school and college level, but it's not as easy to play "keep away" as you might think. I personally favor a 30-second clock in college ball. Anyway, I seriously doubt that five guys on the Herald sports staff (and we're not even 40-year-old men), given one hour of practice time, could have kept the ball away from lightning-quick Thornridge. My guess here is that Quinn Buckner alone could have given us problems! — Bob Frisk.

Pro Bowling Examines Conditions

Do Lefthanders Have Advantage?

IN MAY OF 1961 at Paramus, N.J., Roy Luten won the Professional Bowlers Association Invitational, a significant victory in many ways.

First prize was $15,000, a record at the time.

Second, it was the first PBA event to be nationally televised.

And it was the first PBA tournament ever to be won by a southpaw.

A victory by a southpaw on the bowling tour was big news on that May afternoon in 1961.

It's big news today, 10 years later, when a lefthander doesn't win a bowling tournament.

It used to be that when a lefthander went into his backswing, bowling balls would chuckle. Lefthanders just didn't measure up and, when they tried holding their own in competition, more often than not they were abysmal failures.

That's just no longer the case, and the game has come through such a remarkable turnaround that southpaws are now emerging as the dominant breed although there are only 20 in an average tournament.

Johnny Petraglia, a lefty, has won three straight PBA titles and such a bundle of cash this year that he's within an eyelash of setting a new all-time one-year earnings record. The season is not yet half over.

Four of the top five bowlers in the $100,000 Firestone Tournament of Champions were lefthanders.

The top 16 — yes, 16! — bowlers in the tourney at San Jose, Calif., earlier this winter were lefthanders. Figure the odds on that one when lefties are outnumbered by about 120 to 20 at any PBA tourney.

Approximately 45 per cent of the prize money on the current tour has been passed out to southpaws. That's a staggering statistic when you again consider that 120-20 ratio in an average tourney.

Why, suddenly, is the righthander the passive athlete while the lefthander spends all his time cashing checks? The reasons are many and complex, and I went to Les Zikes, Jr., manager of Beverly Lanes in Arlington Heights and a touring pro, for some of the answers. Les is a righthander.

"To try to put it as simply as possible," Zikes explained, "most bowling balls are rolled down the right-hand side of the lane (85 per cent of the 50 million bowlers are righthanders), and that side obviously receives much more wear and tear than the left side.

"This didn't used to be a serious problem, but some lanes just aren't getting the careful maintenance they used to receive. We've never failed to resurface at Beverly, and it's set up for May this year. I know the other houses here do it the same way. It's just something you should do."

Zikes emphasized that a problem that faces bowlers today is that the track dries up and the righthander just can't keep his ball in the track.

"They just can't hold the line and are constantly adjusting," he continued. "What this means to the bowler — the righthander, at least — is that he can have some real problems trying to find his line. In most cases the lefthander is likely to discover that his side of the lane runs true. No one is crossing his line, and whereas a righthander has to threat-the needle to get the many strikes he needs to score well over an entire week, the lefty has a relatively wide pocket."

Zikes isn't alone in his concern. He admits it's the No. 1 topic of conversation on the tour today and that the righthanders are anxious to see something done. The southpaws also understand this concern.

"It has all been in the last five years that this has been happening," says southpaw star Dave Davis. "Before that bowling was known as a righthanders game, but I think the lacquer finishes put on the lanes have had a lot to do with it."

Sam Baca agrees. Sam used to be a pro bowler and now earns his keep from the Professional Bowlers Association. In addition to being Regional Activities Director, he is also pro bowling's representative on a committee to "toss oil on some of the industry's troubled lanes." That's not just a cliché.

Baca points out that there was a time when the lacquers applied to each lane were of such a durable consistency that it was almost impossible to reach wood no matter how heavy the play might have been on the right side of the lane. But progress brings changes, and synthetic now are applied as a protective coating and also those goes an application to inhibit friction destruction caused by the bowling ball.

The righthander — namely the pro righthander — now comes into a bowling center and quite often is faced with a problem, often due to the laxity or dereliction in duty of the lane maintenance man — meaning the fellow whose job is to apply a thin coating of oil daily to each lane in the establishment.

"Sometimes the man will try to speed up the operation," says Baca, "or sometimes he will just eliminate some lanes. At any rate, it has a drastic effect. Uneven amounts of oil because of lopsided play by righthanders is a major roadblock to an even condition. Also, with so much more play on one side, you find that often there is a glazing on the lanes. The ball track everyone talks about doesn't help the righthander one bit; in fact, it can be ruinous to his game because the track toward the pocket often is an erratic one and the bowlers will try to avoid it."

Zikes points out that some pro righthanders will make an adjustment of 15 or 20 boards on a single day, and since the so-called track was determined to be a deterrent to good bowling, the gutter shot has come into vogue. The righty, striving to find a true course toward the pocket, will try to shoot outside the track. If he can adjust easily or readily, he will score well.

"There are times you can't hit the pocket consistently no matter what adjustments you make," says Zikes. "Sometimes you can tell right away in your practice sessions. At Firestone last week they were predicting after practicing the first day that a lefty would win the tourney. And they were right."

There is a committee currently studying this situation, and the professional bowlers are anxious to see some results.

"We've been aware of the left-handed problem for years," Baca says, "but the

Father Of The Masters

A Personal Memory Of Bob Jones

by MURRAY OLDERMAN

AUGUSTA, Ga. — (NEA) — The frail figure of Robert Tyre Jones Jr., still sells the tone at the Masters. It was his golf tournament, devised in 1934 as his perpetuating memorial. He was only 32.

Bob Jones, the never has liked being called Bobby, funneled all his devotion to the game which had made him a hero of the Golden Twenties into the one week of spring rites at the course carved out of the rolling clay hills of northern Georgia.

And it is a bit of sadness that he can no longer be at the white frame cottage on the edge of the 10th tee. He is desperately ill from syringomyelia, the progressive disease of the spinal cord which has made him an invalid for more than 20 years.

The last time I spoke to Bob Jones was at that cottage six Masters ago (that's how you tell time in Augusta). I was able to get in through the intercession of my good friend Furman Bisher of Atlanta. Jones was deep in an easy chair, his omnipresent wheelchair nearby, casually wearing a robe of green, the color which has become symbolic of the Masters.

To show you how time doesn't change very much, he was talking then about a young golfer who had burnished the course the day before with a marvelous 64.

"It was probably the finest round of golf ever played," said Jones deliciously. "I don't see how you could play any better. Nobody ever combined his power with his style. No, style is a person's individual expression of himself. I should say his power and form. He has a beautiful swing, so effortless it looks like he's not putting anything into it."

Jones was talking about Jack Nicklaus, and all his thoughts still pertain, for Nicklaus still is the dominant figure in the Masters field, and nobody plays golf better than he.

A tribute from the great can be cherished unnaturally. Years ago there was a press tournament at St. Andrews in Westchester County, N.Y., to celebrate the 100th anniversary of this country's oldest golf course. While most of the writers were out hacking, one, a little timid about showing off his lack of style (no, form), hung around the clubhouse. Bob Jones was there.

Already the roots of social ferment were dug in and spreading. The Supreme Court decision of 1954 ordering integration in the south had been handed down. Jones was a lawyer, but his views reflected his patrician upbringing. And I recall a sense of shock when he said he was against mixing blacks and whites in the same school system because the blacks were too sexually precocious. He was, however, gentle in his tone and understood that change was inevitable.

The conversation was cut short so that all could go out and participate in a putting contest which would cap the outing.

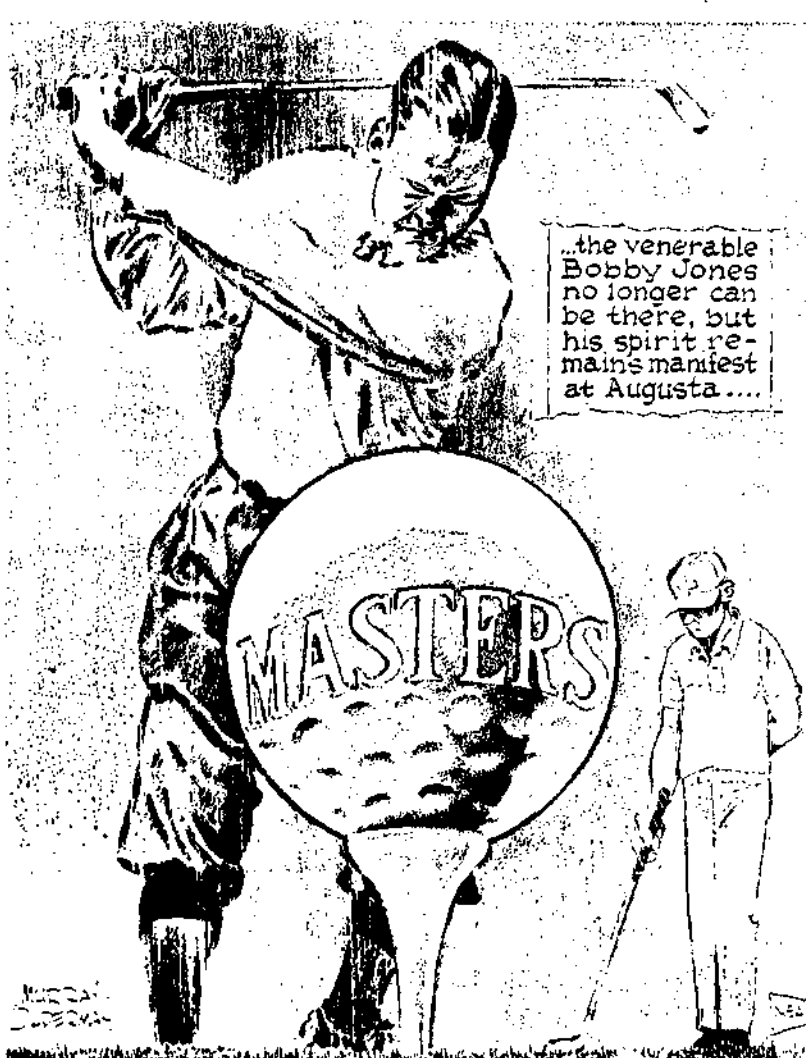

The timid one went along, too, and took his turn at tapping the ball around the green. He actually won the contest.

The prize was a putter, to be presented by Robert Tyre Jones Jr., the most famous golfer ever.

I still have that putter and use it, if ignobly. But the greater reminder is a framed 8x10 picture at home showing a man sitting, extending his hand in congratulations. It is my memory of the Master golfer.

MONUMENT TO THE MAN

Soccer For St. Viator

St. Viator senior Larry Scalzitti had an idea and after a little hard work, the Lions now have an entry in the Chicagoland Soccer League's Central Division.

Scalzitti enjoyed playing soccer in sandlot competition and was able to interest some of his classmates in the newest of St. Viator's spring sports.

"It's still a club," Scalzitti said "and any athlete at St. Viator is eligible to play. We've had about 20-30 boys respond for the team."

League rules allow 15 players to suit up for each contest while 11 actually play at one time. All games will be played at Boltwood Park in Evanston on concurrent Sundays.

The Arlington Heights entry competed in their first scuffle of the season last week and dueled a St. Ignatius entry to a 2-2 deadlock. Scoring for St. Viator were Pat Mooney and Keith Buckholz off assists by Steve Turner.

Scalzitti, the Lions' player-coach, will be in goal for St. Viator during the course of their five-game schedule. Other squads in the Central or Division B bracket include Maine South, two Evanston entries and Oak Park.

The remaining Arlington Heights schedule is: Sunday, April 18: Evanston No. 4, noon, Sunday, April 25: Maine South, 3:15 p.m., Sunday, May 2: Evanston No. 3, 1:40 p.m., Sunday, May 9: Oak Park, 3:15 p.m.

Set Post Time For 2 P.M. At Balmoral Meet

An across-the-board 2 p.m. first post, Monday through Saturday, was announced today by executive director William S. Miller for Balmoral Jockey Club's 33-day spring thoroughbred meeting which opens a week from tomorrow, Saturday, April 17, at Arlington Park.

"Our first post will be 2 p.m. sharp with the first huddle call at 1:30 p.m.," said Miller. "And barring the unforeseen, fans can anticipate the 9th and final race at around 5:35 p.m."

Besides the traditional Daily Double on the first two races, Balmoral will feature the Perfecta on the 3th and 9th races each day. In the Perfecta, the fan must select the first two horses in their exact order of finish.

The 1971 Balmoral meeting, which again kicks off the Chicagoland area thoroughbred season, extends through May 23 as first phase of a continuous 110-day season at Arlington. First six days are for charity under banner to Chicago Sun Times Daily News Charity Trust.

Opening day headliner is the $10,000 Balmoral Inaugural Handicap at 5 1/2 furlongs for three-year-olds and up. A $15,000 overnight handicap will spark the next four Saturday cards, while the final Saturday, May 22, will be featured by the $25,000 Beyer Bee Handicap at 1 1/8 miles.

Glenbrook Tops Vikings, Cards

A powerful Glenbrook North team served notice that it will have to be reckoned with in track this spring.

Glenbrook grabbed off seven first places, not leaving nearly enough for Arlington and Fremd, as it totaled 71 points to 46 for the Vikings and 42 for the Cardinals in an opening conference outdoor meet at Fremd Tuesday.

Fremd could manage just five first places and Arlington three as the Vikings had the only local double winner, Steve Bruce. He won the 100-yard dash in 10.4 and the pole vault with a 12-6 effort.

Other winners for coach Pat Brogan's Vikings were Dan Pittenger and Wally Spumolas, who tied with a 9:42.0 time in the two-mile run; Tim Tuerk with a 49-8½ loss in the shot put and Bill Jarocki with 1:58.9 in the 880-yard run and Jarocki had a 49-9 split in a relay.

Arlington's individual victors were Mike Cleveland with 56.7 in the 440-yard dash, Tom Jarm with 4:29.3 in the mile run and the mile relay team with a 3:31.2 effort.

Fremd won a close frosh-soph meet with 66 points to 63 for Glenbrook and 20 for Arlington.

THE BEST IN Sports

Caring Up I-Sports

Break Away: Learn Scuba

Scuba diving, a most adventurous and exciting sport, has captured the fancy of thousands of sportsmen and women who want to break away from the ordinary and do something different.

The exceptional popularity of this great new sport is evident throughout the Midwest — even with the lack of the "open seas." The inland waters of these middle states overflow with modern history and indescribably beautiful marine life.

Scuba diving is recognized world-wide as one of the fastest growing sports — enjoyed by both guys and gals.

The Countryside YMCA, 115 W. Johnson, Palatine, is helping the sport grow in a safe and sane way with proper instruction given by the Y's Nationally Certified Scuba Instructor staff.

Approximately 25 students ranging in age from 17 to 87 learn the ropes of the underwater world under the professional guidance of Joe Strykowski and his underwater staff John Clohessy, Bill To masney and attractive Judy Grunke who is living proof that the underwater world is not for men alone.

Joe Strykowski, an eminent diver instructor and author has written five books about diving and the underwater world, the most recent of which, "Diving For Fun," simplifies the technical aspects and is an excellent classroom tool.

Under the extensive training of Strykowski and his staff, students are given 40 hours of instruction... learning first the rudiments of skin diving, then moving on to the more intricate sport of SCUBA.

Learning to dive requires practical skill in using the equipment. Any swimmer in good health, and the desire to learn will have little difficulty in completing the 12 week course.

All necessary equipment is provided by the Countryside YMCA.

The 12 week course is held in two sessions, theory and practical.

First the students are introduced to the various types of diving: military, commercial and sport.

Subsequent sessions are devoted to every aspect of skin and scuba diving. After the lecture or "dry session" the student changes to pool attire for the "wet session." This is where the theory learned in the classroom is applied to developing the actual skills needed to make each individual a skilled diver.

After the pool session and a hot shower the students congregate over "coffee and" provided by the "Instructor Staff," in what is affectionately referred to as the bull session.

Here the student after viewing the weekly scheduled underwater films, discusses his progress with his instructors.

Upon completion of the course, which covers all facets directed in the path of safety, each student receives a certificate ("c" card) recognizing that they have met all the requirements of the National YMCA Skin and Scuba program.

New graduates are already traveling far to enjoy their underwater skills. Several are leaving soon for the clear waters of Jamaica.

Some of the graduating class will accompany Strykowski in May to Bonaire and Curacao for an action-packed underwater holiday.

The spring Skin and Scuba diving course will begin Thursday, April 15th at 7:30 p.m.

Since class enrollment is limited to 25, students are urged to sign up as soon as possible.

For further information call the Countryside YMCA at 359-2400.

Powerful Wright Handles Harper

by PAUL LOGAN

Wright College, the perennial baseball power in Chicagoland junior college baseball has another talented team this year.

The Rams found the Harper College temporary home field Pioneer Park—to then fling in fashioning a 7-2 victory Wednesday afternoon.

Wright now 8-2 on the year, pumped on reliever Buzz Johnson for a homer in the third and then four runs in the fourth which sewed up the win. Also aiding the visitors to their big inning were three Harper errors.

Frank May took over the pitching duties in the sixth inning. He was touched for a home run in the seventh and another score in the ninth. Then he helped start a Harper rally in the bottom of the frame to avoid the shutout.

Following a walk to Ken Dohn to lead off the inning May legged out a slow grounder, only the third hit recorded by the Hawks all afternoon. A fielder's choice erased Dohn. Then the Wright defenses crumbled somewhat to allow the brief rally.

Bill Henry reached on an error by the second baseman and May broke the scoring ice. Bill Connors followed and sent another slow roller down to second and the Wright first baseman misplayed the throw to load the bases. Kim Boley hit still another grounder for a fielder's choice which allowed Duke Delano who had reached on a fielder's choice to score the final run.

Harper threatened several times throughout the game but couldn't come up with the timely hits when they were needed.

The other two singles came off the bats of Jeff DuPre and Connors.

May fanned two and walked two in the four innings he pitched. He had started the game at first base.

Coach Clete Hinton's Hawks now 0-21 on the season, will be trying to even up their won loss mark in a doubleheader on Saturday beginning at noon at the Pioneer Park diamond. Furnishing the competition will be Parkland College. The Hawks will open the Skyway Conference race on Monday at Elgin with a noon doubleheader.

Top Six 1970 Car Racers Open Season At Waukegan

The color and excitement of short track late model stock car racing will return to the Waukegan Speedway this Saturday night April 10 and Sunday afternoon April 11. The quarter mile asphalt oval is located one quarter mile east of Route 41 on Washington Street near Waukegan.

Once again this year Waukegan will get the jump on other area tracks with its early April kickoff. Over 30 late model entries are expected for each program. The weekly Saturday night programs will start at 7:00 and the Sunday races at 2:30. Time trials will be one hour earlier.

Leading the entry list for the opening weekend will be the top six point finishers of 1970. Defending champion Ray Young of Dolton will field a new Mercury Cyclone for this year's championship campaign. Over $1,000 will be the bonus.

for this year's late model titlist.

Rounding out the top six from last year respectively are Jim Cossman of Waukegan, Bob May of Gurnee, Vern Browne of Waukegan, Bob Anzinger of McHenry and Lee Schuler of Lockport. Of these drivers Browne races a Dodge Charger while the remainder compete in Chevelles.

This season will be the first in which Waukegan has offered Sunday afternoon racing in the spring along with the Saturday night events. The Sunday events will switch to evenings during May.

Since the track is asphalt, the cancellations are held to a minimum in the spring. Over the past two years 13 April dates have been scheduled with only three nights being stopped by the weather. In case of questionable weather conditions fans can check last minute information by calling 162-8200.

DuPage Rocks Harper, 9-2

Harper College's baseball team had trouble folding on to a lead again Tuesday.

Playing its home opener against College of DuPage, the Hawks were tied in the sixth 2-2 and then posted in the eighth for seven runs. They went on to lose 9-2.

After falling behind 1-0 in the third inning the Hawks of Coach Clete Hinton rallied for two in the fifth. Mike Lusch yanked with one out and Ken Dohn joined him the same way with two outs. Then Frank May smacked a line drive which the DuPage third baseman managed to knock down but it rolled just far enough away from him so that Lusch could score from second.

Jeff DuPre followed with a single to right field which sent home Dohn with the final run.

Pat Doyle started for Harper and did a pretty good job over the five innings he pitched. Doyle gave up one run, fanned two and walked two.

Dick Connors, Doyle's replacement, wasn't as fortunate. He fanned two and one third innings and gave up six earned runs while striking out one and walking two.

Ray Gross finished up and allowed only two singles.

Harper now 0-11 will have four straight doubleheaders starting on Saturday against Parkland at noon on the Pioneer Park diamond. The locals open up the Skyway Conference on the road on Monday against Elgin.

Hawk Doubles Team In Big Upset

Harper rolled to its second tennis match Wednesday. So what's new? Plenty.

"Something happened yesterday that was one of the nicest surprises I've had since I've been here," said Roy Kearns, head coach of the Hawks. "Our doubles team of Roger O'Keefe and Bill Hitzeman won over last year's Region IV doubles champs of Joliet — Liker and Stanfield."

Harper, playing on the Joliet courts at Nowell Park, won 7-2 over what was thought to be a very tough junior college team. The Wolves were tough but the Hawks were even tougher.

The stars of this second victory against no losses — O'Keefe and Hitzeman — dropped the opening set, 3-6. Then they roared away with 6-3 and 7-5 decisions to shock the team of Bruce Liker and Gary Stanfield.

"It (turning point) came when they just decided it would come," said Kearns. "They didn't want to be beaten and they maintained the attitude of winning."

The other two doubles teams also recorded wins. The Randy Seiler-Mike Bierma combination took second doubles with a 6-2, 6-3 victory over Brian McPartlin and Ed Denovellis. The third team of John Meyn and Randy Bocian won by an even more decisive score — a pair of 6-1 decisions.

Singles action went this way: Seiler went three sets before disposing of Joliet's No. 1 man, Bruce Liker, 6-2, 2-6 and 6-2; O'Keefe stopped Stanfield by a pair of 6-3 scores; Hitzeman had a pair of 6-2 victories over Dan Faust; John Meyn dropped sets of 2-6 and 1-8 to Denovellis; Bierma lost by a pair of 1-6 scores to McPartlin; and Steve Cohn, playing No. 6 singles, came through with a win over Balog by scores of 6-0 and 6-2.

"I'm just continually surprised by the way these kids are taking hold of a challenge of an unbeaten season," says Kearns. "We've had that in the past and they're doing something about it. I think they have that (desire to win) and they also have pride."

"I think this (pride) is one of the first signs that they can do it — maintain an unbeaten season (against) junior colleges. That's what it takes. I think our team will have to be beaten . . . they won't give anything away."

Fernandez Just Missed Top Spot

Indiana University freshman rings sensation Benny Fernandez, a product of Elk Grove High School, recorded the highest NCAA finish of an Indiana Gymnast since 1955 when he placed second in the national meet last week at Michigan.

The 5-5, 135-pounder went into the final day of competition tied for first place with Charles Ropiquet of Southern Illinois, and his bid to become Indiana's first gymnastics champion since 1955 fell just short. Fernandez' score was 9.35 on the final routine while Ropiquet had a brilliant 9.6 score. Three day totals gave Ropiquet a 9.35 mark to Fernandez' 9.25. Defending champion Dave Seal of Indiana State placed third with a 9.13.

"I have mixed feelings," Coach Jim Brown said. "I'm really proud of Benny — he beat the defending national champion and he looked great doing it. But Ropiquet just beat him, that's all you can say. One thing though, Ropiquet is a senior and Benny is just a freshman. It looks pretty good for next year."

At Beverly Lanes

The Meyer team of the Beverly Lanes Parkway Men's League swept all seven points from Helgeson to maintain the second-half lead. The second-place Donahue team lost 5-2 to Bic . . . Jim Shaw led individual scoring with a 564 . . . Bob Paddock had a 542 series and a 213 game . . . Earl Williams had a 206 and Glenn Quade a 201.

Ladendorf Success Story

CHAPTER #6

OFFER A QUALITY PRODUCT

Ever since William Ladendorf signed his sales agreement with Oldsmobile in 1926, we have been more than pleased with the product and our customers have been extremely satisfied, too. In addition to Oldsmobile being a quality product, it has always been a product with innovative changes such as front wheel drive on our Toronado. The Toronados have been selling so fast that we can not stock them fast enough. As a matter of fact, there were more Oldsmobiles built the first quarter of this year than ever before. If a car is a GM make, that's good. If it is an Oldsmobile, that's better. If it is from Ladendorf, that is the best!

Luzinski Plays In Eugene And Waits For Big Chance

(Executive Editor Ken Knox spent a week in Clearwater, Fla., at the close of spring training. He had a chance to watch the Philadelphia Phillies and talk with area product Greg Luzinski.)

by KEV KNOX

When the Philadelphia Phillies opened the 1971 major league baseball season Greg Luzinski was digging in at the plate a continent's length away.

He was at Eugene Ore. starting for the Phillies' entry in the Class AAA Pacific Coast League.

That's as high as you can go in the minors and for scores of young ballplayers the satisfaction of a lifetime.

But for Greg Luzinski of Prospect Heights it meant another summer of being the most highly regarded young prospect in the Phillies farm chain.

He could have been forgiven if he permitted himself some private exultation that Deron Johnson went 0-for-4 in the Phillies' 12 opening loss to Pittsburgh.

That's the way of baseball. Someone is always in the way of a young kid on the way up and it's only a matter of time before the fixture has to move aside. If the kid hopes the old timer breaks a leg well that's baseball.

Johnson remains the man in the way of Greg Luzinski. After his third spring training since being the Phillies' No. 1 free agent draft pick in 1968 Luzinski failed again in his challenge for the first base job in Philadelphia.

It was a close thing but the Phillies stuck again with Johnson, and their reasoning reads soundly.

A few months short of 32, Johnson is one of the few veteran and steady hands on the youth-dominated Phillies. With 27 home runs and 93 runs batted in last year, he's coming off his best season since he led the National League with 130 RBIs for Cincinnati in 1965.

The odds favor at least one more good year for the old pro while for Luzinski — who turned 21 on April 3 — an added year of seasoning in the highest minors stands to do him more good than a premature shot at the big time, or a year of alternating with Johnson.

Like it or not Luzinski is being philosophical about it.

Shortly before the Phillies broke spring training at Clearwater, Fla., he engaged in some locker room reflection at Jack Russell Stadium.

"I can't complain," he said. "I got more playing time this spring than the last two years, playing every other day with Johnson."

"What can you say," said the young man who in winter spoke as if he intended to make the Phillies or else "They have to get the guy ready."

Luzinski had homered the day before, his second circuit shot of the spring. But this was a bleak day for him.

He appeared as a pinch hitter in a B game with Cincinnati in the morning, and struck out on four pitches from the Reds' young left-handed phenom Don Gullett.

That afternoon he would sit on the bench as the Phillies' front-liners — Johnson included — beat Cincinnati's defending National League champions 8-7. Johnson was to double and walk in four trips, and then — in the ninth — hit a skupper to second that was turned into a carnival of errors by the Reds' reserve infielders, allowing the winning runs in.

Strikeouts remain a problem for him. He had 148 last year while performing as Eastern League player of the year with Class AA Reading. He had 148 the year before with Raleigh-Durham, and five more in 12 at-bats with the Phillies at the tag end of 1970.

But he's always been a hitter, starting with his Little League career in Prospect Heights and drawing raves by going 18 for-19 in a state Little League tournament.

He's improved each year in professional ball, and missed the Eastern League's Triple Crown on the last day of last season by finishing second in homers, 34-33. He hit 325 and drove in 120 runs.

He thinks he can do the same in the big time.

"I'm hitting the ball well this spring," he said. "I'm ready. It's just a matter of making the adjustment."

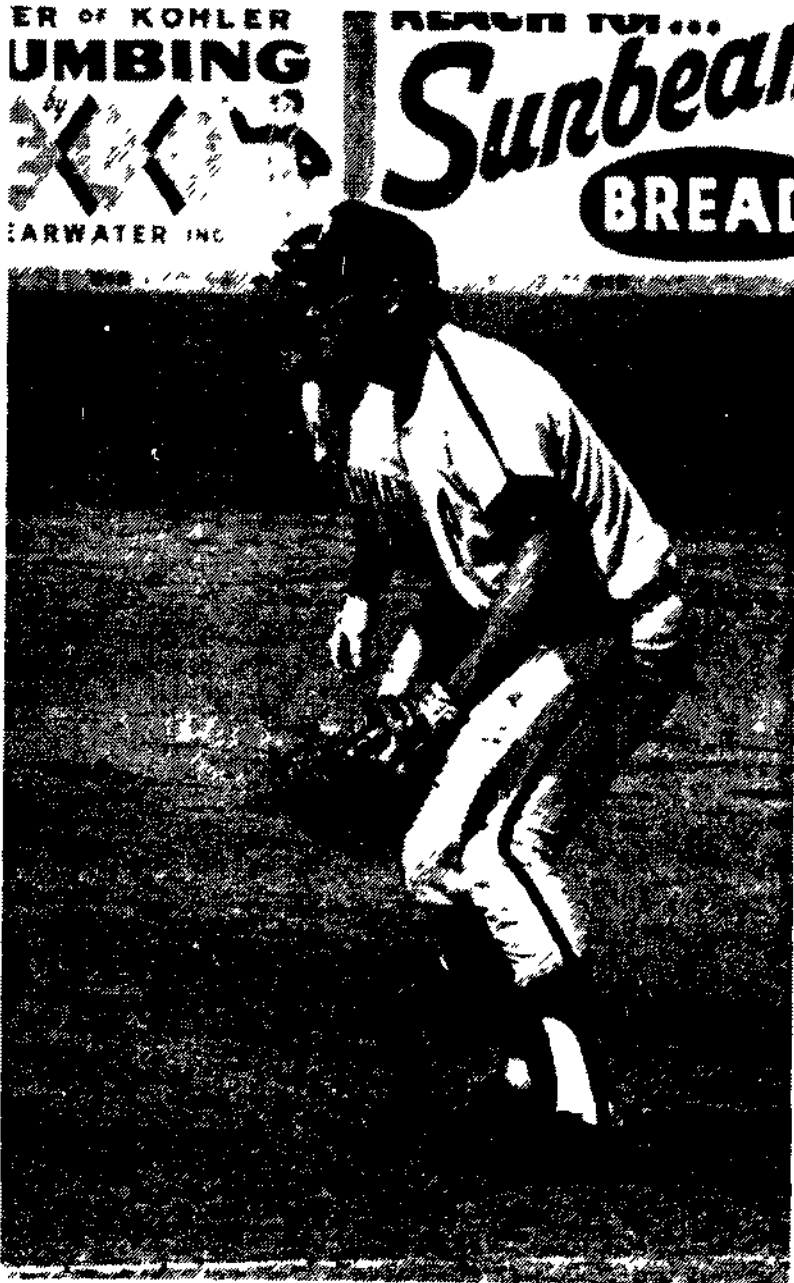

But he knew then — a few days before he got the official word — that he was ticketed to Eugene, and he was preparing himself mentally.

"If I have a good year there, I'll be called up. And if something happens to him (Johnson), it's my job. I'm in line for it."

Everyone connected with the Phillies knows that assumes it. But it was still back to the minors for another year.

The day he switched uniforms — suiting up for Eugene — Luzinski got in a parting shot. He slammed a two-run homer as the exiles beat the parent club 9-7 in an exhibition.

To make his point, he did it again the next day as the Phillies formally broke spring camp. Eugene lost that one, but Luzinski left something to remember him by.

THE OLD PRO — Deron Johnson, one-time National League RBI champion, remains the man in the way in Greg Luzinski's quest for the first base job with the Philadelphia Phillies. Johnson, here holding Cincinnati's Pete Rose close to first during a spring training game, kept his job for another year as Luzinski was ticketed back to the minors.

(Staff Photo)

SWISH! — Greg Luzinski of Prospect Heights and the Philadelphia Phillies fans in B game action during the waning days of the Phillies' spring training at Clearwater, Fla. Strikeouts are a nemesis Luzinski will have to overcome to stick with the big team. He whiffed 148 times in each of his last two minor league seasons.

Area Cyclists Do Well In Lake Geneva Races

The northwest suburban area was well-represented last weekend in bicycle races held at the Lake Geneva Playboy Club.

The races were held on a tight, twisty golf cart path.

In the Midwest Division, Mike Kilfoy of Mount Prospect rode a fine race to finish second. Jim Lamberty of Des Plaines also showed well, taking fourth in the one-mile race.

In the three-mile Intermediate race, the best area showing was by Dennis Kilfoy of Mount Prospect, who took fourth place. In sixth place was Mark Peterson of Mount Prospect. The Junior race saw a complete sweep of the top places by area cyclists. Tony Winder of Des Plaines and Rex Gilmore of Elk Grove Village broke away from the field to finish first and second, respectively. Steve Pederson of Mount Prospect rode a strong race to come in third. Other area riders who did well were Bryan Kilfoy sixth, Dick Robertson eighth and Greg Robertson 18th.

In the tough Senior Division, area riders didn't fare as well with only Wolfgang Freitag of Elk Grove able to crack the top ten. He finished sixth.

Milton Richman

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Montreal Expos are going to move.

What's the what they're going to do about it, however.

Now before it becomes a new crisis in the city, it probably is a good idea to get out of the move. The Expos have a long history of doing with leaving the National League and not the Dominican.

The Expos are only three years old. They've finished on the bottom two years in a row and don't intend to again. They're going to move up this year, and that's the move they're talking about.

If Gene Mauch's crew does get out of the basement in the National League East this year one of the prime movers will have to be Carl Morton, their red-headed, 27-year-old outfielder — turned pitcher who started a lot of people by hitting 18 home runs for Montreal last year.

One of the first things some observers do when they see Morton pitch is compare him with other pitchers. Or try to, anyway. He doesn't think he pitches like anybody else. At least he isn't trying to, consciously.

"The theme around here," he says, "is Mauch and Cal McLish, the pitching coach, is that you can only pitch like yourself. You try to pitch like someone else you're gonna make mistakes. I gotta pitch like me and nobody else."

Named the NL Rookie of the Year last season, Montreal's 6-foot, 190-pound right-hander pitched one two-hitter and three other three-hitters. His 19th victory was an 11-inning 1-0 decision over St. Louis on Sept. 27 for the Expos' first win of the season.

"I had never gotten big league hitters out before last season," says Morton, who appeared in 16 games with Montreal the year before and compiled a 10-1 record. "I found out I could. That's the first hurdle I had to get over and I did."

Two more hurdles for Morton are walks and home runs.

"I've got to cut down on them," he says. "I gave up 27 homers and 125 walks and that's way too many. I led the National League in walks."

There's one other thing Morton will have to cut down on this year. His candor. It got him into a beef with Tom Seaver last May after Morton beat him with a shutout.

"The writers came in and asked me why I thought he, Seaver was wild," Morton says.

"I said maybe he was trying too hard because he had been shut out by Dan McGinnis nine days or so earlier."

Morton's remark was relayed to Seaver and the Mets' pitcher, upset by the loss, called it "silly" and suggested Morton concentrate better on his own affairs.

"I didn't mean it as a slur," Morton explains. "Look, I think he and Gibson have to be the best pitchers around today. I certainly won't put myself in Seaver's class. But I was a little vulnerable that day because I pitched a shutout and was so happy I know what it is to be on the other end. To get shut out, I mean."

It's the hardest loss to accept. But I won't say I'm sorry for having said what I did.

"I've always been too honest. My wife says she can read my face like a book. I know I'm gonna run into some trouble down the line by speaking too candidly. What generally happens is that you hurt somebody's feelings. But I don't intentionally want to hurt anybody. And I don't want to hurt myself."

Talking to Morton you get the idea he wouldn't say what he did again. He went against Seaver in the Expos-Mets opener.

"I try to be a professional," he says, "and when you're a professional you don't criticize another professional. Look me back to that particular Seaver episode. I'd say I was a little too candid. I'm learning though."

Fishing For Coho Evening Planned

The Unimeth Boat Club of Arlington Heights has announced that on Tuesday, April 20 at 7:30 p.m. in Fellowship Hall of First United Methodist Church, 1903 East Euclid, Arlington Heights, there will be a night of Fishing for Coho.

Bud Lemke, chairman, has arranged with two charter boat captains to speak Tom Gockel and Roger Laird, working out of Waukegan will tell how to catch the coho. They will also show movies taken of coho being caught from their boats.

A 28-minute, color movie "Fishing for Coho" produced by Lawrence Electronics, will also be shown. This tells the story of catching coho in Lake Michigan.

Dads are urged to come and bring their sons or else "adopt" a son for the night. Dads with their sons will be eligible for the door prizes.

Display booths are going to be around the hall dealing with the theme of the evening. These booths will include fishing gear, knots, C.B. radios, water pollution, Coast Guard Auxiliary, camping, swap shop, refreshments, scuba diving and the Unimeth Boat Club display.

Donald Reynolds of Arlington Heights is in charge of the swap shop. Any person who has outdoor gear in good condition that he would like to sell should come early and put it on display. The owner puts his own price on the article. Items to be included in the swap shop could be fishing tackle, camping gear, water skiing equipment, boating accessories, and rain gear. For further information call 255-9124.

The committees for the evening are: Citizen's Band Radios — Bruce Hosford and Don Banbury; Knots — Bill Bradish and Larry Ulyatt; Camping — Jay King and Fred Madary; Water Pollution — Jim Ehnborn; Swap Shop — Don Reynolds and Bill Bleck; Unimeth Boat Club — Bud Lemke and Glen Newland, Commodore; Refreshments — Caryl Lemke and Barbara Newland; Coast Guard Auxiliary — Ken and Grace Munro.

The Unimeth Boat Club was organized two years ago. The purposes are to foster and achieve safe boating and to encourage friendship among its members through meetings, outings, and social affairs. Membership requirements are: (1) Any family or person interested in boating may become a member. (2) The club is open to both power and sail boaters. (3) Each boat must meet the Coast Guard requirements. This inspection is held each spring, prior to the cruising season. (4) A minimum Safe Boating Course is required of each member.

It is in keeping with the expressed purposes of the club that this night has been arranged. We feel that it will encourage and promote the sport of safe boating and fishing on Lake Michigan and also encourage concern for clean water.

'Fanatic' Fisherman Hits Record-Breaking Rainbow

By LARRY MEYERZAK

It was quite an unexpected catch for Thompson last Sunday.

Thompson was out to Ave Head Lake near the Parkway to catch a rainbow trout.

Who was he going with was a record breaking catch.

"I'm a fanatic fisherman," Thompson said, "and I wanted to get in some practice for fly fishing so that's why I went out to the lake."

While I was there I noticed some people fishing. I was a little bit late and I didn't want to miss out on the fun so I got out my fishing reel and put a night-crawler on myself.

"I was fishing about three feet deep with a bobber from land close to shore. That's where I hooked him."

"Him" was the largest rainbow trout ever caught in inland waters in Illinois.

"I knew it was a rainbow as soon as he hit," Thompson said, "because he jumped and I got a good look at him."

"I knew when I had him hooked and when I brought him in that it was quite big for a trout. But I had no idea that it was a record catch. In fact, I didn't even know what the record trout weight was."

Thompson took the rainbow trout to the Prospect Heights Post Office where he used the post office's official scale and two postal employees witnessed the weigh-in. The trout's weight was three pounds, two and one-half ounces.

The Illinois Conservation Department was informed of the catch and went to Thompson's home to inspect it. The Conservation Department approved the catch as a certified record catch, breaking the old record of three pounds even, and now Thompson's name is now in the record books.

Teletalk by Douglas Wayne

Here Comes the Fall

One of the most startling developments in the fall TV schedules that were recently announced by the networks is the imbalance as far as types of programs go.

Those people who like variety programs will have only five to choose from, with two on CBS (Glen Campbell, Carol Burnett); three on NBC (Dean Martin, Flip Wilson, Laugh-In); and none on ABC.

Another imbalance, which shows how original and creative the TV people can be, is the overwhelming number of "law and order" shows on the air. There will be policemen, private detectives, investigators, and plenty of criminals all over the screen when the leaves start falling this year.

Eight new series will deal with people enforcing the law, to add to the seven law enforcement shows that will be returning from this season. Technically, there will actually be 18 shows about law people, including three westerns which feature lawmen.

Why the brains at the networks suddenly decided that everyone wanted to see cops and robbers is one of those mysteries that mere viewers and TV critics can never figure out.

It seems that every year there is a fad for a certain type of program, and then the network executives scratch their heads as to why people get tired of a glut of the same type of programs.

Oh well, maybe by mid-winter all of the cops and robbers will have killed each other off, and we may get to see some drama shows without shooting, or perhaps a neat little variety show done in a truly different way.

Maybe.

I have just heard the song Fly Me to the Moon, so I am now in favor of the space program.

I also listened to Bubbles in the Wine, which is Lawrence Welk's theme song, and I have decided to become an alcoholic.

Finally, I decided to listen to the popular World War II song Praise the Lord and Pass the Ammunition, and I have decided to go bomb some innocent people.

Sound absurd?

I think it is no more absurd than the Federal Communications Commission's decision to threaten radio and television broadcasters about playing "drug-oriented" songs.

Even the director of the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs in Washington, D.C., John Ingersoll, (according to Broadcasting magazine) has said that he doubts very much that song lyrics would affect anyone's judgment as to the desirability of taking drugs.

In the meantime, $10.5 million of the taxpayers' money is being spent by the Army to get more recruits.

Apparently it is all right to sell government programs with the taxpayers' money, but it is not all right for people to incidentally make vague references to drugs in songs.

To show you how truly difficult it is to determine whether a song makes some reference to drugs, what about these songs?

I Get a Kick Out of You; Making Whoopee; Smoke Gets in Your Eyes; and what about that well-known pro-drug song Green, Green Grass of Home?

One does not have to be pro-drug or anti-Army to be against infringement of free speech (the implied FCC threat to broadcasters about drug lyrics) and the waste of taxpayer's dollars to promote an idea (the big Army ad campaign).

Something just seems to be wrong somewhere when these strange broadcasting things can happen with so little opposition from our elected representatives.

TV MAILBAG

Teletalk Mailbag
c/o Paddock Publications
P.O. Box 280
Arlington Hts., Ill. 60006

I love your Teletalk and TV Mailbag and I'd like to ask a couple of questions. First, are Hugh Hefner and Barbi Benton still going together or what? Second, I'd like to know just what the ratings are on Hefner's PLAYBOY AFTER DARK?

Doug Young
Woodridge

ANSWER

As last report "Hef" and Miss Benton were still very much going together, although no wedding plans has been announced. Miss Benton under Hefner's supervision is attempting to make a career in acting.

PLAYBOY AFTER DARK is a syndicated program produced by Hefner and has a national rating as prime time network shows do. It seems to have an appeal to a certain segment of the TV audience and will probably be seen on stations that pick it up for as long as Hefner wishes to make the program.

Where can I write DORIS DAY? She is my favorite actress. I am six years old.

Bill Jones
Bensenville

ANSWER

You can write Miss Day in care of CBS, 51 W. 52nd St., New York, 10019.

You will be happy to know that the DORIS DAY SHOW will be returning this fall at 9 p.m. Mondays. Miss Day, one of Hollywood's more durable actresses, was 47 on April 3. She became a top recording star during the 1940's with bandleaders Bob Crosby and Les Brown, and made her first movie in 1947.

I was very glad to see the TV Time added to your paper, but I am most unhappy about one thing. Why do you have that blob in the middle of the TV Mailbag page? You can see parts of questions and answers but not all of them.

Most especially, I am referring to the question "what is the theme song of CREATURE FEATURES and how is the rating?" I have been wanting to find out the name of the song for a long while, and lo and behold here is the question in your TV Mailbag with an answer I can't fully read.

I am frustrated. Will you please be so very kind as to print this answer over again so I can read it?

A now happy housewife

ANSWER

The "blob" was to provide information about how to send questions or comments to the Mailbag. Now that we have begun receiving numerous local letters, you will notice it is gone.

The theme song used on WGN-TV's CREATURE FEATURES is "Experiment in Terror" by Henry Mancini, from the movie of the same name. WGN reports that CREATURE FEATURES is a popular program in its time slot on Saturday nights. Horror movies have always drawn a large audience and probably always will.

My favorite show is MISSION IMPOSSIBLE. My favorite actor on that program is Leonard Nimoy. Where can I write him?

Mrs. Lebaule
Bensenville

ANSWER

You can write Mr. Nimoy

in care of CBS, 51 W. 52nd St., New York, 10019.

Although MISSION IMPOSSIBLE has been renewed for next fall, Leonard Nimoy has asked to be released from his contract to pursue other ventures, which may include a new TV series with him as the star. Leslie Warren may also not return on MI in the fall.

Where can I write to Bill Cosby? I think he is so cool he's cold. Thank you very much.

David Horn
Bensenville

ANSWER:

You can write Mr. Cosby in care of NBC, 300 W. Alameda Ave., Burbank, California.

THE BILL COSBY SHOW will not be returning this fall. Not because of ratings, which have been good, but because Cosby does not want to continue with the grind of a television series.

Cosby will continue to make guest appearances and night club dates, but has said he wants to become involved in other pursuits, perhaps even teaching.

Where can I write Tom Jones? I think he is the greatest man alive. Thank you.

Mrs. V.S. Johnson
Wood Dale

ANSWER:

You can address mail to Tom Jones to ABC, 1330 Avenue of the Americas, New York, 10019.

Although his weekly show has been cancelled, Tom Jones will do a monthly program for ABC next year.

My favorite actor is William Shatner. I though he was great in VANISHED. Could you please give me his address?

Mrs. Williams
Bensenville

ANSWER:

If you would send your mail to NBC, 300 W. Alameda Ave., Burbank, California, I'm sure they would be happy to forward it to Mr. Shatner.

Revised Hospital Plans Presented By Developer

by PAT GERLACH

Representatives of J. Emil Anderson & Sons presented revised site plans for a proposed Schaumburg Road hospital and medical complex this week.

They reaffirmed intent to donate a 10 acre site for the project and also offered to keep an adjacent 10 acres available for later purchase.

This information was given to Schaumburg's zoning board of appeals Wednesday by Marvin Glink, counsel for the developer resulting from questioning by Mrs. Patricia Caldwell, a resident of the Timbercrest subdivision.

Although the 10 acre site was pledged for a hospital more than three years ago, officials of the Hospital Planning Council bed hospital would be needed in the area, Brandel said.

Referring to information about the site from the Hospital Planning Council, the official review group for licensing hospitals, Brandel said he has a letter from Hiram Sibley, of the council, written three years ago and declaring the original ten acre site acceptable.

Regarding recent comment from Sibley concerning close proximity of the Schaumburg site to St. Alexius Hospital, Brandel noted that it is "highly plausible" that the facility being planned will not duplicate services available at St. Alexius.

He estimated the cost of the hospital at between $35,000 and $40,000 per bed, calling this "unique because it is actually very inexpensive," because of pre-cast concrete construction with administration area and services centered in cores.

CONCERNING FUNDING for the hospital, Brandel explained that the initial step consists of obtaining a site, and then an appointed hospital committee or board approaches industry for "seed" money.

These funds then are used to hire architects and get the project under way, Brandel said. Fund raising can then be continued in several ways which might consist of either referendum or drive for donations he added.

Glink agreed to fund installation of a 500 gallon well, lift station and the necessary connections to the existing hospital sewer and water system, and to consider financing the widening of Schaumburg Road in the area of the hospital and "de-acceleration lanes" leading into the medical complex.

Brandel estimated that it will take a minimum of from three to five years before physical work can begin on the proposed center.

for Metropolitan Chicago recently disclosed that it would not consider a hospital adequate on less than 25 acres.

Following recent discussions between Anderson and the Dist. 54 Board of Education, in which a $92,300 donation was promised the elementary district, it was expected that the firm would announce its intention to donate the entire 20-acre parcel.

AT A CONTINUED hearing April 21, the developer is expected to provide more information concerning cost per acre of the additional ten acre site the firm intends to sell to the hospital.

Since the first hearing in February, the site plan has been revised, decreasing the total number of townhouses and apartments from slightly over 800 to 567 units. No rental cost or purchase price has been announced.

The revised plan has also reduced 12-story buildings to a maximum of five floors.

IF HOSPITAL expansion is not found necessary, Anderson intends to have the additional area developed as originally planned and more apartments and townhouses would then be considered.

The developers expect the townhouses and rental units to be occupied by doctors and nurses.

Originally plans anticipated 238 school age children. Fewer are now expected due to the reduction.

The donation to Dist. 54 is more than $150 per unit.

Paul Brandel, one of the owners of the property, is also involved in a hospital planned for Northbrook. He said more than 600 hours has been spent in preparing a design for the Schaumburg site, which would be appropriate for construction in any community.

A 1000 BED facility, to be built in phases, is proposed but initially a doctors building plus a 250-bed wing is planned.

It might be determined that only a 500

Residents Seem Interested, Informed

Residents of Schaumburg's Timbercrest subdivision appear interested, well informed and vocal concerning a hospital and medical complex under consideration immediately north of their area.

Commenting during Wednesday night's zoning board hearing on the proposed complex, Mrs. Carol Johnson, of Hazel Court, said she felt that an urban hospital is being planned for the Schaumburg Road site rather than a suburban facility.

She noted that suburban hospitals frequently operate with four or five shorter shifts opposed to the three eight hour shifts used by urban hospitals.

Mrs. Johnson said that this provides work for residents on a shorter time basis but could also create parking problems on what she frankly feels is too small a site.

Paul Brandel, one of several owners of the land involved, explained that he is involved currently in a hospital project in Northbrook and assured the resident that the site is adequate.

Brandel contends that the Hospital Planning Council for Metropolitan Chicago stresses the importance of 25 acre minimum sites in order to preserve open space while, essentially, a hospital such as the Northbrook facility could be constructed on a total of five acres.

Timbercrest residents informed Brandel that they have a letter from the Cook County Department of Public Health which stipulates that no organization can be considered for hospital approval on less than 20 acres of space.

In reply, Brandel said that 20 acres is desirable because of the amount of open space necessary to make the area attractive.

Mrs. Johnson also said that from recent reports Hoffman Estates citizens studying the feasibility of hospital construction on a 25 acre site "seem to be able to tell us exactly what kind of a hospital they want and we know nothing about the one in Schaumburg."

Ward Weaver, chairman of the hospital committee, told Mrs. Johnson that his committee has been studying the hospital proposal for more than three years and said that similar discussions only began in Hoffman Estates "four or five weeks

A Herald Editorial

Jelen, Spatz Our Choice

The Herald endorses Adam J. Jelen Jr. and Sherwood (Jerry) Spatz for election to the Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 board of education.

Residents of the district will go to the polls in that election tomorrow, and The Herald recommends voting for the two named candidates for a number of reasons.

Jelen has several ideas which we feel could save the taxpayers of Dist. 54 money, without costing quality in education. He urges a stronger attitude toward developers in the district. While we feel the current board has done much to put negotiations with developers on a sounder plane, Jelen's suggestions for activism bear consideration.

AND WE AGREE with his insistence on speeding up soil tests at donated sites. The recent problems at the Kaufman and Broad site show the danger of delays.

We also like Jelen's ideas about group purchasing, which tie in with his plans to improve relationships with other governmental bodies. With all school districts benefiting from the savings, cooperation should come easier here than it might in other areas.

Finally, Jelen has a point when he says the school district can become a uniting factor for the villages and unincorporated areas it serves. This should be the basis for understanding in the future.

SPATZ IS OUR choice for some of the same reasons, but the major one is his enthusiasm. Spatz is an idea man and has demonstrated his interest and imaginative approaches to problems by speaking at school board meetings, not just attending and keeping still. We believe he will act as a catalyst for the board, both as a suggester and as a questioner.

We find his awareness of issues beyond district boundaries enlightening, and believe the board would benefit from them.

Spatz also has concrete ideas on possible economies.

And, unpopular as it may be, we accept Spatz's contention that bus-ing in Dist. 54 should be eliminated wherever possible. As Spatz says, the citizens are paying to have neighborhood schools, schools close to their homes.

AND INCIDENTALLY, we feel Hanover Park representation on the board, and board representation in Hanover Park, would be a good thing. Spatz says he will represent the entire district, not one village.

Immediate Creek Action Is Urged

by JERRY THOMAS

"We must get concerned now, later is too late," said Hoffman Estates trustee Mrs. Virginia Hayter at Wednesday's organizational meeting of a citizens committee to study the Poplar Creek Watershed.

Let's work on the plan now to prevent a problem later, she urged, asking volunteers for three formative committees: development and research, ecology and recreation, and a membership.

She urged representatives from Schaumburg, Barrington, Palatine and Hanover Townships to volunteer their services for the study group to determine how flow and drainage within the watershed effect Schaumburg. Hoffman Estates, Barrington Hills, South Barrington, Streamwood and Elgin.

The Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago is funding a $1.5 million complete metropolitan area study and the Soil Conservation Service is conducting the primary work.

MSD representative Richard Lanyon, supervising engineer of flood control, said although MSD will provide the expertise, citizens from within the townships and villages in the watershed are important to the work.

IF SHOWED examples of other watersheds and the efforts of the MSD to provide flood control.

The Poplar Creek Watershed is unique because it is primarily undeveloped and controls for flooding can be put into effect now more effectively and economically, said Lanyon.

This is why representation from developing communities is needed, he said.

Village officials not only know how the area will develop, but can by ordinance build in controls so builders will not develop within flood plains without providing detention areas, suggested Lanyon.

He showed examples of builders' cooperation with the MSD and community by providing retention basins in the midst of housing. Lanyon said the most often asked question he faces is "why not just enlarge the waterways and stop flooding in a community."

It's not the answer, said Lanyon, because it just pushes the problem downstream.

Lanyon said the Poplar Creek watershed covers approximately 1,200 miles in the four townships. The head waters of the creek are between Barrington and Palatine Townships and its outlet at Elgin.

HOFFMAN ESTATES, SCHAUMBURG and Streamwood are the only urbanized areas around the creek, and Streamwood has already provided three large retention basins on park property.

Another asset to the Poplar Creek Basin area is that over 3,000 acres of land mostly around the creek is owned by the Cook County Forest Preserve.

Richard Buck representing the Forest

Preserve said initial plans show development of the preserve as a water oriented recreation area. A 143 acre lake in the center of the preserve, and a 30 acre lake west of Sutton Road will be part of a lagoon system along the creek.

Lanyon said forest preserve cooperation is a "boon" to the MSD's plans for flood control and a real "plum" for area residents.

The greenbelts around the waterways create a restful break from urbanization, and are a natural flood plain without development.

Lanyon pointed out that the Poplar Creek watershed area's recreational development potential and ecology value are good for the communities it lies in.

Mrs. Hayter said she will push quick involvement of her committee by distributing information to anyone interested.

She may be contacted at the Hoffman Estates Village Hall.

MRS. HAYTER said the first two committees, development, and ecology will feed information into the membership committee.

Lanyon said MSD will not act "as nursemaid" to the study group, but will offer help when requested.

MSD has established a River Basin Planning staff, headquartered at Morton Arboretum in Lisle. The steering committee will be the link to the MSD and Illinois Conservation Service sponsors.

Lanyon stressed the group will be concerned with the total development of the basin, not only its flooding and drainage but its recreational possibilities.

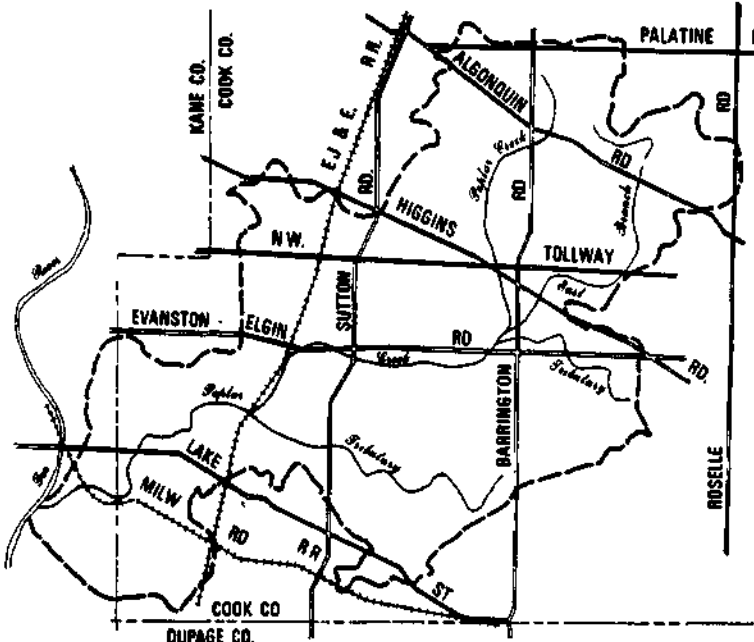

Streamwood officials who hosted the meeting in the Streamwood Village Council Chambers agreed with Mrs. Hayter's "lets take action now" attitude.

"Make builders provide retention areas now. They not only will save the area from flooding, but send the water back into the ground to replenish wells," said John Petrie village manager.

Mrs. Hayter agreed and noted Hoffman Estates with its many shallow wells, is concerned with keeping the water in the area and returning it to the ground.

Others present at the session were: Jim Spore, Elgin planning director; Tom Belton of Elgin, Giles McVey, Elgin sanitary district general manager; Frank Munao, of South Barrington; Ben Naples of the Streamwood Glenbrook Homeowners Association; Ray Carlson of the MSD; Mrs. Mary Casey, a homeowner on Bode Rd. Streamwood trustees and Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg residents.

Mrs. Hayter will announce the next meeting date later this month and asks ecology, and community minded citizens to offer their help. She indicated School District 54 representatives are also interested in the study.

Candidates Speak To PTA Council

The candidates for election to the board of Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 each were given three minutes Wednesday night to present their backgrounds, reasons for running and goals if elected to about 80 voters.

For some, three minutes wasn't nearly enough. But each had a chance to enlarge on his or her comments, when they fielded questions from the floor.

The four candidates for two board seats spoke at an annual event of the Schaumburg Township PTA Council, a Meet the School Board Candidates Night. Also behind the podium were candidates for the board of Harper Junior College, Dist. 512, and Schaumburg-Palatine High School Dist. 211. More questions were directed at the Dist. 54 candidates than at either of the other two groups.

The candidates spoke in order of their listing on the ballot in tomorrow's voting, Dr. Bernard J. Powell, Adam J. Jelen Jr., Sherwood Lee (Jerry) Spatz and Mrs. Connie Schoeld.

Powell said he was running because he has "an honest wish for a chance to implement those things for the improvement of the education for children."

DR. POWELL SAID he was running because he has "an honest wish for a chance to implement those things for the improvement of the education of children."

He urged a more structured committee system for the board, and asked the voters to make their attitudes known to the board. He predicted the board will "examine new and untested concepts of education" in the next three years, and said he would be concerned both with them and with financial solvency.

Jelen said he seeks the best education for children the taxpayers can afford, and said he will work for maximum builder contributions, top level teachers, a satisfied staff working together, and said he would be concerned both with them and with financial solvency.

Spatz cited his teaching experience and said he had a strong and varied business background. He said he would bring leadership and creative ability to the board, and cited three questions the citizens must face. They must decide what they want in the way of education, what they will do to achieve it, and if they are fit to run their own school systems, he said. He also said he seeks the answers to those and other questions.

Mrs. Schoeld said she and other mothers have a "vested interest" in children, and said her three reasons for running for the board were experience, time and interest. She has been active in board committees and other community organizations, she has time to devote to the board and she has great interest she said. She also said she favored restructuring of committees to bring persons with expertise to board service.

ago." "It is one thing to say you will do something and quite another to actually produce it," Weaver added.

In response to further questioning from Mrs. Johnson, Weaver confirmed that he is president of Schaumburg State Bank. J. Emil Anderson, the developer proposing the center, is chairman of the board, and Brandel and Wayne Schaible, Dist. 54 superintendent, are directors.

Mrs. Johnson said she believed that with all of these people, including Weaver, vitally involved in the hospital that control will actually always remain in their hands.

She said she has talked with several members of "the so-called hospital committee" and discovered that these individuals have never attended a committee meeting and are unaware of current planning.

Weaver told Mrs. Johnson that his committee is large and people involved in areas such as fund raising cannot even organize at this stage of the game.

"As far as I am concerned, when my four year term as head of this committee expires, I intend to resign," Weaver said, explaining that committee by-laws require such action.

All planning plus the hospital site itself will be turned over to the committee and neither Anderson, Brandel nor Weaver will retain any control, the bank president said.

Leaflet Furor In Board Race

by TOM WELLMAN

A handbill distributed by a group calling itself "Citizens for an Outstanding Harper College" has caused a last minute furor in the college's board of trustees' race.

The leaflet, which endorses three Harper candidates, charges the election of two other candidates, Hannah Wilson and Larry Moran, is directed towards a "student educator takeover" of the board.

It has been mass leafletted at train stations and will be handed out again to day. The leafletting has inspired a threat by Moran that he will take legal action against the leafletters.

Robert Faust, a Rolling Meadows resident has asserted that James Hamill, retiring chairman of the Harper College board of trustees, is leading the group called Concerned Citizens for an Outstanding Harper College.

Faust said yesterday that the group which he says includes current trustee Jessalyn Nicklas, and several local political figures, met last Friday at the home of Richard Snyder, a GOP precinct captain in Palatine to plan the campaign.

SINCE THE ALLEGED meeting, a series of handbills have been distributed at railroad stations and through the mail to support the candidacies of Ross Miller, D. Eugene Nugent and Milton Hansen for the board.

The distribution of the handbills has angered Moran, a student at Northwestern Illinois State College, and Mrs. Wilson, a nurse in Dist. 54.

The handbills indicate Moran's and Mrs. Wilson's candidacy, and assert that, if the two win, "chances are relatively great Harper students and the majority of citizens in the district will not be best served."

If they are elected and gain control of the board, "There is likely to be chaos on the board and with the administration, more disruption on campus, and, of most importance, accelerating tax referendum proposals," the handbills say.

MRS. WILSON in the past has charged it contains "blatant lies." She asserted yesterday she has no place in her campaign for smear tactics and it is the group's prerogative to lean on party politics, if they choose.

Moran after several consultations with the Mount Prospect police, has threatened to complain to the State's Attorney on the grounds it is an anonymous publication.

He indicated that, unless Miller withdrew from the race last night, he will go to the State's Attorney today. He asserts that the "anonymous handbills were printed at Miller's orders by a print shop in Mount Prospect."

Hamill could not be reached Thursday afternoon to comment on the charges and statements. He was not present at last night's Harper board meeting.

MRS. NICKLAS SAID she had been active among her friends in the Inverness area, but that "groups overlap," and that she couldn't say if she attended the Friday meeting.

The handbill was distributed yesterday morning in Arlington Heights, and later in the day a slightly modified handbill was distributed at the Mount Prospect train station.

RICHARD COWEN, Wheeling Twp. GOP committeeman, said that his organization "has taken no stand and will not do so, it is not our policy."

He added, "I know there are a number of people who are actively involved — maybe 10 or 15 — and I think most of them are doing so because of friendship with Jim Hamill."

"We encourage Republicans to be active in local elections, but they do so only as individuals," he said.

Harper Board Election Tomorrow

Voters will go to the polls tomorrow to elect three persons from a field of eight candidates to serve three-year terms on the Harper College board.

The election will conclude a hotly contested election in which a discussion of Harper's future has been mixed with a debate about the role of educators and students on the Harper board.

The eight candidates, in order of appearance on the ballot, are Hannah Wilson of Mount Prospect, Larry Moran of Schaumburg, Milton Hansen of Palatine, Ross Miller of Mount Prospect, Gene Beery of Palatine, Robert Fuchs of Prospect Heights, D. Eugene Nugent of Palatine and Larry Barry of Buffalo Grove.

THE CANDIDATES, with the exception of Beery and Barry, have spent the last two weeks attending candidates nights, speaking at neighborhood coffees and distributing literature.

By tomorrow night, however, there will be three winners. The 46 polling places in Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg and Barrington Townships will be open from noon to 7 p.m.

Returns will then be phoned into the college's business offices at Algonquin and Roselle roads, Palatine.

The six candidates made their last formal appearance as a group Wednesday night, as they addressed about 80 persons at the Schaumburg PTA at Jane Addams Junior High School in Schaumburg.

On Thursday, Martin Ryan, president of the college's Faculty Senate, asserted the idea of a faculty "conspiracy" to elect board members was "ludicrous."

RYAN WAS responding to a charge made by James Hamill, retiring board chairman, who asserted a student-faculty "take over" of the board was under way.

Admitting Hamill was "sincere" in his allegations, he stated, "There's no cohesiveness among the faculty in regards to candidates for the board."

Ryan added he doubted candidates had gained a "significant" amount of money last year from donations, and he added that some faculty members have supported each of the candidates.

He commented that a 49 per cent figure of projected total budget increases for the faculty id the Faculty Senate's salary proposal is accepted was "grossly exaggerated."

He added he felt the faculty felt somewhat "insulted" as Hamill's charges "simply weren't true."

Last year's election drew 11,000 ballots. Observers are expecting a smaller turnout, as Sunday is Easter Sunday.

SIGNIFICANT factors in the outcome are expected to include the weather, geographical voting and the impact of the campaigning.

Mrs. Wilson, a nurse in Dist. 54, and Larry Moran, a student at Northeastern Ill. State College, have been prime targets of Hamill's charges. Both individually deny they are part of a "conspiracy" and both state they aren't working together.

Miller, Nugent and Hanson, the only incumbent seeking reelection, have been endorsed by a group calling itself Citizens Committee for a Better Harper College.

The forums which the candidates have attended have been marked primarily by a discussion of the college's future financial problems and the need for better public communications. The "takeover" issue has sparked some brief but heated exchanges.

College officials reported Thursday that 55 absentee ballots had been cast in the election. The actual vote-counting will begin Saturday evening.

Challenge Bugh's Statement

Hanover Park Trustees Barry Rogers and Jim Lewis challenge fellow board member David Bugh's critical statements concerning incumbent trustees running for reelection under the Hanovers Own Party banner.

"Who's fooling whom?" ask Rogers and Lewis as they complain about letters Bugh has written to area newspapers all with severe criticism of his fellow former running mates.

Bugh, Rogers and Lewis are not up for reelection, but Trustees James Schueber and Louis Barone are. All five ran under the Peoples Own Party slate in the last election together with President Richard Baker.

As Barone and Schueber joined by a third running mate, James Kamradt, work on their campaign Bugh says their decisions the past two years have been "unwise" and accuses the two of being "puppets."

Rogers and Lewis are challenging present trustee Bugh's own record in office. During the past year he has chaired the streets committee.

"For two years Bugh has failed to accept or get into the village one street or completed area developed by builders. "His neglect in this, his responsibility, has put the village in a bad legal position since the longer the village waits the harder it is to get faulty work completed," said Lewis.

The trustees charge further "that Bugh has failed to see that proper bonds have been submitted to the village for streets work being built since his election."

"When the Public Works Department was criticized for an inadequate snow plowing job in December Bugh, who chairs the committee, placed the blame on the village employees," they said. "He neglected to mention that he did not order the new heavy truck snow plowing trucks until November and that the trucks had not yet arrived," Rogers said.

"Bugh gripes about unnecessary expenditures by the village and yet fails to mention that he did not get sealed bids on $9,000 worth of village equipment he purchased after misleading his fellow board members into believing he had received sealed bids," said Rogers and Lewis.

The trustees state that "it is not unusual to see trustees vote together on issues when they ran on the same platform. It is unfortunate that during most of the two years Bugh has been on the board he has spent in endless bickering with every member of the board," said Rogers.

Rogers and Lewis said they did not intend to become involved in this election but felt "Bugh's letters must be answered."

"We accept the fact that no one is perfect and felt it was necessary to call this to the attention of Pastor Bugh," said Lewis and Rogers in a joint announcement to residents.

Kindergarten Enrollment Set

Kindergarten enrollment days are scheduled in several elementary schools in Elgin School District U-46.

Children who will be five years old before Dec. 1 should be brought by their parents to the school in their local area on one of the days listed below.

At the time of enrollment the school nurse, social worker, speech correction-ist and PTA health chairman will be present along with the principal and kindergarten teachers.

Enrollment forms, medical and dental cards and other materials will be available. Birth certificates may also be registered.

"This is a good opportunity for parents and children to become acquainted with the school's programs and staff," says Harry Michelson, director of elementary education.

HE SAID THAT school health officials urge parents to make medical and dental appointments before June since students entering 5th and 9th grades must also schedule medical appointments. This would leave the summer vacation time for the older children who are in school now to receive a medical examination.

Registration, medical and dental cards must be completed and returned to the school by the opening of kindergarten sessions.

For obtaining birth certificates for children born in Elgin, parents should send the child's name, date of birth and $2 to Jeanette Fairchild, registrar, Elgin City Hall, Birth Records, Elgin.

Or parents may call the registrar at 693-6500, ext. 222.

If the child was born outside of Elgin, parents should apply to the county clerk in the county where the birth occurred.

The following days are scheduled in the schools as kindergarten enrollment days: parents should check with their school for time of the meeting:

April 16, Glenbrook School (enrollment to be held at Eastview Junior High School, Oak St., Bartlett); April 16, Ridge Circle School, 420 Ridge Circle Dr., Streamwood; April 19, Parkwood School, (enrollment to be held at Woodland Heights School, 900 Park Blvd., Streamwood); April 27, Laurel High School, 1750 Laurel St., Hanover Park.

Absentee Ballots Available Now

Voter applications and absentee ballots for the Hoffman Estates municipal election on April 20 are available at the village hall, 161 Illinois Blvd.

Applications may be made by mail until April 15 or in person during the regular office hours by April 17. Office hours are 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. weekdays and 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday.

Persons who are ill or who will not be in Hoffman Estates on April 20 are eligible to vote by absentee ballot.

Reporter Involved In Auto Accident

Schaumburg Police are investigating a two-car collision at the Springcreek and Wise Road intersection in Schaumburg that occurred about noon Thursday.

Miss Nancy Cowger, 25, of 364 Bode Road, Hoffman Estates, a Herald staff writer and the driver of one of the autos, was taken to St. Alexius Hospital in Elk Grove, treated and released.

Three children, passengers in the second auto drive by their father, William Wismerslage, 31, of 100 Grove Ave., Wood Dale, and another passenger Patrick MacKay, 21, of 137 Roeder Rd., Melrose Park, were also taken to St. Alexius hospital and held for observation.

Water Bids Awarded

The Hoffman Estates village board, Wednesday night, awarded John Nuxen & Co. the contract for $12 million in revenue bonds for water improvements in the village.

The firm was the low bidder at 5.675 per cent. Two other bids were received and ran as high as 5.8 per cent. The bonds are to be paid between 1973 and 1998.

Dan Larson, administrative assistant, said Paul D. Speer & Associate, the village financial consultant estimated bids would come in at about 7 per cent.

It was speculated the bids came in lower than expected because Mullicon Inc. and Kaufman and Broad, two developers affected by the water facility improvement, have guaranteed revenues up to $200,000 to pay for the bonds.

The improvements will include a well and storage tank in the Winston Knolls subdivision. Larson said. The project improvements to the apartment area will cause no increased cost to home owners, he added.

Vegas Night Slated

April 17 is the date for the Schaumburg Jaycees' first annual Las Vegas Night. Activities will start at 8 p.m. in the Golden Acres Country Club on Roselle Road.

Proceeds will be used for the development of Jaycee Park in the Weatherfield section of Schaumburg.

Initiated At WIU

Janis Johnson, 289 Illinois Blvd., Hoffman Estates, a junior majoring in home economics at Western Illinois University, Macomb, has been initiated into Kappa Omicron Phi, honorary home economics society.

Circulating Pardon Petitions

Legion, Students Support Calley

Adults and children alike came out this week in Palatine Township with a show of support for Lt. William Calley, Jr.

On both sides of the 'generation gap,' a group of 7th graders from Plum Grove School and a group of American Legion members from Post 690 in Palatine came to the defense of the 27 year old soldier who was recently sentenced to life imprisonment for mass murders in My Lai in 1968.

Those rallying to Calley's defense represent a cross-section of young and old throughout Palatine, Rolling Meadows and Inverness.

Monday night 31 members of American Legion Post 690 unanimously passed a resolution asking for a full pardon and restoration of all rights for Calley.

The measure was adopted by only 10 per cent of the Palatine Legion's full membership however, which is more than 300 men.

LAVERNE GUNDERSON, post commander, said the resolution will be sent to President Nixon, and Illinois senators and congressmen.

Gunderson said the resolution was based on the belief that Calley's conviction is not in the best interest of the morale of our troops and world opinion.

The resolution was passed after a lengthy debate among Legion members.

The Legion resolution also asked that all citizens from the surrounding area, join in their appeal by writing letters and sending telegrams to President Nixon and their representatives in Washington, D.C. and Springfield.

AND YESTERDAY a group of 20 seventh graders from Plum Grove School started their long trek to gain some 4,000 to 5,000 signatures on a petition which will also be sent to President Nixon and other officials after it is completed in about two weeks.

A spokesman for the school said the petition is not sponsored by Plum Grove's administration or teachers and the children are not allowed to circulate it during class time.

Mark Rosanova, 13, 132 Halkirk Circle in Inverness is heading the effort. He said the petition reads:

"We the undersigned believe that Lt. William Calley, Jr. should not be responsible for his actions at My Lai under and pertaining to the Military Code of Justice Article II. Therefore punishment should not have been issued. We demand that justice is arrived at."

ROSANOVA SAID the petitions will be circulated in Palatine, Rolling Meadows.

Inverness, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights and areas of high-density concentration such as Randhurst and O'Hare Airport.

"If all goes well, we even hope to get it out into Hoffman Estates and that area," he said.

Rosanova added that many of the school children will take petitions with them to other states over this spring vacation.

"After it's all over, we are even considering sending a petition to Lt. Calley just to show him that he has some backers," the 13-year old school boy said.

In San Juan just off of Ashford we discovered an Italian restaurant called Portofino's. ## Dr. Preston Bradley Addresses Students

Students at Jane Addams Junior High School honored Dr. Preston Bradley 83 with a standing ovation after he spoke at an assembly there Tuesday afternoon.

Dr. Bradley was a companion to Jane Addams for whom the school was named when she marched down Chicago's State Street for women's suffrage. He spoke of that event and later told the school debate club about his debating techniques. At the assembly his speech concentrated on youth and education. He contended that the youth of today will save the world.

Dr. Bradley is a lecturer and author and he founded the People's Church of Chicago of which he is senior pastor. His morning services have been broadcast by radio for 47 years.

Dr. Bradley spoke at the school on invitation of Mark Mandall, seventh grader.

Firemen Battle Blaze In Barn

Hoffman Estates fire department was called to a barn fire shortly after 5 p.m. yesterday near Bode and Barrington Road, a fire district spokesman said.

The Ontarioville and Schaumburg fire departments were also on the scene to provide equipment and manpower assistance, he added.

Rolling Meadows fire department was also called for mutual aid to cover Hoffman Estates Fire Station One on Flagstaff Lane in case another fire broke out in the area, the spokesman said.

All on-duty personnel and volunteers in Hoffman Estates were called to the fire, he added.

A report came within an hour that the fire was extinguished.

Luzinski Plays In Eugene And Waits For Big Chance

by KEN KNOX

When the Philadelphia Phillies opened the 1971 major league baseball season, Greg Luzinski was digging in at the plate a continent's length away.

He was at Eugene, Ore., starting for the Phillies' entry in the Class AAA Pacific Coast League.

That's as high as you can go in the minors, and for scores of young ballplayers the satisfaction of a lifetime.

But for Greg Luzinski of Prospect Heights, it meant another summer of being the most highly regarded young prospect in the Phillies' farm chain.

He could have been forgiven if he permitted himself some private exultation that Deron Johnson went 0-for-4 in the Phillies' 4-2 opening loss to Pittsburgh.

That's the way of baseball. Someone is always in the way of a young kid on the way up and it's only a matter of time before the fixture has to move aside. If the kid hopes the old-timer breaks a leg, well, that's baseball.

Johnson remains the man in the way of Greg Luzinski. After his third spring training since being the Phillies' No. 1 free agent draft pick in 1968, Luzinski failed again in his challenge for the first base job in Philadelphia.

It was a close thing, but the Phillies stuck again with Johnson, and their reasoning reads soundly.

A few months short of 32, Johnson is one of the few veteran and steady hands on the youth-dominated Phillies. With 27 home runs and 93 runs batted in last year, he's coming off his best season since he led the National League with 130 RBIs for Cincinnati in 1965.

The odds favor at least one more good year for the old pro, while for Luzinski — who turned 21 on April 3 — an added year of seasoning in the highest minors stands to do him more good than a premature shot at the big time, or a year of alternating with Johnson.

Like it or not, Luzinski is being philosophical about it.

Shortly before the Phillies broke spring training at Clearwater, Fla., he engaged in some locker room reflection at Jack Russell Stadium.

"I can't complain," he said. "I got more playing time this spring than the last two years, playing every other day with Johnson."

"What can you say," said the young man who in winter spoke as if he intended to make the Phillies — or else. "They have to get the guy ready."

Luzinski had homered the day before, his second circuit shot of the spring. But this was a bleak day for him.

He appeared as a pinch-hitter in a B game with Cincinnati in the morning, and struck out on four pitches from the Reds' young left-handed phenom Don Gullett.

That afternoon he would sit on the bench as the Phillies' front-liners — Johnson included — beat Cincinnati's defending National League champions 8-7. Johnson was to double and walk in four trips, and then — in the ninth — hit a skipper to second that was turned into a carnival of errors by the Reds' reserve infielders, allowing the winning runs in.

Strikeouts remain a problem for him. He had 148 last year while performing as Eastern League player of the year with Class AA Reading. He had 148 the year before with Raleigh-Durham, and five more in 12 at-bats with the Phillies at the tag end of 1970.

But he's always been a hitter, starting with his Little League career in Prospect Heights and drawing raves by going 18 for-19 in a state Little League tournament.

He's improved each year in professional ball, and missed the Eastern League's Triple Crown on the last day of last season by finishing second in homers, 34-33. He hit 325 and drove in 120 runs.

He thinks he can do the same in the big time.

"I'm hitting the ball well this spring," he said. "I'm ready. It's just a matter of making the adjustment."

But he knew then — a few days before he got the official word — that he was ticketed to Eugene, and he was preparing himself mentally.

"If I have a good year there, I'll be called up. And if something happens to him (Johnson), it's my job. I'm in line for it."

Everyone connected with the Phillies knows that, assumes it. But it was still back to the minors for another year.

The day he switched uniforms — suiting up for Eugene — Luzinski got in a parting shot. He slammed a two-run homer as the exiles beat the parent club 9-7 in an exhibition.

To make his point, he did it again the next day as the Phillies formally broke spring camp. Eugene lost that one, but Luzinski left something to remember him by.

Board Hopefuls, Referendum To Voters Tomorrow

Voters in School Dist. 21 will vote tomorrow on two tax rate increases, a building bond issue and election of two school board members.

Polls will be open from noon to 7 p.m.

Voters will be asked to approve issuance of $4.5 million in bonds to build two new elementary schools and additions to the three junior high schools.

They will also be asked to approve a 20-cent tax rate increase in the education fund and a 10-cent tax increase in the building fund. Approval of these two proposals would raise the educational fund tax rate from $1.60 to $1.80 per $100 assessed valuation and the building fund tax rate from 25 cents to 35 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

In the school board election incumbents Ronald Weiner of Wheeling and Jeremiah G. Cruse of Arlington Heights are unopposed for three-year terms.

POLLING PLACES ARE

Pct. 1 — Wilt Whisman School, 133 S. W. Ave., Wheeling.

Pct. 2 — Jack London Junior High School, 1001 W. Dundee Road, Wheeling.

Pct. 3 — Louisa May Alcott School, 530 Bernard Drive, Buffalo Grove.

Pct. 4 — Robert Frost School, 305 Aspen Drive, Prospect Heights.

Pct. 5 — Edgar Allen Poe School, 2800 N. Highland Drive, Arlington Heights.

Only registered voters may cast ballots. Registration requirements are Illinois residency for one year, Cook County for 90 days and the precinct for 30 days.

Dist. 21 residents may register to vote at the Wheeling Township Hall, 1818 E. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights today from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and tomorrow from 9 a.m. to noon.

IF THE TAX INCREASES are approved, Dist. 21 should receive an additional $340,000 beginning in the 1972-73 school year. Educational fund money will be used to pay for teachers' salaries, books and supplies. Building fund money is used to pay for upkeep and daily operating and maintenance costs of school facilities.

If the building bond proposal is approved, new elementary schools will be built in Prospect Heights and the Mill Creek subdivision of Buffalo Grove. Each school would have a capacity of about 750 students.

Additions to the three junior high schools — James Fenimore Cooper in Buffalo Grove and Oliver Wendell Holmes and Jack London in Wheeling — would also be built. The additions would bring the capacity of the three schools to 1,000 students.

Library To Be Closed

The Wheeling Public Library, 24 S. Dixie Ave., Wheeling, will be closed from April 15 through April 30.

The library will be closed between these dates so that the library can be moved to its new quarters at 850 Jenkins Ct., Wheeling. The library should open in its new location by May 1, according to head librarian Ray Deutsch.

Deutsch said that no charge will be made for library books that are due during the time the library is closed.

BAREFOOT WEATHER led Wheeling High School juniors yesterday as they walked home along Elmhurst Road to Laurie Wilson and Ann Leimetter to shed their shoes begin a week of spring vacation.

A Herald Editorial

Vote 'Yes' Three Times Tomorrow

An issue of top importance — a tax hike and bond issue — will go to the voters in School Dist. 21 tomorrow.

Voters will be asked to authorize issuance of $4.5 million in bonds to construct and equip two new schools and additions to three existing schools.

Two other propositions will ask for authorization to increase the educational fund tax rate by 20 cents and the building fund tax rate by 10 cents.

We feel that all three propositions should be passed.

The need for additional school buildings is evident. Three separate surveys have projected an ultimate enrollment of 20,000 students, compared to the current enrollment of 8,000.

New elementary schools would be built in Prospect Heights and the Mill Creek subdivision of Buffalo Grove. Both sections are critical growth areas.

Issuance of the bonds will not raise the bond and interest tax rate because they will be issued against new assessed valuation in the district.

However, passage of the other proposals would raise taxes $30 per year on a home assessed at $10,000.

Higher taxes are never popular and the state of the economy makes additional taxes even less welcome. Nevertheless, Dist. 21 needs this revenue.

The district has not had a tax increase in seven years, though operating costs have risen steadily.

State aid has risen each year recently, but such an increase in aid will most likely not come this year.

Dist. 21 has demonstrated its willingness to economize. More than $500,000 has been cut from the 1971-72 budget.

Without additional revenue, further cutbacks in the educational program can be expected in 1972. Dist. 21 has nowhere to turn for this revenue but to its own residents.

Good Schools are important to all the residents of a community. By providing a sound education for its youngsters, a community is investing in its future.

Fagan: 'People Haven't Had A Voice Here'

by ANNE SAWYER

In quite a few of the activities of the past year people have not had a voice in local government in Wheeling," Harold Fagan says about the current village board.

Fagan is running as a write-in candidate on the Wheeling Independent Party (WIP) slate for the village board. He is seeking the unexpired two-year trustee term.

Fagan is critical of the board for what he claims is secretiveness and a lack of professional leadership in Wheeling.

Fagan sees flooding, lack of professionalism in government and rezoning for apartments as the three major problems plaguing the village.

He is running for election he says to give the people a choice in the election and to provide a voice for the average citizen in local government.

"In the last three elections it was you either voted for who was on the ballot or you didn't vote at all," Fagan points out.

A staff accountant and administrative assistant for the Mystic Tape division of Borden Chemical Co., Fagan has lived in the village for six years, with his wife Bernice and two children at 232 Renee Terr.

Harold

Fagan is critical of the board's handling of the police strike last summer. He termed a meeting at which the board listened to citizens complaints even though they didn't have a quorum to act "an exercise in futility."

"They made a mockery of the whole thing and used it strictly to tell the people, look the board has listened to you, there's nothing we can do about it," he said.

"YET TWO WEEKS later the board gave these men the money they wanted the additional benefits, everything except the recognition of the association. We're more than likely going to have another police strike this summer to get the same recognition. We go through the whole thing over again because of one item. We didn't have to have the police strike because the money the gentlemen were asking, the board was willing to give them," he said.

Fagan disputed opinions from the village attorney which the board used to refuse recognition to the policemen and to approve the trailer park on McHenry Road. He said the board refused to consider other legal opinions.

Fagan proposed a citizens committee to do all the hiring and firing of civic employees in the village. He said it would "constitute a representative form of grievance procedure for each and every division of local government."

"The reason for this committee is to take hiring and firing out of politics so just one person can't come out and say we want him hired or we don't want him hired for miscellaneous reasons, for personal reasons or for any other reasons," Fagan said.

FAGAN SAID THE village should have put the creek underground into the Des Plaines River. He said the city of Des Plaines had used such an underground creek system to solve its flooding problems.

He said the village should put up temporary retention walls along the creek at the lowest point to protect residential areas from spring flooding until the flood control program is finished.

"You could put up a sand dike south of Dundee through the residential area and let it flood, even if it's only once, on the farmland on Hintz and Wolf roads," he suggested.

CONCERNING outside control of the village board, Fagan said "Every time you challenge them on something the only thing they refer back to is state statutes which they cannot really interpret. You must draw the conclusion that somebody else is influencing their opinions."

Fagan opposes large apartment complexes and said the village should only allow apartments such as three and six flats to be built.

He said if he were elected the village would have a new manager by September.

Fagan also proposed full time trustees and a full time mayor to eventually replace the village manager system the village has now.

He said in hiring a manager he would require a college degree in a field related to business administration and experience.

Lakeside Villa Plat Is Approved

The Wheeling village board approved the final plat for the Lakeside Villas development this week, after developer Al Zale signed a statement promising he would not build on the property until the Cambridge drainage suit is settled.

However, the board told the developer that if a reasonable period of time passed without solving the dispute over drainage with the downstream property owners, the village would reconsider its refusal for building permits.

The board action Monday came after a lengthy discussion between the board, Zale, and Village Atty. Paul Hamer. Hamer told the board that based on a court hearing on the Cambridge case Monday the plat should not be approved for the development.

Lakeside Villas (formerly called Jamestown Circle on the Lake) is the third in a chain of developments serving to drain the southern portion of Cambridge with a series of detention basins. Hamer explained that engineers trying to decide what to do with the waters leaving the detention basin system had failed to reach an agreement.

Cook County has refused to let the drainage basin system empty into its Flintz Road sewers as originally planned.

Hamer said two alternatives were being investigated: running the water by outfall sewer to Schoenbeck Road across property owned by Harold Haar or having the Wheeling Drainage District reactivated to consider making a special assessment of the area for the purpose of extending a sewer to the Lakeside Villas outfall.

A third option, which might be the result, if no agreement can be reached, would be to simply let the water from the system take its natural course across Haar's property. The developers maintain that the runoff cannot legally be more than it is now when the property is undeveloped and that the basin system would keep it that way.

Hamer told the board Monday that in case the size of the Lakeside Villas basin needed changing the village should hold up final plat approval.

Hamer said that he had promised the judge in the Cambridge case Monday that the village would not allow building in the area. He said he had done so to avoid having to hold a hearing on a request from Haar to have a court injunction stop all Wheeling and Buffalo Grove building in the area.

Trustee Michael Valenza argued extensively with Hamer pointing out that a "time clock" of ordinance approval was running on the development and that the village had approved two other developments in the chain, Mallard Lake and Tahoe Village, even though they could not be built yet either.

"Why make this man suffer?" Valenza asked.

Trustee Peter Egan also questioned the fairness of the situation. He said that other villages just let developers build.

Village officials decided that the plat would not be recorded even though it had been approved.

2 To Be Chosen For Board

Voters in Dist. 21 will choose two school board members tomorrow from a field of four candidates that includes a former board member and two incumbents.

Polls will be open from noon until 7 p.m. during the election. Only one polling place will be used—the Anne Sullivan School at Schoenbeck and Palatine roads in Prospect Heights.

Supt. Edward Grodzky said he expected about 500 votes to be cast in the election—about half the number of votes in the district's recent referendum. Grodzky predicted the number of votes would be low because of the Easter weekend.

Jo Ellen Clawes of 203 N. Parkway, is running as an independent candidate. If elected, she says, she would like to help ease the district's financial situation which she terms "critical." Though she does not want the district to hold another referendum for a tax increase soon, she advocates one no later than October.

Incumbent Bruce Wallace, who works for Illinois Bell Telephone Co., is seeking election to his second term as a school board member. Wallace, of 1211 N. Highland Dr., Prospect Heights, has said, "A board member owes it to the district to run for another term. It takes a board member two years (of his three-year term) to get his feet on the ground." Wallace has also said, though, a board member should serve no more than two terms.

Wallace was in favor of the budget cuts made at a Dist. 23 school board meeting, but feels cuts are not the complete solution to the district's financial problems. However, he feels no referendum should be held "until we are fairly sure we can pass it, maybe at the end of the year."

Also up for re-election is the current board president, Mel Lace of 3 Garden Ct., Prospect Heights. Lace, a research manager for Motorola Inc., is also chairman of the Wheeling Plan Commission. Lace feels that if a referendum is passed the district can become solvent again in four to five years.

However, he has also said, "I would not favor a referendum to re-establish the programs that were cut." Lace feels the community gave the go ahead for the cuts by defeating successive referendums last October and April.

Former school board member Roy Weinberg, also a candidate in tomorrow's election, has criticized the present board saying the board members are "not working as a team."

About a referendum Weinberg has said, "I can't see waiting to hold another referendum. That is the only immediate way of getting financial help."

Weinberg has said he agrees with the budget cuts made recently by the board, but not the way in which they were made. He has called for a priority list of program cuts "to know what can be put back if money became available."

Fassbender Property Action Tabled

Wheeling's village board tabled action on the rezoning of property on the south east corner of Milwaukee avenue and Dundee road.

A setback variation is proposed for the property, owned by the late Arthur Fassbender Sr. The variation would permit an office building to be built in line with existing stores in the block.

Fassbender had agreed shortly before his recent death to tear down the 125-year-old building on the corner if the village would grant the variation.

He had refused for years before to tear down the building, which had been damaged when Dundee Road was widened in 1968, maintaining that the building should be restored and preserved for its historic value.

At the village board meeting this week Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlon told the board that Fassbender's son Arthur, had told him the building would be torn down and the property would be sold.

Scanlon said the younger Fassbender said he didn't intend to carry out his father's plan to build an office building on the corner.

A S. Krisor, who had been the attorney representing the property in the zoning variation case, objected to Scanlon's statement.

KRISOR POINTED out that Arthur

Fassbender Jr. was not yet officially appointed executor of the estate. He charged that village employees had questioned the younger Fassbender about his plans for the property even before his father was buried.

Scanlon challenged Krisor's statement, saying he had gone over to offer condolences to the younger Fassbender, a neighbor. The village president denied that anyone else had approached the younger Fassbender. He also said that the son had volunteered the information without being asked.

After the discussion the board tabled the matter until an executor is appointed.

Krisor admitted to the board that he had not been hired as an attorney for the estate in the matter of the building, but said he hoped to be

Crosswalk Paint Urged

A plan to paint crosswalks at busy intersections in Wheeling and a new ordinance to ban noisy mufflers were proposed by Wheeling trustee Ronald Bruhn this week.

Bruhn, chairman of the board's police and fire committee, asked for a report on the crosswalk painting from the police chief and village manager, and an ordinance draft on noisy mufflers from the manager, police chief, and village attorney.

Ted C. Scanlon, village president, told

Bruhn that the state has paint allocated for crosswalk marking, but that the village would have to have its employees do the actual painting.

Scanlon proposed that the walks be painted with white outer stripes and green in the center like those in Highland Park.

Bruhn said a new muffler ordinance should be written so the village can get convictions in court for noisy mufflers. He said the existing ordinance conflicts with the state motor vehicle code.

Two Hurt In Crash

Two area residents sustained minor injuries Tuesday night in a two-car collision at Main Street and Busse Avenue in Mount Prospect.

Nancy Ciallo, 23, of Buffalo Grove and Arthur Gramza, 70, of Mount Prospect were taken to Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines, treated and released.

Police said the two cars collided in the intersection. No charges were filed by police.

Readers Back Dist. 21 Referendum

$30? 'It's A Bargain'

As chairman of the Dist. 21 citizens sub-committee on Projection of Future School Needs, I would like to take this opportunity to endorse the proposed school referendum. The future of quality education that residents of the school district have learned to expect and possibly take for granted is on the line with this referendum.

The administration and board of Dist. 21 are faced with the same problems that a commercial enterprise faces in these times of spiraling costs. However, the commercial enterprise has two choices open to it: raise prices or cut back. The school district can only cut back and to cut back on education is to shortchange the most precious commodity that a nation has — its children. The school district has already cut back on programs that were very valuable. Further cutbacks would necessitate increases in class size and other painful measures.

The tremendous growth increases in the district have necessitated extensive commitments for school facilities. At present, the district educates in excess of 8,000 students. Projections that my committee have developed indicate that the enrollment of the district will reach more than 20,000 during the next 10-15 years. In order to provide for the increases in enrollment, we must do the same as past residents have done — build more schools. The sub-committee advised the board that two additional primary grade buildings would be necessary to handle present increases in pupil population growth. The present junior high schools will either have to be expanded or a new junior high school built. The board decided that the most economical plan was to expand the present buildings. This is consistent with the responsibilities that Dist. 21 has always shown the citizens of the area.

The proposed referendum seeks an increase in the general education fund and authorization to construct two additional buildings and to expand three others. The approval of this referendum will ensure quality education in the district and will only cost the average homeowner about $30 a year — a bargain in this inflationary era. Surely our concerned citizens won't let our children down.

'Buy Kids A Pair Of Shoes'

Ten years ago my oldest daughter started school in a Dist. 21 school. Last fall my son started school in a Dist. 21 school. Ten years ago a pair of shoes for my daughter cost a great deal less than a pair of shoes cost for my son today. Nevertheless, I buy shoes for him. Ten years ago the cost of educating my daughter was a great deal less than the cost of educating my son is today. Nevertheless, I have the same responsibility to my son as to my daughter and I am willing to pay for that responsibility. He deserves, at the least, an equal education.

The facts speak for themselves and the facts have been the same for ten years.

Dist. 21 is a large district with an ever increasing population. My son will not receive an equal education in crowded schools and with additional cutbacks in programs.

Until the State of Illinois adopts a more equal method of distributing funds for aid to education, the burden of increasing costs of education falls on the local taxpayers. Taken by itself, the increase in taxes is a small price to pay to insure a future with adequate buildings and adequate programs for all children in Dist. 21.

'Referendum Is Not Political'

School programs and school problems here in the area which makes up School

Cuts 'Sickening'

I am writing this letter urging the people in School Dist. 21, to vote yes on the referendum tomorrow.

Just from the standpoint of being a parent involved in many of the day to day school activities, I am sick that so many of our wonderful staff and programs have been cut. These people and programs will not be back regardless. However, if this referendum does not pass it will mean additional cutbacks that will ultimately rob our children of a full and proper education.

I have always been so proud of our school district and its fine administrators and totally confident that my children would get the best education possible. Sure, it costs money, but doesn't everything else? We walk into the stores and have to pay higher prices for food and liquor for the body, but are we willing to pay higher prices for food for the mind? Our young people are having to cope with massive problems now in our society and I don't feel that this is the time to cut back on their all important education.

The polls will be open from noon to 7:00 p.m. Please parents, make it a special point to get out and vote yes this Saturday, April 10.

Mrs. Karen Bajlos

'The Line Forms Behind Me'

Our area is facing trying times. Political campaigns are in full swing with promises being made, literature and buttons handed out and time goes on.

In the midst of all this activity, you are asked to give consideration and vote on the school referendum Saturday, April 10. Too much to ask? Not if you want your kids to receive full benefit of the experience and talent combining to form one of the finest school districts anywhere. We can all be proud of this administration and all of Dist. 21.

Yeah, I know it's tough, they need more money. Who doesn't — right? Gas, milk, phone, taxes and on and on. Ask yourselves this — of all the increases which is most important to your family? I would hope that we agree the school is a most needed and influential aspect of our community and that we would do everything necessary to help it function on the level it has in the past to assure all the kids a chance of a good education.

Do your family a favor on April 10. Vote yes on this important issue. Then go back to your complaining about service, government, rising prices and the like. The line forms right behind me.

Harper Election Set Tomorrow

Voters will go to the polls tomorrow to elect three persons from a field of eight candidates to serve three-year terms on the Harper College board.

The election will conclude a hotly contested election in which a discussion of Harper's future has been mixed with a debate about the role of educators and students on the Harper board.

The eight candidates, in order of appearance on the ballot, are Hannah Wilson of Mount Prospect, Larry Moran of Schaumburg, Milton Hansen of Palatine, Ross Miller of Mount Prospect, Gene Berry of Palatine, Robert Fuchs of Prospect Heights, D. Eugene Nugent of Palatine and Larry Barry of Buffalo Grove.

THE CANDIDATES, with the exception of Berry and Barry, have spent the last two weeks attending candidates' nights, speaking at neighborhood coffee and distributing literature.

By tomorrow night, however, there will be three winners. The 16 polling places in Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg and Burlington Townships will be open from noon to 7 p.m.

Returns will then be phoned into the college's business offices at Algonquin and Roselle roads, Palatine.

The six candidates made their last formal appearance as a group Wednesday night as they addressed about 30 persons at the Schaumburg P.T.A. at Jane Addams Junior High School in Schaumburg.

On Thursday, Milton R. Nugent, president of the college's Faculty Senate, asserted the idea of a faculty conspiracy to elect board members was "ludicrous."

RYAN was responding to a charge made by James Hamill, retiring board chairman who asserted a student faculty take-over of the board was under way.

Admitting Hamill was sincere in his allegations, he stated, "There's no cohesive group among the faculty in regards to candidates for the board."

Ryan added he doubted candidates had gained a significant amount of money last year from donations, and he added that some faculty members have supported each of the candidates.

He commented that a 49 per cent figure of projected total budget increases for the faculty of the Faculty Senate's salary proposal is accepted was grossly exaggerated.

He added he felt the faculty felt some what "insulted" as Hamill's charges simply weren't true.

Last year's election drew 11,000 ballots. Observers are expecting a smaller turnout as Sunday is Easter Sunday.

SIGNIFICANT factors in the outcome are expected to include the weather, geographical voting and the impact of the campaigning.

Mrs. Wilson, a nurse in Dist. 54 and Larry Moran, a student at Northeastern Ill. State College, have been prime targets of Hamill's charges. Both individually deny they are part of a "conspiracy" and both state they aren't working together.

Miller, Nugent and Hansen, the only incumbents seeking reelection, have been endorsed by a group calling itself Citizens Committee for a Better Harper College.

The forums which the candidates have attended have been marked primarily by a discussion of the college's future financial problems and the need for better public communications. The "takeover" issue has sparked some brief but heated exchanges.

College officials reported Thursday that 75 absentee ballots had been cast in the election. The actual vote counting will begin Saturday evening.

Leaflet Furor In Board Race

by TOM WELLMAN

A handbill distributed by a group calling itself "Citizens for an Outstanding Harper College" has caused a last minute furor in the college's board of trustees' race.

The leaflet, which endorses three Harper candidates, charges the election of two other candidates, Hannah Wilson and Larry Moran, is directed towards a "student educator takeover" of the board.

It has been mass leafleted at train stations and will be handed out again today. The leafletting has inspired a threat by Moran that he will take legal action against the leafleteers.

Robert Faust, a Rolling Meadows resident, has asserted that James Hamill, retiring chairman of the Harper College board of trustees, is leading the group called Concerned Citizens for an Outstanding Harper College.

Faust said yesterday that the group which he says includes current trustee Jessilyn Nicklas and several local political figures met last Friday at the home of Richard Snyder, a GOP precinct captain in Palatine to plan the campaign.

SINCE THE ALLEGED meeting, a series of handbills have been distributed at railroad stations and through the mail to support the candidacies of Ross Miller, D. Eugene Nugent and Milton Hansen for the board.

The distribution of the handbills has angered Moran, a student at North eastern Illinois State College, and Mrs. Wilson, a nurse in Dist. 54.

The handbills indicate Morans and Mrs. Wilson's candidacy, and assert that if the two win, "chances are relatively great Harper students and the majority of citizens in the district will not be best served."

If they are elected and gain control of the board, there is likely to be chaos on the board and with the administration more disruption on campus and of most importance, accelerating tax referendum proposals, the handbills say.

MRS. WILSON in the past has charged it contains "blatant lies." She asserted yesterday she has no place in her campaign for smear tactics and it is the group's prerogative to lean on party politics, if they choose.

Moran, after several consultations with the Mount Prospect police, has threatened to complain to the State's Attorney on the grounds it is an anonymous publication.

He indicated that, unless Miller, with dress from the race last night, he will go to the State's Attorney today. He asserts that the anonymous handbills were printed at Miller's orders by a print shop in Mount Prospect.

Hamill could not be reached Thursday afternoon to comment on the charges.

Candidate Clarifies Statement At Forum

Don McGlothlin of Wheeling, a candidate for the Dist. 24 school board, has clarified the position he took Tuesday at a candidates' forum in Wheeling sponsored by the Jaycees.

The position concerns the length of time he feels necessary for high school students to be in school.

Said McGlothlin, "I did not say students would have adequate time in school if they were required to go to school only for one half day."

"I have consistently advocated a high school schedule which would provide for six 40-minute class periods or the equivalent and would then permit the students to go home or engage in further educationally profitable activities, rather than be held for such unprofitable activities as study halls."

Police, Fire Group Meeting Is Slated

Wheeling's Fire and Police Commission will discuss psychological testing, police examinations, and finalization of firemen examinations at a meeting Tuesday.

The commission meeting at 8 p.m. in the committee room at the village municipal building will also include a presentation about driving schools by Chief M. O. Horcher, budget preparation for the commission, and changing the rules and regulations relative to pending applications.

and statements. He was not present at last night's Harper board meeting. MRS. NICKLAS SAID she had been active among her friends in the Inverness area but that groups overlap and that she couldn't say if she attended the Friday meeting.

The handbill was distributed yesterday morning in Arlington Heights, and later in the day a slightly modified handbill was distributed at the Mount Prospect train station.

RICHARD COWEN, Wheeling Twp. GOP committeeman, said that his organization "has taken no stand and will not do so, it is not our policy."

He added, "I know there are a number of people who are actively involved — maybe 10 or 15 — and I think most of them are doing so because of friendship with Jim Hamill."

"We encourage Republicans to be active in local elections, but they do so only as individuals," he said.

Voters Decide Tomorrow On Board, Referendum

Voters in School Dist. 21 will vote tomorrow on two tax rate increases, a building bond issue and election of two school board members.

Polls will be open from noon to 7 p.m. Voters will be asked to approve issuance of $4.5 million in bonds to build two new elementary schools and additions to the three junior high schools.

They will also be asked to approve a 20 cent tax rate increase in the education fund and a 10 cent tax increase in the building fund. Approval of these two proposals would raise the educational fund tax rate from $1.60 to $1.80 per $100 assessed valuation and the building fund tax rate from 25 cents to 35 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

In the school board election, incumbents Ronald Weiner of Wheeling and Jeremiah G. Cruse of Arlington Heights are unopposed for three-year terms.

POLLING PLACES ARE:

Pct. 1 — Walt Whitman School, 133 S. Wille Ave., Wheeling
Pct. 2 — Jack London Junior High School, 1001 W. Dundee Road, Wheeling
Pct. 3 — Louisa May Alcott School, 530 Bernard Drive, Buffalo Grove
Pct. 4 — Robert Frost School, 305 Aspen Drive, Prospect Heights
Pct. 5 — Edgar Allan Poe School, 2800 N. Highland Drive, Arlington Heights

Only registered voters may cast ballots. Registration requirements are Illinois residency for one year, Cook County for 90 days and the precinct for 30 days.

Dist. 21 residents may register to vote at the Wheeling Township Hall, 1818 E. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights today from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and tomorrow from 9 a.m. to noon.

IF THE TAX INCREASES are approved, Dist. 21 should receive an additional $340,000 beginning in the 1972-73 school year. Educational fund money will be used to pay for teachers' salaries, books and supplies. Building fund money is used to pay for upkeep and daily operating and maintenance costs of school facilities.

If the building bond proposal is approved, new elementary schools will be built in Prospect Heights and the Mill Creek subdivision of Buffalo Grove. Each school would have a capacity of about 750 students.

Additions to the three junior high schools — James Fenimore Cooper in Buffalo Grove and Oliver Wendell Holmes and Jack London in Wheeling — would also be built. The additions would bring the capacity of the three schools to 1,600 students.

AN EASTER FARM animal show is being held in the Buffalo Grove Mall until Easter Sunday. The animals are from an animal farm in Wisconsin. Children are also able to mingle with animals and feed them.

A Herald Editorial

Vote 'Yes' Three Times Tomorrow

An issue of top importance — a tax hike and bond issue — will go to the voters in School Dist. 21 tomorrow.

Voters will be asked to authorize issuance of $4.5 million in bonds to construct and equip two new schools and additions to three existing schools.

Two other propositions will ask for authorization to increase the educational fund tax rate by 20 cents and the building fund tax rate by 10 cents.

We feel that all three propositions should be passed.

The need for additional school buildings is evident. Three separate surveys have projected an ultimate enrollment of 20,000 students compared to the current enrollment of 8,000.

New elementary schools would be built in Prospect Heights and the Mill Creek subdivision of Buffalo Grove. Both sections are critical growth areas.

Issuance of the bonds will not raise the bond and interest tax rate because they will be issued against new assessed valuation in the district.

However, passage of the other proposals would raise taxes $30 per year on a home assessed at $10,000.

Higher taxes are never popular and the state of the economy makes additional taxes even less welcome. Nevertheless, Dist. 21 needs this revenue.

The district has not had a tax increase in seven years, though operating costs have risen steadily.

State aid has risen each year recently, but such an increase in aid will most likely not come this year.

Dist. 21 has demonstrated its willingness to economize. More than $500,000 has been cut from the 1971-72 budget.

Without additional revenue, further cutbacks in the educational program can be expected in 1972. Dist. 21 has nowhere to turn for this revenue but to its own residents.

Good Schools are important to all the residents of a community. By providing a sound education for its youngsters, a community is investing in its future.

Thompson's School 'Deal' Attacked

Buffalo Grove Village Pres. Donald Thompson's settlement of the school site controversy has been described by an opponent as a deal that will needlessly cost School Dist. 21 $150,000.

The charge came from Gary Armstrong, the Buffalo Grove Alliance Party candidate who is seeking to oust Thompson in the April 20 village election.

Armstrong also said that Thompson's announcement of a settlement of the controversy is a deal that will needlessly cost the people of Buffalo Grove.

Armstrong said that in June 1968 Thompson cast a tie-breaking vote that rejected a developer's request to build a small shopping center and 64 apartment units at Rte. 83 and Arlington Heights Road. If the development had been approved, the developer would have given the village a 10-acre public use land site which could be used for schools at no cost, Armstrong said.

That free public use land site is according to Armstrong in roughly the same area as a 10-acre school site which Thompson now says School Dist. 21 can buy for $150,000.

THE NEW SCHOOL site was revealed Monday when Thompson announced that he had negotiated a settlement between the school district and Levitt and Sons, the developers of Strathmore.

The settlement, which is not yet final, would give the district a school site for $150,000 if the village board approves a Levitt plan to build 500 townhouse condominium units.

It is strange, Armstrong said, that Thompson now favors a deal that would cost the school district $150,000 and would bring 500 units into the village when in 1968 he rejected a free school site because it would bring 64 apartments into the village.

In addition to the added cost, Armstrong criticized Thompson's methods and timing.

Conveniently coming just two weeks prior to the election, this Thompson Levitt deal seems obviously to have been staged for Thompson's maximum political benefit, Armstrong said.

"Apparently Levitt, which has received so much benefit from Lake County while conferring so little, would prefer to deal secretly with a Don Thompson rather than openly with an administration which will be representative of, and responsive to the people."

Armstrong said that he thinks the voters are "too perceptive to be hoodwinked by this cynical and desperate political play."

THE SETTLEMENT announced by Thompson Monday apparently would end a controversy over a school site in Levitt's Strathmore units 11, 12 and 13 that dates to 1969 when the village board, with Thompson as president and Armstrong as a trustee, approved the three units without a school site.

Two Lake County School Elections Tomorrow

Buffalo Grove residents in Lake County will vote tomorrow to elect school board members in Dist. 96 and in High School Dist. 125.

Registered voters may vote in both elections at Willow Grove School, 777 Creeker Dr., Buffalo Grove. The polls will be open from noon to 7 p.m.

In Dist. 96, two three-year terms on the school board will be filled in the election.

There are three candidates: Frank R. Clayton, 911 Twisted Oak Ln., Buffalo Grove; George Dickson, East Mardian Dr., Long Grove; and James Duncan, 390 Springside Ln., Buffalo Grove.

Clayton is a sales manager for Torkelson Associates of Northfield. He has a bachelor's degree in electrical engineering from the University of Oklahoma.

Clayton, his wife Verna and children Valerie and Barry, have lived in Buffalo Grove since 1969. Both Clayton children are in Dist. 96 schools.

Independent Reaffirms Stand

Wallace "Bud" Berth yesterday reaffirmed his independent candidacy for Buffalo Grove Village Trustee because he said, some residents seem to think a state of independents has been formed.

"I'm not supporting anybody," Berth told the Herald. "There is no independent party. There are independents. I have been hearing so much of this, it has caused me some concern," he said.

"I don't want any misconceptions," Berth emphasized.

Trustee candidate Allan Thorud and Kenneth Felten, a presidential candidate, are conducting their campaigns jointly.

They have distributed literature bearing both of their names and have held coffee together. The other independent candidate, Gordon Tierney, has endorsed Felten.

Berth also said the way the ballots have been printed is "misleading and will add to confusion on election day."

The independent candidates are listed underneath Felten's name, giving the impression, Berth said, that Felten is heading a ticket of which Thorud, Tierney and Berth are members. This is not the case, Berth said.

Co. Palatine. He holds a bachelor's degree in political science from the University of Illinois.

Dickson and his wife Ann and four daughters have lived in Long Grove since 1968. Three children attend Kildeer School in Long Grove and one is a pupil at Willow Grove School in Buffalo Grove.

Dickson served on the Dist. 96 citizens committee to promote a 1969 bond referendum.

Duncan is a regional dealer and manager for White Trucks of Chicago, a division of White Motor Corporation. He has a bachelor's degree in business administration from Michigan State University.

Duncan, his wife Patricia and four children have lived in Buffalo Grove since 1969. The candidate is first vice president of the Strathmore Homeowners Association and is a member of the Buffalo Grove Alliance.

IN THE DIST. 125 election, one two-year term and three three-year terms on the school board will be filled.

Incumbent Walter Zorn, 531 Indian Spring Lane, Buffalo Grove, is running unopposed for the two-year term.

Zorn is division service manager of the Midwest Division of Liberty Mutual Insurance Co. He has a bachelor's degree in business education from Bloomsburg State College, Bloomsburg, Pa., and has lived in Buffalo Grove with his wife and three children since 1969.

INCUMBENT JUSTIN FISHEIN, of an unincorporated area near Half Day, is running for a three-year term. Fishbein is director of reading and spelling in the Basal Language Arts Department of Science Research Associates, Inc. He and

WHERE TO VOTE

THIS PRECINCT MAP shows where registered voters living in School Dist. 21 may vote tomorrow. Ballots will be available for the Harper College and High School Dist. 214 elections, as well as for the Dist. 21 referendum and election. The polls will be open from noon until 7 p.m.

A Herald Editorial

We Endorse Clayton, Dickson

Two vacancies will be filled in the Dist. 96 school board election Saturday.

For these vacancies, we recommend the election of Frank Clayton and George Dickson.

Dickson, although a relative newcomer to Dist. 96, has nevertheless taken an active interest in school affairs since moving to Long Grove about two years ago. He has attended many school board meetings and served on the citizens committee which promoted passage of the bond referendum to construct Willow Grove School in Buffalo Grove.

He is keenly aware of the major problem facing Dist. 96: increasing enrollment. He stresses the need to move quickly to cope with an immediate growth problem, while realizing that the district must also obtain additional school sites for future expansion.

Dickson also stresses the need for communication to enable a well-run school district — communication between teachers, administrators, the school board, residents, and village bodies.

Moreover, his experience as vice president and manager of a company should provide the board with the valuable experience of an administrator.

Frank Clayton of Buffalo Grove is also a well-qualified candidate for the school board.

Clayton stresses involvement by citizens as a key factor in solving school and community problems. He was active in community affairs in other towns before moving to Buffalo Grove two years ago. Clayton has been a member of the Strathmore Homeowners Association, a Scout master and is active in church activities in the village.

He, too, recognizes the growth problem in the district, and stresses the need for rational examination of the problems and for cooperation between the school district and villages to solve them.

Both Dickson and Clayton have pledged to represent all the people of Dist. 96 if elected, and to serve as a communication link between the residents and the school administrators.

We urge their election tomorrow.

Candidates Give Views On School Issues

The Herald asked four candidates in the High School Dist. 125 election to comment on school issues. Three candidates replied to the questions: one, Glenn Miller, supplied only biographical information. The four candidates are seeking to fill three vacancies. Their comments follow.

John F. Balmes, of Lincolnshire, sees two basic problems — one within the school itself, another in the community at large — facing High School Dist. 125.

Balmes, an incumbent board member seeking reelection, said:

"In this time of rapid social change, he said, 'one of the most important issues facing education is to maintain and implement an orderly atmosphere conducive to study and academic growth within school limits.'

Another problem is the explosive growth of the district. Adequate long range planning to meet future needs is an absolute necessity in view of the large areas of undeveloped land in Vernon Township.

Balmes thinks that the industrial arts and work study programs should be expanded; that the foreign language program should be improved; that consistent and firmer discipline should be maintained within school limits; and that there should be 'better articulation between elementary schools and the high school.'

"If reflected," Balmes said, "my major plan will be to help develop quality education. This, he said, includes not only the academic level of excellence, but also financial soundness, good school community relations and an adequate physical plant.

Balmes said that 'one of the prime functions of the board is to reflect the desires of the communities it serves.'

Balmes, a professional engineer, is an electronic systems data manager for Illinois Bell Telephone Co. He is active in scouting and Junior Achievement programs.

Justine M. Fishbein of Half Day, an incumbent, says that his 'newsman's thinking' enables him to be a 'useful member' of the High School Dist. 125 board.

Fishbein, a former Springfield bureau chief for the Chicago Sun-Times and now an editor for Science Research Associates, publishes educational materials. He sees the board members' jobs as a sort of liaison between the residents of the district and the administration and faculty.

"I believe that their school board members' role primarily is to interpret the school actions and policies to the community and to interpret the community's expectations and wishes to the administration and faculty."

Fishbein said he also wants administrators to have "more open communications with board members" and "greater consultation."

The most important problems facing the district, according to the candidate, are improvement of education for students who do not intend to go to college, an increased variety of courses, maintenance of both a low tax rate and a "relatively low" assessed valuation, expansion to meet growth and increased community involvement in school activities.

"Community involvement," he said, "is the solution to the so-called discipline problem. I believe, by making everyone aware of community norms for behavior and the consequences of misbehavior."

Fishbein proposes creation of a "fuller work-study program," improved occupational guidance, a faculty study of courses, a review of the district's current status and a beginning of plans for future growth.

When asked about what he plans to do about growth in the district, Fishbein points to the planning for "our current addition."

"We established a faculty committee to study curriculum, we hired outside consultants to survey our population trends and feeder schools, and we established a citizens committee consisting of village and township officials. This effort was successful and should be continued."

Fishbein, 44, has lived in Half Day since 1965. He has served on the Dist. 125 board since 1967.

Heinz Loeffler, an incumbent seeking reelection to the High School Dist. 125 board, thinks discipline and communication with students is important.

"We must increase the status and prestige of the student council," he said. "We must give serious consideration to any of its recommendations, but we must also make them realize that decisions are made and implemented by the administration and board of education."

"We must also," Loeffler said, "insure a sense of discipline in order to prepare them for the fact that all through life they will have to comply with rules, regulations and laws and that they must pay the penalty when they break such laws."

Loeffler, a resident of Long Grove, said that "the primary duty" of a school board member is to provide "the best and broadest possible education."

"This," he said, "must be accomplished at the lowest possible cost to the taxpayer."

Loeffler, a Rear Admiral in the Navy Reserve, is president and chairman of the Exeter Paper Company, Inc., in Chicago.

Glenn Miller, a candidate for the School Dist. 25 school board, has served as president of the Sentry Club at Stevenson High School.

The club has provided $10,000 worth of athletic equipment and facilities for the high school.

Miller, owner of the Wheeling Shopping Center and president of the Wheeling Safety Deposit Building Corporation, has lived in Long Grove for 20 years.

He and his wife, Ruth, are the parents of seven children: three in college, three at Stevenson and one at Kildeer School.

He headed the Citizens' Steering Committee during the most recent Stevenson referendum and has been a member of the Long Grove Planning Commission.

Leaflet Furor In Board Race

by TOM WELLMAN

A handbill distributed by a group calling itself "Citizens for an Outstanding Harper College" has caused a last minute furor in the college's board of trustees' race.

The leaflet, which endorses three Harper candidates, charges the election of two other candidates, Hannah Wilson and Larry Moran, is directed towards a "student educator takeover" of the board.

It has been mass leafleted at train stations and will be handed out again today. The leafletting has inspired a threat by Moran that he will take legal action against the leafleteers.

Robert Faust, a Rolling Meadows resident, has asserted that James Hamill, retiring chairman of the Harper College board of trustees, is leading the group called Concerned Citizens for an Outstanding Harper College.

Faust said yesterday that the group, which he says includes current trustee Jessalyn Nicklas, and several local political figures, met last Friday at the home of Richard Snyder, a GOP precinct captain, in Palatine to plan the campaign.

SINCE THE ALLEGED meeting, a series of handbills have been distributed at railroad stations and through the mail to support the candidacies of Ross Miller, D. Eugene Nugent and Milton Hansen for the board.

The distribution of the handbills has angered Moran, a student at Northeastern Illinois State College, and Mrs. Wilson, a nurse in Dist. 54.

The handbills indicate Moran's and Mrs. Wilson's candidacies, and assert that, if the two win, "chances are relatively great Harper students and the majority of citizens in the district will not be best served."

If they are elected and gain control of the board, "There is likely to be chaos on the board and with the administration, more disruption on campus, and, of most importance, accelerating tax referendum proposals," the handbills say.

MRS. WILSON in the past has charged it contains "blatant lies." She asserted yesterday she has no place in her campaign for sinecure tactics and it is the group's prerogative to lean on party politics, if they choose.

Moran, after several consultations with the Mount Prospect police, has threatened to complain to the State's Attorney on the grounds it is an anonymous publication.

He indicated that, unless Miller withdrew from the race last night, he will go to the State's Attorney today. He asserts that the "anonymous handbills were printed at Miller's orders by a print shop in Mount Prospect."

Hamill could not be reached Thursday afternoon to comment on the charges and statements. He was not present at last night's Harper board meeting.

MRS. NICKLAS said she had been active among her friends in the Inverness area, but that "groups overlap," and that she couldn't say if she attended the Friday meeting.

The handbill was distributed yesterday morning in Arlington Heights, and later in the day a slightly modified handbill was distributed at the Mount Prospect train station.

RICHARD COWEN, Wheeling Twp. GOP committeeman, said that his organization "has taken no stand and will not do so, it is not our policy."

He added, "I know there are a number of people who are actively involved — maybe 10 or 15 — and I think most of them are doing so because of friendship with Jim Hamill."

"We encourage Republicans to be active in local elections, but they do so only as individuals," he said.

Harper Board Election Tomorrow

Voters will go to the polls tomorrow to elect three persons from a field of eight candidates to serve three-year terms on the Harper College board.

The election will conclude a hotly contested election in which a discussion of Harper's future has been mixed with a debate about the role of educators and students on the Harper board.

The eight candidates, in order of appearance on the ballot, are Hannah Wilson of Mount Prospect, Larry Moran of Schaumburg, Milton Hansen of Palatine, Ross Miller of Mount Prospect, Gene Beery of Palatine, Robert Fuchs of Prospect Heights, D. Eugene Nugent of Palatine and Larry Barry of Buffalo Grove.

THE CANDIDATES, with the exception of Beery and Barry, have spent the last two weeks attending candidates nights, speaking at neighborhood coffees and distributing literature.

By tomorrow night, however, there will be three winners. The 46 polling places in Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg and Barrington Townships will be open from noon to 7 p.m.

Returns will then be phoned into the college's business offices at Algonquin and Roselle roads, Palatine.

The six candidates made their last formal appearance as a group Wednesday night, as they addressed about 80 persons at the Schaumburg PTA at Jane Addams Junior High School in Schaumburg.

On Thursday, Martin Ryan, president of the college's Faculty Senate, asserted the idea of a faculty "conspiracy" to elect board members was "ludicrous."

RYAN WAS responding to a charge

made by James Hamill, retiring board chairman, who asserted a student-faculty "takeover" of the board was under way.

Admitting Hamill was "sincere" in his allegations, he stated, "There's no cohesiveness among the faculty in regards to candidates for the board."

Ryan added he doubted candidates had gained a "significant" amount of money last year from donations, and he added that some faculty members have supported each of the candidates.

He commented that a 49 per cent figure of projected total budget increases for the faculty id the Faculty Senate's salary proposal is accepted was "grossly exaggerated."

He added he felt the faculty felt somewhat "insulted" as Hamill's charges "simply weren't true."

Last year's election drew 11,000 ballots. Observers are expecting a smaller turnout, as Sunday is Easter Sunday.

SIGNIFICANT factors in the outcome are expected to include the weather, geographical voting and the impact of the campaigning.

Mrs. Wilson, a nurse in Dist. 54, and Larry Moran, a student at Northeastern Ill. State College, have been prime targets of Hamill's charges. Both individually deny they are part of a "conspiracy" and both state they aren't working together.

Miller, Nugent and Hanson, the only incumbent seeking reelection, have been endorsed by a group calling itself Citizens Committee for a Better Harper College.

The forums which the candidates have attended have been marked primarily by a discussion of the college's future financial problems and the need for better public communications. The "takeover" issue has sparked some brief but heated exchanges.

College officials reported Thursday that 55 absentee ballots had been cast in the election. The actual vote-counting will begin Saturday evening.

Mrs. Eilering: More Space

by JIM HODL

If reelected to the Palatine Library board, Mrs. Mabel Eilering said she would like to complete some unfinished business, like enlarging current library space.

While the Palatine Public Library is rated above standards set by the National Library Association in most areas, its building program is not, she said.

"A larger building facility is needed by the library," Mrs. Eilering said. "Since the last referendum, the board never tabled the idea of enlarging its facility."

She said that a larger library should be a "downtown" library. She defined "downtown" as being centrally located but where land could be purchased economically.

Mrs. Eilering was undecided on whether the library could be part of a civic complex built by the village of Palatine. While she thought locating the library in such a complex would be economical, she said the idea would only be practical if library facilities were on the ground floor.

SHE ALSO COMMENTED on how the library should be built, whether in or out of a civic complex.

"It would be too bad if the new library were too tall," she said. "The children couldn't reach the upper floors."

"However, the library can't expand on the ground anymore. It must expand upward."

While a referendum is needed to expand the library, Mrs. Eilering said it will not come for at least another 12 months. She added, however, that library expansion was needed three years ago.

Mrs. Mabel Eilering

Mrs. Eilering believes that there are computers in the library's future. While the Palatine Library is nowhere near being able to afford them, library workers are studying the use of computers in their work at seminars.

She also pointed out that over the past few years, the library has added many new services, so many that the community hasn't absorbed them all yet. She praised library director Mrs. Ida Bullen for helping bring about this increased service and getting the public information on them.

MRS. EILERING said it was the director's job to suggest new programs and that she would be eager to support any suggestion as long as it benefited the community.

Members of the library board have been dreaming of establishing a historical area in Palatine for some time. Mrs. Eilering said. Currently, the library is trying to accomplish this with a suitcase exhibit it loans to local schools.

Although the library only has one such exhibit on Mexico, it hopes to buy more. The library is looking toward community agencies for help in this area, she said.

Campaign Chatter

EVERYONE'S A WINNER. This week's Candidates' Night where all village board hopefuls met is the only scheduled event of its kind. Both GOP and GOP candidates viewed it as a test of strength and both sides could be seen patting themselves on the back after the meeting.

The loudest laugh of the evening went to independent candidate Donald Meyer. Someone from the audience asked all the candidates, "What advantage is there to seeking office as part of a political party?" Face to face with an answer was the lone independent who replied, "It's a hell of a lot easier."

SPEAK NOW OR FOREVER HOLD YOUR PEACE. The time has come to point out a couple of common untruths of this year's village board campaign. As watchdogs of local government and regular attenders of board meetings for several years, we know that some of the facts being given by Republican candidates are untrue.

At the Candidates' Night all GOP candidates boasted of attending between 15 and 20 village board meetings in the past year. If they were at the Village Hall that many Monday evenings, they certainly were not within the vision of any reporter.

Another "truth-stretcher" is the village board's alleged lack of cooperation with the Metropolitan Sanitary District. Republicans have jumped on the horse and carried the matter beyond fact.

Again as regular visitors to the Village Hall we're aware of the many phone calls between the village manager and MSD representatives. More than that, we've seen the countless written communications with the sanitary district on almost every problem that's arisen in the past three years.

Some residents have been hearing Republican candidates make promises about weight limits on Palatine Road. They claim they'll reduce the weight of trucks allowed on the road and even reduce the number of trucks, which travel the highway. The idea isn't a new one. The present village board checked into the possibility more than two years ago. If you think it's possible now, ask Tom Co's of the Illinois Division of Highways.

NOW YOU SEE HIM, NOW YOU DON'T. You had to look fast, but the village's top administrator could be seen darting out the door of the gymnasium at Sanborn School Tuesday night when most people went the other way — toward the village board candidates.

From The Library

by the staff of the Palatine Public Library

Do people really fear change? This is what Alvin Toffler examines in his best-seller "Future Shock." This book is one of many new volumes available at the Palatine Public Library this week.

Pope John XXIII is revealed through the mail he wrote to relatives as a very human person in "Pope John XXIII: Letters to His Family." A "God is Dead" advocate, Thomas J. J. Altizer, answers his critics in "The Descent Into Hell."

"Voices of the New Feminist" is a collection of essays on how the new woman fits into education, the church, the civil rights movement and government in this modern world. Editor of the compilation is Mary Lou Thompson. Konrad Lorenz writes of his comparative psychological study of the behavior of man and other animals in "Studies in Animal and Human Behavior."

AMERICAN RADICALISM, from its beginnings with the beat generation of the 1950's to the new life styles being created on university campuses, is examined in "The American Experience: A Radical Reader." Harold Haffe is the editor of this volume.

With summer coming and vacation starting to monopolize some people's thinking, several new books on travel have been added to the library's collection. One book, full of colored photographs, is Patricia Caulfield's "Everglades." It tells of the glory and beauty of the southern Florida region.

William Kilbourn is editor of a collection of essays on our neighbor to the north titled "Canada: A Guide to the Peaceful." In the library's reference section there is "The Hotel and Motel Red Book." This book is a complete directory of American Hotel and Motel Association members, including many resorts both foreign and domestic.

"SIMON'S PARIS" contains both text and sketches of Paris, the way the French workman sees it.

The northern sea is the subject of "The World of the Vikings" by Ole Kindt-Jensen, this book tells of places of Vikings lived and explored.

For many people, the ideal vacation would be one of island hopping. The great islands to vacation on are the subject of Sean and Robert Manley's "Islands: Their Lives, Legends and Lore."

On other subjects there is a collection of behind the scenes stories of many of America's most fabulous auctioneers. Relating the tales of Wesley Towner in his book, "The Elegant Auctioneers." Towner states that America's auctioneers, through the years, have reflected the culture of the times.

Milton Shatraw relates his adventures as a boy in Montana in "Thrashin' Time." This book tells a story similar to Chet Huntley's book on the same subject, published last year.

VIP Candidates At Food Store

Village Incumbent Party (VIP) candidates for the Palatine Village board will be on hand to meet residents, and field question today at the Jewel Food Store, 45 S. Plum Grove Road.

VIPs Clay Brown, Tom Kearns and Fred Zajonc will be at the store from 10 a.m. until 9 p.m. Brown said, "This is part of our continuing effort to take the campaign to the people."

He also said he regretted the VIPs cannot accept anymore invitations for coffees as their calendar is filled between now and election day, April 20.

Smith: Expansion Plan Is Foremost

by JIM HODL

What the Palatine Public Library needs is a good expansion plan for the next six years, according to library board candidate Thomas H. Smith.

Referring to a League of Women Voters' survey taken in 1968, Smith said the library measures up to the community in the number of books circulating and the number available at the library. Another survey found that while the people are reasonably happy, they do not like the library's inadequate parking, lack of space and small adult section.

Smith proposes that the library be brought up to date regarding the amount of space it has.

"This is the biggest challenge the library is facing now," he said. "What the library board must do is draw up a workable plan, and obtain a site for this building project. Then it can go ahead and expand library facilities."

Smith pointed out that a referendum will be necessary in an expansion program.

Seeking office for: Palatine Library Board, six year term.

Incumbent: no

Age: 39

Address: 680 N. Benton St.

Resident since: August, 1969

Marital status and children: wife Virginia Lee, four children

Occupation: assistant director of public relations

Firm associated with: Chicago and North Western Railway Co.

Education and degrees: Ohio University, holds a B.S. degree in journalism.

Membership in civic or business groups: Public Relations Society of America, Railroad Public Relations Assn., Sigma Delta Chi fraternity, Pi Gamma Mu fraternity.

Public offices held: none

Additional information: serves as assistant chairman of Chicago and North Western's Combined Appeal program, received good conduct medal when serving in U.S. Navy.

Thomas H. Smith

"I am not interested in building a monument," he said. "I would just like to build a library facility that can be operated with ease."

Smith said that in building a library facility, you must think to the future, but must also think of the present.

"The people here now have to pay for what we build now," he said.

Smith said he is running for the library board because he feels he has something to offer. He said he has two qualifications.

Having an interest in and a concern for library services is the first one, he said. He pointed out that he has been making his way through a dollar-oriented world trying to get $1.50 worth out of every dollar he spends for his employers.

He added that a person who can do this would be of great value to an agency that is tax supported.

Smith said his public relations occupation could also be of service to the library in playing ombudsman between the board and the public.

He said he could help inform the public of library services already offered as well as find out what they would like the library to do.

Smith said he has no feelings as to whether a political party like the Republicans should state candidates for a library board. He pointed out that the Republicans do perform a service by helping interested people run for offices, interviewing them and getting them on the ballot.

Town Fund Budget May Top $120,000

Increased expenditures for the Town Hall and Palatine Township Youth Committee (PTYC) may push the 1971-72 town fund budget over $120,000.

Unpaid bills for past elections, as the recent mental health referendum, are also a factor the board of auditors is considering in drawing up a proposed township budget to present before the annual town meeting Tuesday at 8 p.m. at Cardinal Drive School in Rolling Meadows.

Although the final approval of the budget will come at a public hearing on May 17, the board wishes to present the electors with the proposed budget at the town meeting.

Last year's budget totaled only $92,670.

but this year's budget may hit $120,000 unless other areas are cut. At the same time, the budget for general assistance is not expected to increase, staying at $20,000.

SOME AREAS OF THE town fund will be decreased, but more areas will be increased to meet current needs of the township. The largest increase will be $16,500 in Town Hall expenditures. This represents an $18,000 appropriation to complete the addition to the Town Hall and other needed repairs on the structure at 37 N. Plum Grove Rd., Palatine.

Town Hall expenditures are set at $27,700 for the 1971-72 fiscal year.

PTYC's budget is set at $40,000, a

$9,000 increase over last year's budget. PTYC officials had asked for a $50,000 budget this year, but the board decided to only give them $40,000.

New items that would have appeared in the new PTYC budget that may be cut include a second youth worker to assist Emerson Thomas, who now divides his time between PTYC and the Youth Services Bureau, and a remodeling of the group's offices in the Town Hall basement.

Board members have not set an election budget for 1971-72 since it hasn't been decided how much will be needed. Currently, the township has $11,000 in unpaid bills from previous elections and referenda.

ONE AREA THAT appears down on the proposed budget is the area of town officers' expenses. This is due to a decrease in expenditures for printing and office help appropriations for the township assessor.

This year's officer expense budget is set at $10,900.

Another area of decrease is the appropriation for other services and expenses, set at $4,520. This is due to the absence of funding for the collector's suit with Cook County included in the last year's budget.

Salaries for town officers will remain at $25,800 under the proposed budget.

GOP Hopefuls, Residents, Oppose Street Work

GOP candidates for the village board have named property owners along west Colfax Street in their opposition to a $1.4 million project proposed to upgrade that street.

Village Incumbent Party (VIP) candidates, however, say the Republicans "simply heard what they want to hear and are only telling half of the story."

GOP candidates Dennis Collins, Donald Phares and Merwin Soper issued a joint statement yesterday which said they will, if elected, oppose the present plans for widening Colfax to four lanes from South Street to Quentin Road.

Their opposition was stated Wednesday night by Soper who attended a meeting of the Northwest Palatine Property Owners Association.

JOHN PRETTO, one of the property owners present said his association has formed a special committee to present a petition to the village board in opposition of the project.

The GOP said, "We are taking this stand because the needs and desires of the citizens the plan will affect were characteristically disregarded by the board, as was the plan's economic impact on the residents and businesses along that route."

They were referring to a public hearing the village board held on the proposed project in mid-March.

Terry Leighty, VIP campaign manager and one of the trustees who participated in that discussion said, "I first have to point out that Merwin Soper and Donald Phares were not even at that meeting. If they would have listened, they would have heard that the board was not sold on the four-lane idea, or the special assessment as planned."

NONETHELESS, GOP candidates said the project as proposed will put a four-lane highway in with two-lane bottlenecks at each end.

They also said the additional lanes will usher in more traffic from out of town and the board "should be concerned with the needs of those who live there first."

However, VIP candidate Clay Brown also stated previously that many of those attending the March public hearing neither lived in Palatine or the Colfax Street area, but owned industrial property along that stretch.

Wednesday night, Pretto said the majority of those opposing the project are property owners.

Leighty said the plan presented last month was only preliminary and that he, John Hughes and Tom Kearns all questioned the need for four lanes, as well as the possibility as making the public benefit portion of the assessment greater.

LEIGHTY SAID improvement is needed to handle added traffic which such developments as the new depot, post office, YMCA and Countryside apartment complex will cause.

He pointed out that many residents in Palatine will benefit from such an improvement due to these developments, and that the board is thinking in terms of upgrading Colfax all the way to Rte. 14 in the future.

The last charge the GOP leveled at their opponents was that they thought it was "significant" that the Colfax Street matter was rescheduled for further consideration after the April 20 election.

Leighty said, a date was set for May 17 to give the board time to review the plans in search of alternates. "We don't even know how much a two lane road would cost. These things take time," he said.

Still the Republicans said some improvement was needed, but the current plan is "unrealistic."

St. Thomas of Villanova School which will have grades two through eight in September is one of 39 Chicago area Catholic schools enrolled in an experimental program of the Chicago archdiocese that will abandon grade levels for students. Pupils will be assigned to grade levels on the basis of aptitude and achievement rather than age.

The program is being sponsored by the Kettering Foundation of Dayton, Ohio. There will be extensive in-service training for the teachers. Educational consultants will also be available to the staff.

According to an election judge in Tuesday's Palatine Park election there were about 12 spoiled ballots. Most of the spoiled ballots were because voters did not read the instructions on the ballot. People were to cast only one vote. Because voters voted for two candidates, their ballots were spoiled.

Saturday when you vote for school candidates for the school districts 15, 211, and 512 make your vote count. Read the instructions on the ballot and only vote for the specified number of candidates indicated. There is only one candidate, James W. Johnson on the ballot for school trustee.

Beware of putting flyers into mail boxes instead of on door knobs. Postmen who find three or more flyers in mail boxes will turn the flyer into the post office and the group or person distributing the brochure will be notified to pay six cents postage for every flyer. According to the Palatine Post office it's a federal law that's in the postal manual.

Plan Band Concert

The 30-member Rolling Meadows Concert Band will present a benefit performance at 7:30 p.m. April 27 at Little City in Palatine.

Proceeds will be donated to Little City, a residential community for mentally retarded children.

The band is currently seeking members. Practices are held weekly from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Tuesdays at Trinity Lutheran Church in Rolling Meadows.

Involved in education as a teacher all of his career, Charlier is also a member of the board of directors of Countryside Center for the Mentally Handicapped.

J. Leslie Ehringer, 2 Stuart On Oxford, Rolling Meadows, an incumbent who has served the Dist. 15 board since 1964, Ehringer is a manager of interline and international sales for United Air Lines.

Henry Hefly, 1116 E. Pratt Dr., Palatine, a training coordinator for Sara Lee Kitchens. Hefly has taught adult evening classes for four years at Lyons Township High School. His wife is a teacher for Dist. 15.

A Herald Editorial

4 Candidates Qualified For Posts

There are four qualified candidates for the four positions to be filled in the Palatine-Rolling Meadows School Dist. 15 election tomorrow.

We believe Howard Meadors, J. Leslie Ehringer and Everett Charlier are best suited for three-year terms on the board of education.

Although Leland Gibbs is unopposed for a two-year term. The Herald also recognizes his qualifications.

A veteran of Dist. 15's school board, Meadors has proven his loyalty to continued improvement in elementary education. His past 5 years on the board will contribute the necessary experience Dist. 15 will need to meet the demands of the next three years.

As an experienced board member, Meadors also has continued to demonstrate his concern for the future and can bring new as well as old ideas to the district.

UNOPPOSED COUNCIL candidates William Ahrens, left, and Kenneth Retzke take time out from a lively Jaycee candidates night program to hear a suggestion from resident Mrs. Betty Black. Ahrens and Retzke are both members of the CAP Party headed by Mayor Roland Meyer.

Ehringer's experience, too, can only mean an asset to Dist. 15. His belief that one of the highest priorities should be updating of curriculum is one we feel is necessary for all of today's students and those of tomorrow.

While we rate Ehringer's qualifications high, we believe his attendance at board meetings leaves room for improvement. In the past three years he's missed several meetings of the board of education because of business, but we would hope this pattern will be broken in the coming term.

A newcomer to school board candidacy, Charlier is not a newcomer to education. As a teacher in Arlington Heights, we believe he can give particular expertise to the board of education. There are no educators on the board at the present time.

Charlier's ideas for bringing more revenue to Dist. 15 will be valuable to all residents. His belief that a greater emphasis should be placed on vocational education in junior high schools corresponds to current trends which we believe should be followed in elementary education.

Without any opposition, Gibbs nevertheless continues to demonstrate his thinking for the future. As chairman of the new building committee, he's shown his concern for keeping pace with projected enrollment growth and has kept the district even with the rise in population.

Leaflet Furor In Board Race

by TOM WELLMAN

A handbill distributed by a group calling itself Citizens for an Outstanding Harper College has caused a last minute furor in the college's board of trustees race.

The leaflet, which endorses three Harper candidates, charges the election of two other candidates, Hannah Wilson and Larry Moran, is directed towards a student educator takeover of the board.

It has been mass leafleted at train stations and will be handed out again today. The leafletting has inspired a threat by Moran that he will take legal action against the leafletters.

Robert Faust, a Rolling Meadows resident, has asserted that James Hamill, retiring chairman of the Harper College board of trustees, is leading the group called Concerned Citizens for an Outstanding Harper College.

Fast said yesterday that the group, which he says includes current trustee Jessalyn Nicklas and several local political figures, met last Friday at the home of Richard Snyder, a GOP precinct captain in Palatine to plan the campaign.

SINCE THE ALLEGED meeting, a series of handbills have been distributed at railroad stations and through the mail to support the candidates of Ross Miller, D. Eugene Nugent and Milton Hansen for the board.

The distribution of the handbills has angered Moran, a student at Northeastern Illinois State College, and Mrs. Wilson, a nurse in Dist. 54.

The handbills indicate Moran and Mrs. Wilson's candidacies and assert that if the two win, chances are relatively good Harper students and the majority of citizens in the district will not be best served.

If they are elected and gain control of the board, there is likely to be chaos on the board and with the administration, more disruption on campus, and of most importance, accelerating tax referendum proposals, the handbills say.

MRS. WILSON in the past has charged it contains "blatant lies." She asserted yesterday she has no place in her campaign for smear tactics and it is the group's prerogative to lean on party politics if they choose.

Moran, after several consultations with the Mount Prospect police, has threatened to complain to the State's Attorney on the grounds it is an anonymous publication.

He indicated that, unless Miller withdrew from the race last night, he will go to the State's Attorney today. He asserts that the "anonymous handbills were printed at Miller's orders by a print shop in Mount Prospect."

Hamill could not be reached Thursday afternoon to comment on the charges and statements. He was not present at last night's Harper board meeting.

MRS. NICKLAS SAID she had been active among her friends in the Inverness area but that "groups overlap," and that she couldn't say if she attended the Friday meeting.

The handbill was distributed yesterday morning in Arlington Heights and later in the day a slightly modified handbill was distributed at the Mount Prospect train station.

RICHARD COWEN, Wheeling Twp. GOP committeeman, said that his organization "has taken no stand and will not do so if it is not our policy."

He added, "I know there are a number of people who are actively involved — maybe 10 or 15 — and I think most of them are doing so because of friendship with Jim Hamill."

"We encourage Republicans to be active in local elections, but they do so only as individuals," he said.

Campaign Chatter

AFTER INWARD aldermanic candidate Charles Boyer's accusation that the other aldermen are puppets on Mayor Roland Meyer's string, both Ald. William A. Jones and Ald. Kenneth Retzke said there were no strings attached.

Retzke said if there is a string around my neck, it must be a long one.

THE HEAT OF THE BATTLE is definitely in the first ward between Boyer and Thomas Scanlon. Both hurled personal accusations at the candidates' recent Wednesday and there may be another verbal confrontation next week. Both men will appear at the Plum Grove Community Center Monday at the Rolling Meadows Community Church.

ALD. JAMES HUBBLESTON, who is mounting a write-in campaign in the 4th ward, did not appear at the community forum. He told the Herald he was not invited, although Fred Jacobson said he had telephoned Hubbleston but received no return call.

SOMEbody OUT THERE LOVES

HIM. Ray Peterson, candidate for the High School Dist. 214 board and recent recipient of the Rolling Meadows Jaycees Outstanding Service Award of the year, got himself into the Rolling Meadows Park District contest Tuesday. His name appeared once as a write-in candidate for the park board.

ONE OF THE NEWLY elected park board commissioners did some speculation election night. If the park district would ever become part of the city government, then I guess there would be no elected officials in the entire city that would go for a newspaper candidate interview, he said.

FACIAL EXPRESSIONS were the order of the night Wednesday for CAP candidates after accusations of being puppets and puppets were thrown around Mayor Roland Meyer repeatedly shrugged and some of the candidates could be seen frowning, squirming and shuffling in their seats.

Harper Board Election Tomorrow

Voters will go to the polls tomorrow to elect three persons from a field of eight candidates to serve three-year terms on the Harper College board.

The election will conclude a hotly contested election in which a discussion of Harper's future has been mixed with a debate about the role of educators and students on the Harper board.

The eight candidates, in order of appearance on the ballot, are Hannah Wilson of Mount Prospect, Larry Moran of Schaumburg, Milton Hansen of Palatine, Ross Miller of Mount Prospect, Gene Beery of Palatine, Robert Fuchs of Prospect Heights, D. Eugene Nugent of Palatine and Larry Barry of Buffalo Grove.

THE CANDIDATES, with the exception of Beery and Barry, have spent the last two weeks attending candidates nights, speaking at neighborhood coffees and distributing literature.

By tomorrow night, however, there will be three winners. The 46 polling places in Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg and Barrington Townships will be open from noon to 7 p.m.

Returns will then be phoned into the college's business offices at Algonquin and Roselle roads, Palatine.

The six candidates made their last formal appearance as a group Wednesday night, as they addressed about 80 persons at the Schaumburg PTA at Jane Addams Junior High School in Schaumburg.

On Thursday, Martin Ryan, president of the college's Faculty Senate, asserted the idea of a faculty "conspiracy" to elect board members was "ludicrous."

RYAN WAS responding to a charge

made by James Hamill, retiring board chairman, who asserted a student-faculty "takeover" of the board was under way.

Admitting Hamill was "sincere" in his allegations, he stated, "There's no cohesiveness among the faculty in regards to candidates for the board."

Ryan added he doubted candidates had gained a "significant" amount of money last year from donations, and he added that some faculty members have supported each of the candidates.

He commented that a 40 per cent figure of projected total budget increases for the faculty and the Faculty Senate's salary proposal is accepted was "grossly exaggerated."

He added he felt the faculty felt somewhat "insulted" as Hamill's charges "simply weren't true."

Last year's election drew 11,000 ballots. Observers are expecting a smaller turnout, as Sunday is Easter Sunday.

SIGNIFICANT factors in the outcome are expected to include the weather, geographical voting and the impact of the campaigning.

Mrs. Wilson, a nurse in Dist. 54, and Larry Moran, a student at Northeastern Ill. State College, have been prime targets of Hamill's charges. Both individually deny they are part of a "conspiracy" and both state they aren't working together.

Miller, Nugent and Hansen, the only incumbent seeking reelection, have been endorsed by a group calling itself Citizens Committee for a Better Harper College.

The forums which the candidates have attended have been marked primarily by a discussion of the college's future financial problems and the need for better public communications. The "takeover" issue has sparked some brief but heated exchanges.

College officials reported Thursday that 53 absentee ballots had been cast in the election. The actual vote counting will begin Saturday evening.

Ballots To Be Collected

by JUDY BRANDES

High School Dist. 214 voters will go to 27 polls tomorrow from noon to 7 p.m. to select two from six candidates to serve three-year terms.

Incumbents Richard Bachhuber of Mount Prospect and Leah Cummins of Elk Grove Village face opposition for their seats from Jack Matthews, Raymond Petersen, Jr., Robert Winkle and Don McGlothlin.

Traditionally, Dist. 214 candidates from Mount Prospect have benefited from voter turnout for elementary district elections in the town. Easter activities and no overriding issues in Elementary Dist. 57 may hold voter turnout this year, observers are saying.

IN ELK GROVE Village, where Mrs. Cummins lives, candidate Robert Winkle is said to have support from Elk Grove High School teachers. A $2.3 million junior high school referendum is also on the ballot tomorrow in Elk Grove Township.

Voter interest in district-wide issues has centered around discipline and what the district will do if it ever gets into a financial bind.

Both incumbents say they favor home-bound instruction rather than expulsion. Recently in the first Dist. 214 formal election in several years, Mrs. Cummins voted against Bachhuber for expulsion of a student.

All candidates say the district is in a fairly good financial situation. The incumbents seem to disagree on whether to cut down on teachers or administrators.

LOCAL INTEREST in the election appears in Rolling Meadows, where Petersen lives, where the seventh Dist. 214 high school is being built and Wheeling, McGlothlin's area, where modular scheduling has upset many parents.

District officials report 181 residents compared to 21 last year have voted absentee in the election. The increase has been attributed to the holiday weekend when voters are more likely to be out of town.

During recent forums and candidates' nights, the candidates have spoken about a variety of issues. Here are some of their stands.

—Bachhuber stressed his experience in two terms as a board member and his dedication to the district. If budget cuts are needed in the future, they should be made in fringe areas and in such ways as combining classes.

He's also mentioned his work as chairman of the Committee of 75, which studied and recommended a year-round school program and an extended day. Some of those recommendations might have to be implemented if a referendum for the district's eighth high school is defeated.

—Mrs. Cummins has emphasized the "big job" left for her as a board member and the "mandate for every boy and girl" in the district.

MRS. CUMMINS would not favor an attempt to implement merit pay now and she is especially pleased with the district's program for perceptually handicapped children.

If budget cuts are needed, she'd try to trim administrative costs first.

Matthews believes the district needs an eighth high school. If forced to make money cuts, he would make them with "considerable care and study."

He's interested in devising a form of merit pay system for teachers "to reward the excellent ones." About vocational education, he'd work to educate parents first on the nature of it. Finally, he has a special concern for the district's "average students."

—McGlothlin believes the district doesn't need any more schools, preferring a split session program to eliminate "wasted study hall time" and "unnecessary" supervisory periods.

McGLOTHLIN candidly admitted he doesn't expect to win and expressed concern about the low turnout at the candidates' nights. He'd like to see more vocational education in the Dist. 214 schools.

—Petersen, Party between college preparatory and vocational education is a big "must" for him. Area voters should approve the district's referendum for an eighth high school, he adds.

If cuts are needed, he'd trim non-educational programs, fixtures and administrators not directly involved with students. Finally, "the administration and the staff run the schools, not the students."

—Winkle believes the "spirit of cooperation" between Dist. 214 and the elementary districts should be reestablished.

He'd like to see the end of real estate taxes as the major tax support method for schools. If money cuts are needed later, then the district now should be eliminating programs which are not educationally sound, he said.

From The Library

by VIRGINIA CONNELL

The Rolling Meadows Library is building a collection of recordings of literary value. One of the outstanding recordings is Ernest Hemingway's Reading. One of Hemingway's deadliest enemies was the microphone. The microphone was the "blackest villain that stalked his life."

Ernest has read The Old Man and the Sea for which he received the Pulitzer Prize in 1954 and the Nobel Prize in 1954. Fortunately, for posterity, he recorded the Nobel Prize acceptance speech and on the flip side several of his original poems. If you have read his novels or short stories, you will enjoy the recording, although according to Hemingway's own words he felt the recording sounded as though he had a bad case of laryngitis.

George Bernard Shaw's career as a dramatist covers a period from 1875 to 1950. In total he wrote 17 plays. Every Shaw play is a message of the times. Arms and the Man is based on the nature of religious faith and is one of Shaw's better known plays. The album consists of three records and is read by Robert Shaw. Robert Shaw is an actor who is probably best known for his role in A Man for All Seasons.

IN ORDER to portray the true character of an author, more and more biographies will be accompanied by audio samples of the voice of the man about whom they are writing. John P. Marquand died in 1960. In order to portray the true character of this author, a recording was made of him reading excerpts from The Late George Apley, Sun, Sea and Sand. The Late George Apley won the author the Pulitzer Prize. Marquand's use of parody is daringly, dangerously close to reality itself with a minimum of grotesque distortion brought out clearly in The Late George Apley.

One of the best American novels about urban politics is Edwin O'Connor's The Last Hurrah. Boston is generally claimed as the setting for the novel. The book sold over a million copies. The story centers around a mayoral campaign of the last days of Skelington's life and of the passing of the "tribal chieftain."

era of big city politics. The two sections of O'Connor chose to read for the recording consist of a banquet speech by Skelington and in direct monologue Skelington's serene deathbed reverie. Again we have the recorded voice of a great author who died suddenly in 1968.

LEONARD Patrick O'Connor Wibberley, as a young man during the depression years, worked as a dishwasher, a ditchdigger, a cook. He has written books and stories under the name of Patrick O'Connor, but we know him better for his fantastic spoof of the world's super powers, The Mouse That Roared, which he narrates. As a child, Wibberley said his favorite book was The Sure Island. When he left school he decided he would sell himself on the installment plan for 25 years, but The Mouse That Roared came earlier as did The King's Beard. Now he is independent.

Fisher Benson and Martin Donagan narrate the autobiography in poetry of Robert and Elizabeth Browning. It has been said there was 16 years of the happiest marriage on record. "How do I love thee? Let me count the ways. I love thee to the depth and breadth and height my soul can reach when feeling out of sight. The Browning's poetry is familiar to everyone from 16 to 60.

Suit Against City, Park Dist. Dropped

A $50,000 lawsuit against the City of Rolling Meadows by Raymond and Jacqueline Schmitz has been dropped according to City Attorney Donald Rose.

The Schmitz 4345 Hoover Ave., filed suit against the city and the park district for activities at the four-acre Plum Grove Countryside playground near their home. The park district leases land from the city.

Rose said the case had been settled by the park district's offer to extend a present fence around the playground from 12 feet to 20 feet and posting of regulatory hours for use of the tennis courts.

The suit alleged the Schmitz suffered mental anguish from activities at the playground and it also alleged the city made no special zoning use for the park area.

Park Dist. Adds More Activities

The Rolling Meadows Park District has added two more activities to its spring recreation schedule to supplement other activities in the program.

Couples volleyball will also be offered Wednesdays now to May 5 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at Cardinal Drive School. Fee for this program is $2.

Registration for the two new activities can be done at the park district office, 1 Park Meadow Place.

OK Library Concept

The Rolling Meadows Library Board Tuesday decided to participate in the reciprocal borrowing program among the 31 libraries in the North Suburban Library System.

The reciprocal borrowing program would allow any Rolling Meadows card holder to borrow a book from a library in a neighboring suburb. The Rolling Meadows Library would also be required to loan a book to a card holder from another town.

Although the Library System has unopposed a June 1 deadline for compliance of the individual libraries with the reciprocal borrowing program, some library boards have been hesitant to go along with the plan, particularly the Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect Libraries.

Boards of larger libraries fear reciprocal borrowing will cause too heavy a drain on their book collections and make them unable to meet the needs of their own community residents.

Town Fund Budget May Top $120,000

Increased expenditures for the Town Hall and Palatine Township Youth Committee (PTYC) may push the 1971-72 town fund budget over $120,000.

Unpaid bills for past elections, as the recent mental health referendum, are also a factor the board of auditors is considering in drawing up a proposed township budget to present before the annual town meeting Tuesday at 8 p.m. at Cardinal Drive School in Rolling Meadows.

Although the final approval of the budget will come at a public hearing on May 17, the board wishes to present the electors with the proposed budget at the town meeting.

Last year's budget totaled only $92,670, but this year's budget may hit $120,000 unless other areas are cut. At the same time, the budget for general assistance is not expected to increase, staying at $20,000.

SOME AREAS OF THE town fund will be decreased, but more areas will be increased to meet current needs of the township. The largest increase will be $16,500 in Town Hall expenditures. This represents an $18,000 appropriation to complete the addition to the Town Hall and other needed repairs on the structure at 37 N. Plum Grove Rd., Palatine.

Town Hall expenditures are set at $27,500 for the 1971-72 fiscal year.

$9,000 increase over last year's budget. PTYC officials had asked for a $60,000 budget this year, but the board decided to only give them $40,000.

New items that would have appeared in the new PTYC budget that may be cut include a second youth worker to assist Emerson Thomas, who now divides his time between PTYC and the Youth Services Bureau, and a remodeling of the group's offices in the Town Hall basement.

Board members have not set an election budget for 1971-72 since it hasn't been decided how much will be needed. Currently, the township has $11,000 in unpaid bills from previous elections and referenda.

ONE AREA THAT appears down on the proposed budget is the area of town officers' expenses. This is due to a decrease in expenditures for printing and office help appropriations for the township assessor.

This year's officer expense budget is set at $10,900.

Another area of decrease is the appropriation for other services and expenses, set at $4,520. This is due to the absence of funding for the collector's suit with Cook County included in the last year's budget.

Salaries for town officers will remain at $25,800 under the proposed budget.

GOP Hopefuls, Residents, Oppose Street Work

GOP candidates for the village board have joined property owners along West Colfax Street in their opposition to a $1.1 million project proposed to upgrade that street.

Village Incumbent Party (VIP) candidates, however, say the Republicans "simply heard what they want to hear and are only telling half of the story."

GOP candidates Dennis Collins, Donald Phares and Merwin Soper issued a joint statement yesterday which said they will if elected oppose the present plans for widening Colfax to four lanes from South Street to Quentin Road.

Their opposition was stated Wednesday night by Soper who attended a meeting of the Northwest Palatine Property Owners Association.

JOHN PRETTO, one of the property owners present said his association has formed a special committee to present a petition to the village board in opposition of the project.

The GOP said, "We are taking this stand because the needs and desires of the citizens the plan will affect were characteristically disregarded by the board, as was the plan's economic impact on the residents and businesses along that route."

They were referring to a public hearing the village board held on the proposed project in mid-March.

Terry Leighty, VIP campaign manager and one of the trustees who participated in that discussion said, "I first have to point out that Merwin Soper and Donald Phares were not even at that meeting. If they would have listened, they would have heard that the board was not sold on the four-lane idea, or the special assessment as planned."

NONETHELESS, GOP candidates said the project as proposed will put a four-lane highway in with two-lane bottlenecks at each end.

They also said the additional lanes will usher in more traffic from out of town and the board "should be concerned with the needs of those who live there first."

However, VIP candidate Clay Brown also stated previously that many of those attending the March public hearing neither lived in Palatine or the Colfax Street area, but owned industrial property along that stretch.

Wednesday night, Pretto said the maajority of those opposing the project are property owners.

Leighty said the plan presented last month was only preliminary and that he, John Hughes and Tom Kearns all questioned the need for four lanes, as well as the possibility as making the public benefit portion of the assessment greater.

LEIGHTY SAID improvement is needed to handle added traffic which such developments as the new depot, post office, YMCA and Countryside apartment complex will cause.

He pointed out that many residents in Palatine will benefit from such an improvement due to these developments, and that the board is thinking in terms of upgrading Colfax all the way to Rte. 14 in the future.

The last charge the GOP leveled at their opponents was that they thought it was "significant" that the Colfax Street matter was rescheduled for further consideration after the April 20 election.

Leighty said, a date was set for May 17 to give the board time to review the plans in search of alternatives. "We don't even know how much a two lane road would cost. These things take time," he said.

Still the Republicans said some improvement was needed, but the current plan is "unrealistic."

Scanlan, Boyer Clash At Forum

question of what they would do to keep city retail businesses from being hurt by Woodfield Mall.

Most of the candidates agreed that the merchants would be affected for a short time by the new shopping center, but said business would be back to normal within a year.

William Ahrens, unopposed 2nd ward candidate, said the Chamber of Commerce will be the group to get the retailers back on their feet. "This will probably be a good thing, it may consolidate both sides of the road to a common cause."

Kenneth Retzke, unchallenged in the 5th ward, said the shopping center must be convenient especially in parking. He said the city may be forced to limit new expansion to provide ample parking. Finances were on top of the priority list for Retzke as well as water system expansion to Lake Michigan.

John Reif, 3rd ward hopeful, said city council might reconsider the new sign ordinance which requires merchants to pay for periodic sign inspections.

Reif's opponent John Rock cited annexation priorities. "We should get annexation in the proper order in Rolling Meadows."

AS THE MEETING came near a close, the final verbal lambasting between Boyer and Scanlan was heard. Scanlan accused Boyer of failure to attend an Allegier's restaurant zoning hearing and also a budget meeting this week, which he said Boyer left early.

Boyer turned his attention directly to Scanlan after the accusations and said the budget meeting was closed to the public for discussions, and he told another alderman he felt he should leave because he was not a council member. Ald. Frederick Jacobson, from the audience, supported Boyer and said he had told him he was leaving because of the personnel discussion.

The 1st ward duel, which highlighted an otherwise quiet meeting, is expected to continue into next week, when a special 1st ward forum, sponsored by the Plum Grove Homeowners, is scheduled at 8 p.m. in the Community Church.

Book Circulation Takes Jump Upward

Circulation of books at the Rolling Meadows Library experienced a heavy upward jump of almost 2,000 from February to March, according to Miss Virginia Connell, Rolling Meadows librarian.

Total circulation for February was 14,400 which increased to 16,400 last month. Miss Connell attributed the sharp increase to the purchase of additional books, making more materials available to residents.

She said the increase in circulation has forced the library board to provide a second charging machine to use for checking out books to borrowers.

The library board is currently short two trustees. Miss Connell said residents interested in being appointed to fill a vacancy should contact Mayor Roland Meyer.

Art Show, Open House Scheduled By Library

In recognition of National Library Week later this month, the Rolling Meadows Library will hold an art show and open house from 11 to 1 p.m. April 25.

The show will feature art work and crafts of students in each of the District 15 schools in Rolling Meadows. The show is open to students in grades one through eight. Entries can be turned in at the library from April 23. Judging will take place April 24 and prizes will be awarded during the open house.

Winners will also be presented a book to be given to the school libraries.

Leaflet Raises Furor In Harper Board Campaign

by TOM WELLMAN

A handbill distributed by a group calling itself "Citizens for an Outstanding Harper College" has caused a last minute furor in the college's board of trustees' race.

The leaflet, which endorses three Harper candidates, charges the election of two other candidates, Hannah Wilson and Larry Moran, is directed towards a "student-educator takeover" of the board.

It has been mass leafleted at train stations and will be handed out again today. The leafletting has inspired a threat by Moran that he will take legal action against the leafleteers.

Robert Faust, a Rolling Meadows resident, has asserted that James Hamill, retiring chairman of the Harper College board of trustees, is leading the group called Concerned Citizens for an Outstanding Harper College.

Faust said yesterday that the group, which he says includes current trustee Jessalyn Nicklas, and several local political figures, met last Friday at the home of Richard Snyder, a GOP precinct captain, in Palatine to plan the campaign.

SINCE THE ALLEGED meeting, a series of handbills have been distributed at railroad stations and through the mail to support the candidacies of Ross Miller, D. Eugene Nugent and Milton Hansen for the board.

The distribution of the handbills has angered Moran, a student at Northeastern Illinois State College, and Mrs. Wilson, a nurse in Dist. 54.

The handbills indicate Moran's and Mrs. Wilson's candidacy, and assert that, if the two win, "chances are relatively great Harper students and the majority of citizens in the district will not be best served."

If they are elected and gain control of the board, "There is likely to be chaos on the board and with the administration, more disruption on campus, and, of most importance, accelerating tax referendum proposals," the handbills say.

MRS. WILSON in the past has charged it contains "blatant lies." She asserted yesterday she has no place in her campaign for smear tactics and it is the group's prerogative to lean on party politics, if they choose.

Moran, after several consultations with the Mount Prospect police, has threatened to complain to the State's Attorney on the grounds it is an anonymous publication.

He indicated that, unless Miller withdrew from the race last night, he will go to the State's Attorney today. He asserts that the "anonymous handbills were printed at Miller's orders by a print shop in Mount Prospect."

Hamill could not be reached Thursday afternoon to comment on the charges and statements. He was not present at last night's Harper board meeting.

MRS. NICKLAS SAID she had been active among her friends in the Inverness area, but that "groups overlap," and that she couldn't say if she attended the Friday meeting.

The handbill was distributed yesterday morning in Arlington Heights, and later in the day a slightly modified handbill was distributed at the Mount Prospect train station.

RICHARD COWEN, Wheeling Twp. GOP committeeman, said that his organization "has taken no stand and will not do so, it is not our policy."

He added, "I know there are a number of people who are actively involved — maybe 10 or 15 — and I think most of them are doing so because of friendship with Jim Hamill."

"We encourage Republicans to be active in local elections, but they do so only as individuals," he said.

Voters To Pick 2 For School Board Positions

Voters in Dist. 23 will choose two school board members tomorrow from a field of four candidates that includes a former board member and two incumbents.

Polls will be open from noon until 7 p.m. during the election. Only one polling place will be used — the Anne Sullivan School at Schoenbeck and Palatine roads in Prospect Heights.

Supt. Edward Grodzky said he expected about 500 votes to be cast in the election — about half the number of votes in the district's recent referendum. Grodzky predicted the number of votes would be low because of the Easter weekend.

Jo Ellen Clawes of 203 N. Parkway, is running as an independent candidate. If elected, she says, she would like to help ease the district's financial situation which she terms "critical." Though she does not want the district to hold another referendum for a tax increase soon, she advocates one no later than October.

INCUMBENT Bruce Wallace, who works for Illinois Bell Telephone Co., is seeking election to his second term as a school board member. Wallace, of 1211 N. Highland Dr., Prospect Heights, has said, "A board member owes it to the district to run for another term. It takes a board member two years (of his three-year term) to get his feet on the ground." Wallace has also said, though, a board member should serve no more than two terms.

Wallace was in favor of the budget cuts made at a Dist. 23 school board meeting, but feels cuts are not the complete solution to the district's financial problems. However, he feels no referendum should be held "until we are fairly sure we can pass it, maybe at the end of the year."

Also up for re-election is the current board president, Mel Lacey of 3 Garden Ct., Prospect Heights. Lacey, a research manager for Motorola Inc., is also chairman of the Wheeling Plan Commission. Lacey feels that if a referendum is passed the district can become solvent again in four to five years.

HOWEVER, he has also said, "I would not favor a referendum to re-establish the programs that were cut." Lacey feels the community gave the go ahead for the cuts by defeating successive referendums last October and April.

Former school board member Roy Weinberg, also a candidate in tomorrow's election, has criticized the present board saying the board members are "not working as a team."

About a referendum Weinberg has said, "I can't see waiting to hold another referendum. That is the only immediate way of getting financial help."

Weinberg has said he agrees with the budget cuts made recently by the board, but not the way in which they were made. He has called for a priority list of program cuts "to know what can be put back if money became available."

Teenager Faces Shoplift Charge

A 17-year-old Wheeling youth was charged with theft this week following a complaint signed against him by a security agent for Montgomery Ward at Handhurst Shopping Center, in Mount Prospect.

John Fox, of 1092 Kenilworth, was charged with the theft of a stereo tape, valued at about $6. Fox is scheduled to appear in the Mount Prospect branch of the Cook County Circuit Court April 22.

He was released by police on $1,000 bail.

Friendship Party Set

A friendship party will be held by the Prospect Heights Campfire Girls April 29 at the Dwight Eisenhower School in Prospect Heights. It will start at 2:45 p.m.

All girls in the community and their mothers are welcome. Games, entertainment and refreshments all will be part of the party. Each girl will receive a "thank-you" gift for coming.

EASTER PARTIES are fun even if you do have trouble keeping your rabbit ears on top of your head as Joy Schuld did at Tuesday's Prospect Heights Nursery School party.

Fight Wheeling Fire

The Arlington Heights Fire Department fought a fire for Wheeling Wednesday.

The fire, in an abandoned shack on Windy Lane near Hintz Road in an unincorporated area, was reported to the Arlington Heights firemen by an Arlington Heights resident.

When they got to the fire, they realized it was actually in the Wheeling Township Rural Fire Protection District, not in the area covered by Arlington Heights.

They put it out anyway, and then called the Wheeling Fire Department.

A Herald Editorial

Vote 'Yes' Three Times Tomorrow

An issue of top importance — a tax hike and bond issue — will go to the voters in School Dist. 21 tomorrow.

Voters will be asked to authorize issuance of $4.5 million in bonds to construct and equip two new schools and additions to three existing schools.

Two other propositions will ask for authorization to increase the educational fund tax rate by 20 cents and the building fund tax rate by 10 cents.

We feel that all three propositions should be passed.

The need for additional school buildings is evident. Three separate surveys have projected an ultimate enrollment of 20,000 students compared to the current enrollment of 8,000.

New elementary schools would be built in Prospect Heights and the Mill Creek subdivision of Buffalo Grove. Both sections are critical growth areas.

Issuance of the bonds will not raise the bond and interest tax rate because they will be issued against new assessed valuation in the district.

However, passage of the other two propositions would raise taxes $10 per year on a home assessed at $100,000.

Higher taxes are never popular and the state of the economy makes additional taxes even less welcome. Nevertheless, Dist. 21 needs this revenue.

The district has not had a tax increase in seven years, though operating costs have risen steadily.

State aid has risen each year recently, but such an increase in aid will most likely not come this year.

Dist. 21 has demonstrated its willingness to economize. More than $400,000 has been cut from the 1971-72 budget.

Without additional revenue for the cutbacks in the educational program can be expected in 1972. Dist. 21 has nowhere to turn for this revenue but to its own residents.

Good Schools are important to all the residents of a community. By providing a sound education for its youngsters, a community is investing in its future.

2 Candidates Unopposed For Election

Last two names will appear on the ballot tomorrow in the race for two school board posts in River Trails School Dist. 21.

Alan Wallskog, of 11 E. 1100 N. Prospect Heights, and Juanita Jacobs of 312 E. 1100 N. Prospect Heights, are the only candidates who filed nominating petitions with the district during the regular filing period.

In tomorrow's election, voters may cast their ballots at the River Trails Junior High School, 1000 Wolf Rd., Mount Prospect. Polls will be open from noon until 7 p.m. Write-in votes are allowed.

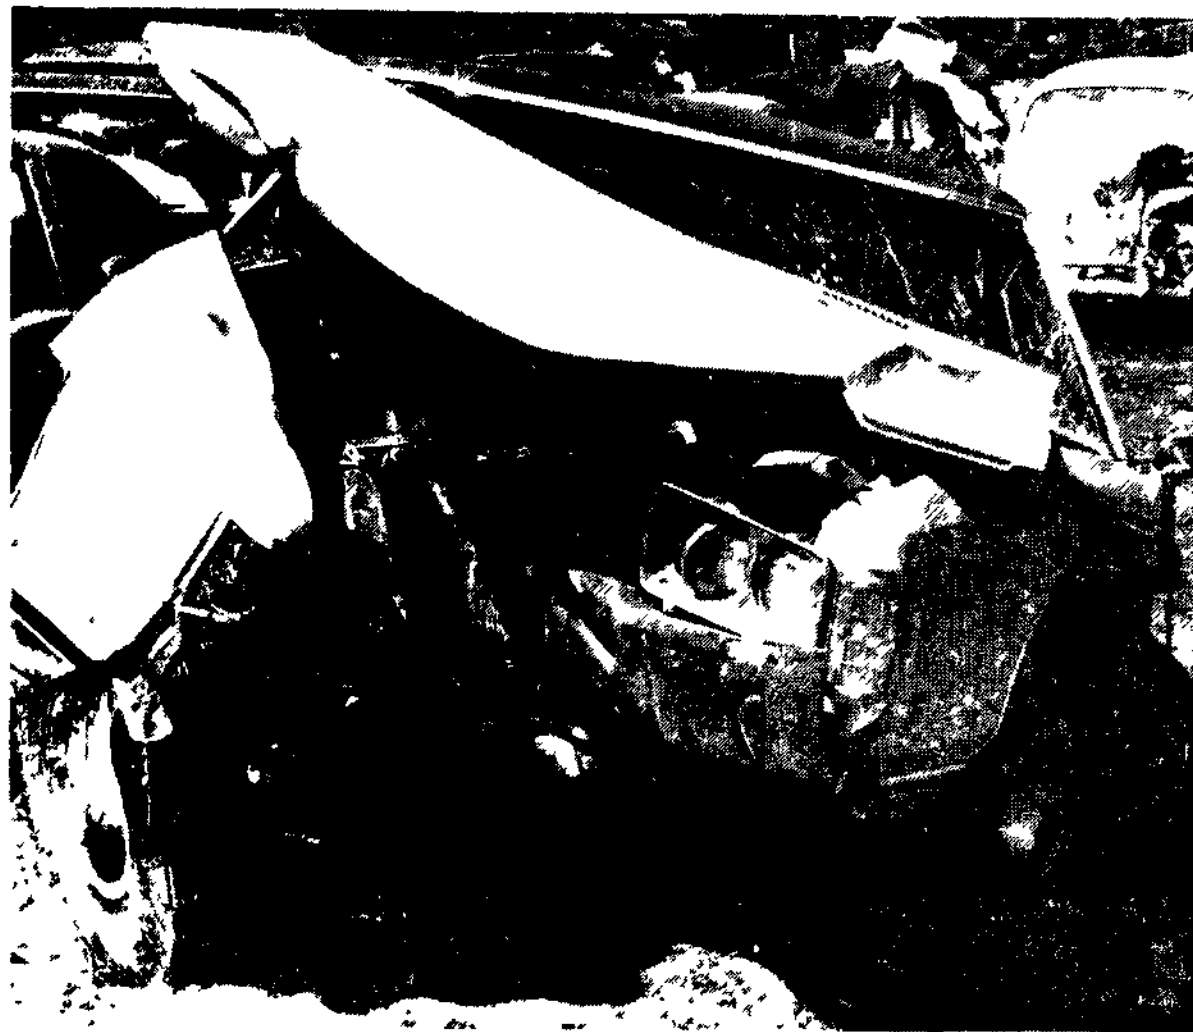

Both candidates were endorsed earlier this year by the Dist. 21 General Council. They were chosen from a field of seven candidates.

WALLSKOG HOLDS A master's degree in engineering from Ohio State University. He is the director of engineering for E. Eldelman and Co., an auto parts manufacturer.

He has been active in church youth work and PTA activities. Wallskog has three children.

Mrs. Jacobs has been a resident of the Dist. 21 area for the last seven and one-half years. She has been a member of the Indian Grove School PTA six years, including one year as president. She also has been a member of the Council of PTAs, a group made up of representatives from Mount Prospect area PTAs.

Neither of the two incumbents whose terms are ending this year are running again. The two who will leave the board are Hubert Stubbs and Ray Johnston. Stubbs has been on the board nine years. Johnston has been a board member eight years.

Woman Killed In Crash

A 34-year-old mother of two children was killed early yesterday morning when her car left Arlington Heights Road and crashed into a 5-foot drainage tile just north of Rand Road.

Killed was Mrs. Carlene Kunzie of 719 E. Ivy Ln.

She is survived by her husband, John P. Kunzie, and two daughters, Jane, Elizabeth, 13, and Julie Lynn, 10.

Arlington Heights police said Mrs. Kunzie was northbound on Arlington Heights Road when her car left the road way about 82 feet south of Valley Lane. Police said the auto apparently went off the road about 12 feet south of a steel guard rail along a 12 foot ditch.

The auto traveled about 36 feet into the ditch before crashing into the drainage tile.

Police said a passing motorist, John C. Aldazzo, 806 Valley Lane, discovered the car in the ditch moments later and called a police squad car at the corner of Arlington Heights and Rand roads at 3:04 a.m.

Witnesses said police had difficulty extricating the woman from the wreckage. Mrs. Kunzie was pronounced dead on arrival at 3:29 a.m. at Northwest Community Hospital. She suffered injuries to the head, chest, arm and left ankle, according to police.

Worker struggled for more than an hour to remove the car from the ditch, which is four feet wide, according to witnesses. There was four inches of water in the ditch, police said. The car, a 1971 model, was demolished.

Police also reported that Mrs. Kunzie's driver's license had expired on March 15.

The Cook County coroner's office scheduled an inquest into the death for 9:30 a.m. today at Lauterburg and Oehler Funeral Home, 2000 E. Northwest Hwy.

Mrs. Kunzie was a saleswoman for Don Hager Realtors of Palatine.

The ditch into which the car crashed had been the subject of complaints by members of the Ivy Hill Civic Association in the past. At the time of construction of North Point Shopping Center, residents had complained that the open drainage ditch and the lack of sidewalks on Arlington Heights Road constituted a danger to school children walking in the area. Safety busing was later instituted by District 25 school officials.

Board, Issue Vote Tomorrow

Elk Grove Township Elementary School Dist. 21 residents will go to the polls tomorrow to approve or deny issuance of $2.5 million in bonds and elect two candidates to the board of education.

Polls will be open from noon to 7 p.m. Voting, yes, on the referendum will be a commitment to allow the district to sell bonds for construction of junior high school, the fifth in the district and the last one that will be needed, according to school officials.

A 5.1-acre site for the school was purchased by the district for $100,000. The site is on Janice Avenue in Des Plaines, near St. Zachary Catholic Church and school on Algonquin Road.

The district reported the referendum will increase the bond and interest fund tax rate about three cents per $100 for 1972 and 1973. However, the figure was calculated before a recent circuit court decision eliminating the corporate personal property tax. If the suit is upheld by the Illinois Supreme Court, the tax rate will be higher.

THE DISTRICT HAS 20 schools in the Elk Grove Township portions of Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, and Des Plaines.

A sketch of the building was prepared in order to avoid spending much money on the school before voter approval.

al according to Leah Cummins, district public relations specialist.

A preliminary sketch would have cost $50,000 and a detailed sketch would have cost $150,000 to $400,000, she said.

However, if the referendum is approved, the building for 750 students will be designed beginning after the referendum with construction planned for October. The district is planning to open the building in December, 1972.

FOUR CANDIDATES are seeking two three-year terms on the board of education. Allen Sparks, 908 Spruance Des Plaines; Albert Domanico, 7 Grange Elk Grove Village; Theodore Staddler, 1012 Briarwood Elk Grove Village; and Edwin Poklaski, 1223 S. Fernandez Arlington Heights.

Sparks is the only incumbent serving on the board for three years. Domanico is a former board member who served for one year in 1969-70.

Staddler has a background in industrial education. Poklaski ran for the board last year, losing by six votes.

All of the candidates have children in Dist. 21 schools.

Results on the school board election and junior high school issue will be reported by the district on their automatic 24-hour phone message. The number is 437-7837. Returns are to be available by 9:30 p.m. on election night.

Youth Is Arrested On Burglary Charge

A 17-year-old Chicago youth was charged with burglary Wednesday following a complaint signed against him by G. C. Murphy and Co. at the Mount Prospect Shopping Plaza, Rand and Central roads, Mount Prospect.

Ronnie Davidson was arrested in his home by Mount Prospect police and charged with stealing a combination AM-FM radio and tape deck and a portable color television.

Police said entry was gained to the store by breaking a window at the rear of the building in the March 31 theft.

Davidson is scheduled to appear in the Niles branch of the Cook County Circuit Court Tuesday. He is currently in the Cook County House of Correction awaiting trial. Bond was set at $1,500.

German Team To Receive Flag

Mayor Robert Teichert of Mount Prospect will present the village flag to the West German Touring Gymnastics Team during welcoming ceremonies at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the fieldhouse at Prospect High School, 801 W. Kensington Rd., Mount Prospect.

The West German team will be competing with five of Illinois' top all-around gymnasts in an exhibition scheduled to begin following the opening ceremonies.

In addition to presenting the West German contingent with a village flag, Teichert will bestow honorary village citizenships on the six-member squad and its coach.

Teichert will also present the team with a copy of the village's "Resolution of Friendship." The resolution, unanimously approved by the village board

Tuesday, reads as follows:

HEADLINING THE gymnastics competition from the immediate area are Jeff Farris, the state's second-place all-around performer, and Rene Mathis, who finished eighth in state competition.

Also included on the area team are sixth-place Gary Oldeen of Evanston, fifth-place Pat Neelan from Homewood-Flossmoor and an 11-year-old gymnast supreme, Tim Slottow, also of Evanston. Tickets cost $2 for adults and $1 for students.

According to Prospect's Rich Chew, host gymnastics coach, the meet will be handled by all internationally-certified judges. Chew said the exhibition will give the gymnasts a "terrific" opportunity to compete on an international basis.

From The Library

by LAURIE ROSSI

When asked which entertainer he personally performed before more people than any other American musician, most people couldn't give the correct answer. Most people wouldn't answer Merle Evans. Some people may not even know who he is, but to thousands of children and adults he is the name that means the circus.

Merle Evans was bandmaster of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Circus band for 50 years. Now the Mount Prospect library has a five-record anthology of circus music called "A Tribute to Merle Evans." It comes with a book about Evans and circus music, which contains many reminiscent photos. The music is played by the New England Conservatory Wind Ensemble. Anyone who has ever enjoyed the circus will surely be brought back to pleasant circus memories while playing these records.

ANOTHER NEWER record in the browsing room at the library is a six-record album called "To the Moon," the dramatized story of man's boldest venture, told in the voices of those who helped achieve it. The text of this album, which has an accompanying history in pictures, was written by the editors of "Time-Life." The accomplishments of our space program are traced in this story in sound, from the beginning of rocketry. It recalls the deaths and investigation of the deaths of Grissom, White, and Chaffee, and ends with Armstrong and Aldrin on the moon's surface, and JFK's goal met.

The library is open 9 to 9 weekdays, 9 to 5 Saturdays, and 2 to 5 Sundays. It will be closed Good Friday between 12-3, and all day Easter Sunday.

PTA Fashion Show Planned April 20

Proceeds from the event will be used for school equipment. For ticket information, call either 299-7303 or 824-2409.

School Budget Down $60,000

by KAREN RUGEN

By cutting expenditures for instructional supplies and equipment, the District 57 School Board whittled away $60,000 of the $160,000 deficit in the proposed 1971-72 education budget.

Elimination of $6,000 for a professional member of the next year also helped board members cut the first draft of the budget to approximately $23 million. The current education budget totals $3 million.

However, the proposed $100,000 deficit budget is only tentative and does not include salary increases or extra fringe benefits now being negotiated by the Mount Prospect Education Association (MPEA) and the board.

IN CUTTING instructional supplies and equipment expenditures, the board directed the administration to select its priorities. The proposed $194,000 for supplies, which includes textbooks, library and classroom materials, was cut to $137,000, an increase of only $500 over current expenditures.

In establishing priorities some existing programs may be cut back because of budgeting for new ones," said board member George Foster.

Harrison Hanson, board president, stressed that all the materials purchased under the current budget have not yet been used.

The proposed money for equipment, including audiovisual equipment and classroom furniture, was cut to $76,000, a decrease of $10,000 compared to current expenditures.

IN ATTEMPTING to cut the deficit, Local 1 members looked at each non-fixed account. They considered a re-scheduling of teachers who spend time at different schools each day, to cut down their travel reimbursement.

"But we're really only nit-picking," said Foster. "No matter how much we can cut, most of the budget is still made up of fixed accounts we can't do anything about."

So far, revenue in the education fund has decreased $111,000 compared to current revenue because of an expected decrease of 200 in enrollment, resulting in a decrease in state aid. Also special education funds and tuition from students in other districts have decreased because of fewer trainable mentally handicapped classes in District 57.

Decreases are also expected because of the abolition of personal property tax and possible decrease in assessed valuation, according to J. C. Busenhardt, business manager.

ABOUT 75 PER CENT of the money in the education fund goes for teachers' salaries. With a board-approved cut in teaching staff by approximately 22 teachers, about $1.9 million has been budgeted for salaries in the proposed first draft. However, the figure is based on required pay hikes according to the current salary schedule.

The increases the MPEA is asking for total about $250,000 according to Busenhardt. However, he said, that figure does not take into account the 22 fewer teachers.

The education budget makes up approximately three-fourths of the district's

DIST. 57 SCHOOLS

Mount Prospect, Busse, Fairview, Gregory, Lincoln, Lyons Park, Sunset Park and Westbrook

total budget. The approximately $160,000 1970-71 deficit budget, the first in the history of the district, comes from a deficit in the education fund.

The other budgets, not yet presented to the board for discussion, have been balanced in the past, according to Busenhardt. The other budgets are building, transportation, bond and interest, municipal retirement, life safety and liability insurance fund.

School Ballots To Be Collected At 27 Polls

by JUDY BRANDES

High School Dist. 214 voters will go to 27 polls tomorrow from noon to 7 p.m. to select two from six candidates to serve three-year terms.

Incumbents Richard Bachhuber of Mount Prospect and Leah Cummins of Elk Grove Village face opposition for their seats from Jack Matthews, Raymond Pettersen, Jr., Robert Winkle and Don McGlothlin.

Traditionally, Dist. 214 candidates from Mount Prospect have benefited from voter turnout for elementary district elections in the town. Easter activities and no overriding issues in Elementary Dist. 37 may hold voter turnout this year, observers are saying.

IN ELK GROVE Village, where Mrs. Cummins lives, candidate Robert Winkle is said to have support from Elk Grove High School teachers. A $2.3 million junior high school referendum is also on the ballot tomorrow in Elk Grove Township.

Voter interest in district-wide issues has centered around discipline and what the district will do if it ever gets into a financial bind.

Both incumbents say they favor home-bound instruction rather than expulsion. Recently, in the first Dist. 214 formal expulsion in several years, Mrs. Cummins voted against Bachhuber for expulsion of a student.

All candidates say the district is in fairly good financial situation. The incumbents seem to disagree on whether to cut down on teachers or administrators.

LOCAL INTEREST in the election appears in Rolling Meadows, where Pettersen lives, where the seventh Dist. 214 high school is being built and Wheeling, McGlothlin's area, where modular scheduling has upset many parents.

District officials report 181 residents, compared to 21 last year, have voted absentee in the election. The increase has been attributed to the holiday weekend when voters are more likely to be out of town.

During recent forums and candidates' nights, the candidates have spoken about a variety of issues. Here are some of their stands:

—Bachhuber stressed his experience in two terms as a board member and his dedication to the district. If budget cuts are needed in the future, they should be made in fringe areas and in such ways as combining classes.

He also mentioned his work as chairman of the Committee of 75, which studied and recommended a year-round school program and an extended day. Some of those recommendations might have to be implemented if a referendum for the district's eighth high school is defeated.

—Mrs. Cummins has emphasized the "big job" left for her as a board member and the "mandate for every boy and girl" in the district.

MRS. CUMMINS would not favor an attempt to implement merit pay now and she is especially pleased with the district's program for perceptually handicapped children.

If budget cuts are needed, she'd try to trim administrative costs first.

Matthews believes the district needs an eighth high school. If forced to make money cuts, he would make them with "considerable care and study."

He is interested in devising a form of merit pay system for teachers "to reward the excellent ones."

About vocational education, he'd work to educate parents first on the nature of it. Finally, he has a special concern for the district's "average students."

—McGlothlin believes the district doesn't need any more schools, preferring a split session program to eliminate "wasted study hall time" and "unnecessary" supervisory periods.

McGLOTHLIN candidly admitted he doesn't expect to win, and expressed concern about the low turnouts at the candidates' nights.

He'd like to see more vocational education in the Dist. 214 schools.

—Pettersen: Parity between college-preparatory and vocational education is a big "must" for him. Area voters should approve the district's referendum for an eighth high school, he adds.

If cuts are needed, he'd trim non-educational programs, fixtures and administrators not directly involved with students. Finally, "the administration and the staff run the schools, not the students."

—Winkle believes the "spirit of cooperation" between Dist. 214 and the elementary districts should be reestablished.

He'd like to see the end of real estate taxes as the major tax support method for schools. If money cuts are needed later, then the district now should be eliminating programs which are not educationally sound, he said.

Letter To The Editor

Dr. Poklacki Has Spent A Busy Year

Attention Dist. 59 voters who "bulletted" in last year's school board elections. By casting only one of your votes, you missed the opportunity to elect Erwin Poklacki, who was defeated by six votes.

Unlike many unsuccessful candidates, Dr. Poklacki has spent the year actively participating in school districts affairs. He has attended all of the board meetings and special budget meetings. He has served as a member of the School Community Council and worked on the Junior High Population Study. He has consistently demonstrated an independent, reasonable approach to finding solutions to the many problems faced by our educational community.

On Saturday you have the opportunity to elect Dr. Poklacki to a position of increased responsibility as a member of the board of education. Don't throw away your right to cast two votes and please consider giving one of them to Erwin S. Poklacki.

Leaflet Raises Furor In Harper Board Campaign

By TOM WELLMAN

A handbill distributed by a group calling itself Citizens for an Outstanding Harper College has caused a last minute furor in the college's board of trustees.

The leaflet, which endorses three Harper candidates, charges the election of two other candidates, Hannah Wilson and Larry Moran, is directed towards a "student educator takeover" of the board.

It has been mass leafletted at train stations and will be handed out again today. The leafletting has inspired a threat by Moran that he will take legal action against the leafleteers.

Robert Faust, a Rolling Meadows resident, has asserted that James Hamill, retiring chairman of the Harper College board of trustees, is leading the group called Citizens for an Outstanding Harper College.

Faust said yesterday that the group, which he says includes current trustee Josselyn Nicklas and several local political figures, met last Friday at the home of Richard Snyder, a GOP precinct captain in Palatine to plan the campaign.

SINCE THE ALLEGED meeting a series of handbills have been distributed at railroad stations and through the mail to support the candidacies of Ross Miller, Eugene Nugent and Milton Hansen for the board.

The distribution of the handbills has angered Moran, a student at Northwestern Illinois State College, and Mrs. Wilson, a nurse in Dist. 54.

The handbills indicate Moran's and Mrs. Wilson's candidacy and assert that, if the two win, chances are relatively great at Harper students and the majority of citizens in the district will not be best served.

If they are elected and gain control of the board, "There is likely to be chaos on the board and with the administration, more disruption on campus, and of most importance, accelerating tax referendum proposals," the handbills say.

MRS. WILSON in the past has charged it contains "blatant lies." She asserted yesterday she has no place in her campaign for smear tactics and it is the group's prerogative to lean on party politics, if they choose.

Moran, after several consultations with the Mount Prospect police has threatened to complain to the State's Attorney on the grounds it is an anonymous publication.

He indicated that unless Miller withdrew from the race last night, he will go to the State's Attorney today. He asserts that the "anonymous handbills were printed at Miller's orders by a print shop in Mount Prospect."

Hamill could not be reached Thursday afternoon to comment on the charges and statements. He was not present at last night's Harper board meeting.

MRS. NICKLAS said she had been active among her friends in the Inverness area but that "groups overlap" and that she couldn't say if she attended the Friday meeting.

The handbill was distributed yesterday morning in Arlington Heights and later in the day, a slightly modified handbill was distributed at the Mount Prospect train station.

REFUGEES FROM CHICAGO? Nope, just commuters whose train broke down about a half-mile from the Arlington Heights depot of the Chicago & North Western Railway yesterday afternoon. Ed Borkus led intrepid "strap-hangers" who abandoned the train and hoofed it the last few hundred yards into home while others waited for the repairs.

St. Raymond Tells Tuition Hike

Tuition at St. Raymond Catholic School in Mount Prospect will increase as much as 50 per cent for the 1971-72 school year. Families with one student at the school will have to pay $150 next year, instead of the current $100, as the result of a decision by the St. Raymond school board Tuesday night.

Tuition for families with two children will go up to $200, an increase of $50. For families with more than two children at the school, it will cost $225. Currently there are only two levels for tuition for the single child and $150 per family with more than one student.

THE TUITION HIKES came largely as the result of 1971-72 expected teacher salary increases, according to Board Pres. Thomas McGough. He said the tuition raises will bring in $22,000 in additional revenue. The board expects a 1971-72 enrollment of 840. Currently 893 students attend the school.

The school operates largely on money from tuition and from parishioners' contributions. "If we didn't raise tuition we would have to collect $182,000 from the parishioners," McGough said. With the hikes, the school will have to collect $166,000, still an increase over the $160,000 that was collected to pay for the current school operation.

"If we are to continue as we are going we couldn't do this—we'd be just about at the breaking point," McGough said. "But we are committed to keeping the school open."

HE SAID NEXT YEAR lay teachers will be getting a 5.6 per cent cost of living increase plus the yearly salary raise because of a decision recently made by the Chicago Archdiocese.

"Teaching nuns and the principal are also getting increases," McGough said. Currently the school employs 20 lay teachers, eight full time teaching nuns and one part time teaching nun.

The cost of school operation has greatly increased in the past several years, according to McGough. For the 1969-69 school year, parishioners contributed $85,000 for school costs and $116,000 for the 1969-70 year.

"I don't think the tuition increase will stop parents from sending their children to the school," McGough said. There is still a great demand for our kind of educational system. But we do support state aid for parochial schools."

Voters To Narrow Field Of 4

Voters will pick two new school board members in Mount Prospect Dist. 57 tomorrow from a field of four candidates.

Polls will be open from noon until 7 p.m. The district serves central and northern Mount Prospect.

The four Dist. 57 hopefuls are Kenneth Pancerzyk, 509 S. Albert St.; Edith Freund, 107 N. Prospect Manor; Erwin Lankman, 508 N. Edmundo Ave.; and Robert Novy, 306 E. Council Tr. All have been endorsed by the Dist. 57 General Caucus.

Pancerzyk, first on the ballot, is a former sixth grade teacher at Lions Park School in Dist. 57. Currently he teaches science in Niles Dist. 61. A resident of Mount Prospect for 2½ years, he has a bachelor's and master's degree in education. He has two children.

Lankman, a graduate of the University of Illinois and Marquette University, has taught economics at various universities including the Illinois Institute of Technology. Currently he is employed in the

Reactions To 'Superstar' Mixed

by KAREN RUGEN

Some Mount Prospect residents, especially the younger ones, may be seeing Jesus Christ in a new light this Easter.

Some might be calling Him Superstar. "Jesus Christ Superstar," a rock opera of the Passion of Christ from Mary Magdalene to the crucifixion, has added a new musical and maybe religious dimension to Easter. Holy Week and Lenten services at several local churches.

Reactions of congregations are mixed, according to church officials. But they say many adults are realizing the 87 minute, two-record album written by Englishmen Andrew Lloyd Webber and Tim Rice, is not a stab at Christ, the organized church or traditional religion.

"TO ME SUPERSTAR means the same as the Savior of the World," said the Rev. Paul Sandin of South Community Baptist Church, 501 S. Emerson St. "The opera tries to make the Passion into a human experience — at least a believable one."

'Superstar' has been played at the church during Lent for the young people from fifth grade up to high school age. Parts of the opera will be used in the youth planned sunrise service Easter Sunday.

Most of the people who think the record is sacrilegious probably haven't heard it," said the minister. "The kids all were impressed and I was impressed by the lyrics myself."

THOSE LYRICS are the ones which describe Christ's popularity as being "at the top of the poll," and ask Jesus "How do you view your coming trial?"

Have your men proved at all worth while? They are the same lyrics that cause the Apostles to ask "What's the buzz?" when they cannot understand Christ's master plan.

The lyrics are consistent with the contemporary attitude. It puts the sacred account into a secular terminology, said Rev. Sandin.

Every generation should have the privilege of looking at history in the art form meaningful to them," he said. "When kids started singing Gospel hymns hundreds of years ago, I'm sure a lot of adults also gritted their teeth then."

The associate pastor's favorite song is the one sung by Mary Magdalene, the

Junior High At Stake In Referendum

Elk Grove Township Elementary School Dist. 59 residents will go to the polls tomorrow to approve or deny issuance of $2.3 million, in bonds and elect two candidates to the board of education.

Polls will be open from noon to 7 p.m.

Voting "yes" on the referendum will be a commitment to allow the district to sell bonds for construction of junior high school, the fifth in the district, and the last one that will be needed, according to school officials.

A 5.4 acre site for the school was purchased by the district for $150,000. The site is on Janice Avenue in Des Plaines, near St. Zachary Catholic Church and school on Algonquin Road.

The district reported the referendum will increase the bond and interest fund tax rate about three cents per $100 for 1972 and 1973. However, the figure was calculated before a recent Circuit Court decision eliminating the corporate personal property tax. If the suit is upheld by the Illinois Supreme Court the tax rate will be higher.

THE DISTRICT HAS 20 schools in the Elk Grove Township portions of Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, and Des Plaines.

A sketch of the building was not prepared in order to avoid spending much money on the school before voter approval, according to Leah Cummins, district public relations specialist.

A preliminary sketch would have cost $7,000 and a detailed sketch would have been $15,000 to $40,000, she said.

However, if the referendum is approved, the building for 750 students will be designed beginning after the referendum with construction planned for October. The district is planning to open the building in December 1972.

FOUR CANDIDATES are seeking two three-year terms on the board of education. Allen Sparks, 900 Spruance, Des Plaines; Albert Domonico, 7 Grange, Elk Grove Village; Theodore Stoddler, 1942 Brantwood, Elk Grove Village; and Edwin Poklacki, 1223 S. Fernandez, Arlington Heights.

Sparks is the only incumbent, serving on the board for three years. Domonico is a former board member who served for one year in 1969-70.

Stoddler has a background in industrial education. Poklacki ran for the board last year, losing by six votes.

All of the candidates have children in Dist. 59 schools.

Results on the school board election and junior high school issue will be reported by the district on their automatic 24-hour phone message. The number is 437-7837. Returns are to be available by 9:30 p.m. on election night.

2 Candidates Unopposed For Election

Just two names will appear on the ballots tomorrow in the race for two school board posts in River Trails School Dist. 26.

Alan Wallskog of 3 E. Leon Ln., Prospect Heights, and Juanita Jacobs of 312 Peartree Ln., Prospect Heights, are the only candidates who filed nominating petitions with the district during the regular filing period.

In tomorrow's election, voters may cast their ballots at the River Trails Junior High School, 1000 Wolf Rd., Mount Prospect. Polls will be open until 7 p.m. Write-in votes are allowed.

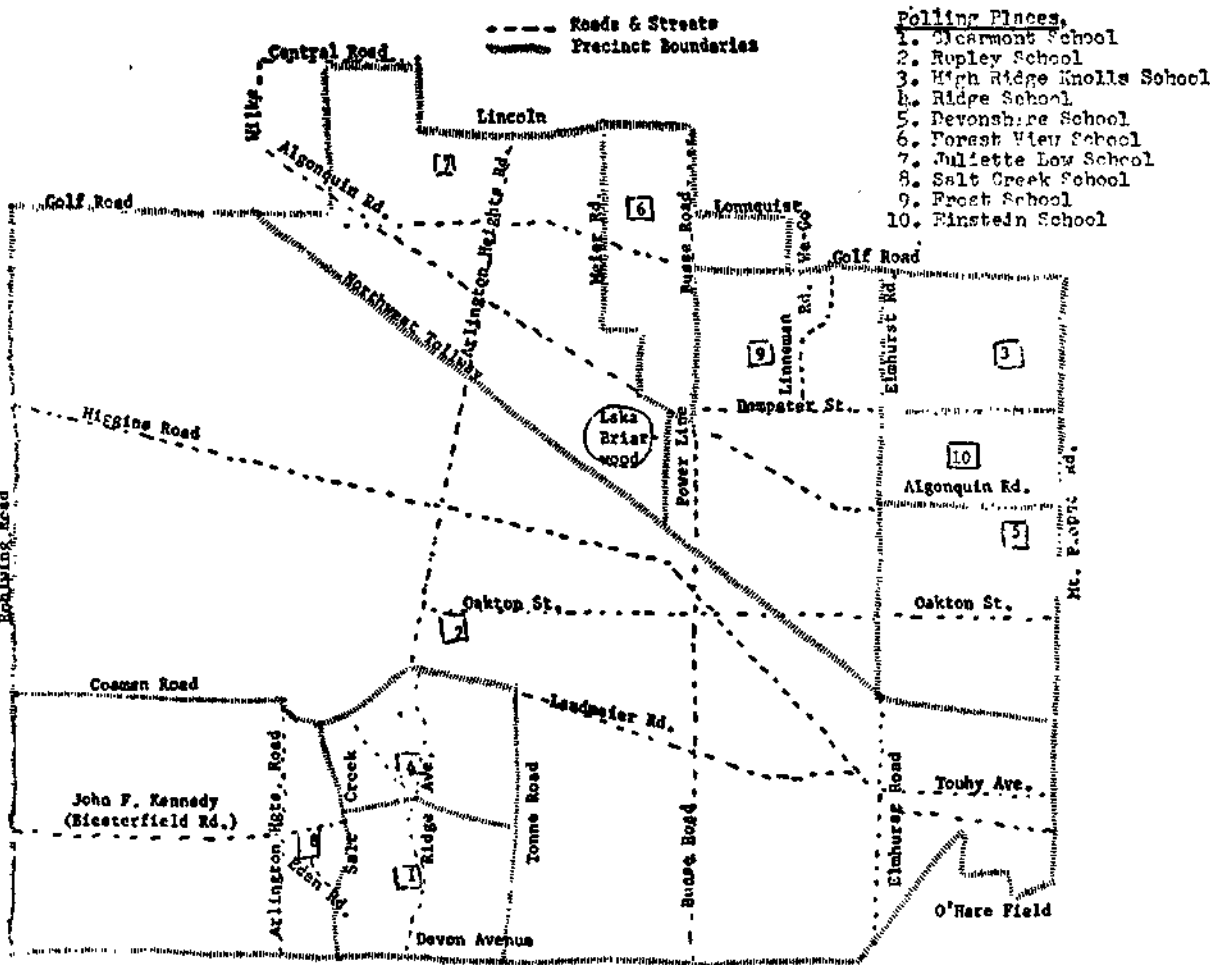

Both candidates were endorsed earlier this year by the Dist. 26 General Caucus. They were chosen from a field of seven candidates.

WALLSKOG HOLDS A master's degree in engineering from Ohio State University. He is the director of engineering for E. Kildebrand and Co., an auto parts manufacturer.

He has been active in church youth work and PTA activities. Wallskog has three children.

Mrs. Jacobs has been a resident of the Dist. 26 area for the last seven and one-half years. She has been a member of the Indian Grove School PTA six years, including one year as president. She also headed the Randhurst Council of PTAs, a group made up of representatives from Mount Prospect area PTAs.

Neither of the two incumbents whose terms are ending this year are running again. The two who will leave the board are Hubert Stubbs and Ray Johnston. Stubbs has been on the board nine years. Johnston has been a board member eight years.

POLLING PLACES and precincts in Elk Grove Township Elementary School Dist. 59 election and referendum tomorrow are shown here. Voters are to elect two persons to fill three-year terms and are asked to approve the issuance of $2.3 million in bonds for a junior high school. Polls are open from noon to 7 p.m. For information call the district administration office, 437-1000.

Reactions Mixed To 'Superstar'

only female voice in the opera — the song that says about Jesus:

"He scares me so; I want him so; I love him so."

"IT TAKES A low-grade woman and pictures her as one who is transformed by forgiveness," Sandin said.

Sandin thinks the album has a relevant message but thinks "it misses the whole focus of Holy Week — Easter morning." The saga ends with the crucifixion and does not continue to the Resurrection.

Not ending with the Easter morning is appropriate to the message, according to the Rev. Clifford Kaufmann of St. Paul Lutheran Church, 100 S. School St.

"The album asks questions about the man, Jesus, and the resurrection is really outside the man," the Rev. Kaufmann said. "It asks a lot of questions, especially in the theme song."

That's the song that asks "Jesus Christ, Jesus Christ: Who are you? What have you sacrificed? Jesus Christ, Superstar: Do you think you're what they say you are?"

ABOUT 130 adults and children met at St. Paul's last Sunday for a contemporary Holy Week service and a discussion of "Superstar." They listened to about 45 minutes of selections, with the script before them.

"I didn't hear any kind of protest or negative reaction," said Rev. Kaufmann. "I think some adults came expecting to have problems with it but then could identify."

Rev. Kaufmann's favorite song is the honky-tonk version of King Herod's speech to Jesus just before his trial:

"So you are the Christ, you're the great Jesus Christ: Prove to me that you're no fool, walk across my swimming pool."

"The music takes the listener inside the human reality of those Biblical events," said Rev. Kaufmann.

Selections of "Superstar" will not be played at St. Raymond's Catholic Church but the record has been used in religion classes at the school, according to Sister Joan, principal.

"The record is just another insight into possible relationships people had with Jesus," she said. "It helps by using music the kids are turned onto." She said it's the music, from rock to classical and honky-tonk to mid-50s style, that appeals to the young people.

"SUPERSTAR will give more food for thought to anyone who listens, although it is not meant to be doctrine," she said.

Sunday morning the record will be played in Sunday School classes for seventh and eighth graders at St. Mark's Lutheran Church, 200 S. Wille St.

"My reaction to it is the same as the kids," said youth director Arlen Holmen. "It uses the medium kids appreciate to totally create a realness to the life of Jesus."

The opera was also played during Lenten services at Trinity United Methodist Church, 605 W. Golf Road.

"Some of the language cheapened the story of the Passion somewhat," said the Rev. Harvey Neumann, associate pastor. "But many statements shed a new light on the story of Jesus."

'Anonymous' Leaflet Hit In Campaign

by TOM WELLMAN

A handbill distributed by a group calling itself "Citizens for an Outstanding Harper College" has caused a last minute furor in the college's board of trustees' race.

The leaflet, which endorses three Harper candidates, charges the election of two other candidates, Hannah Wilson and Larry Moran, is directed towards a "student-educator takeover" of the board.

It has been mass leafletted at train stations and will be handed out again today. The leafletting has inspired a threat by Moran that he will take legal action against the leafleteers.

Robert Faust, a Rolling Meadows resident, has asserted that James Hamill, retiring chairman of the Harper College board of trustees, is leading the group called Concerned Citizens for an Outstanding Harper College.

Faust said yesterday that the group, which he says includes current trustee Jessalyn Nicklas, and several local political figures, met last Friday at the home of Richard Snyder, a GOP precinct captain, in Palatine to plan the campaign.

SINCE THE ALLEGED meeting, a series of handbills have been distributed at railroad stations and through the mail to support the candidacies of Ross Miller, D. Eugene Nugent and Milton Hansen for the board.

The distribution of the handbills has angered Moran, a student at Northwestern Illinois State College, and Mrs. Wilson, a nurse in Dist. 54.

The handbills indicate Moran's and Mrs. Wilson's candidacy, and assert that, if the two win, "chances are relatively great Harper students and the majority of citizens in the district will not be best served."

If they are elected and gain control of the board, "There is likely to be chaos on the board and with the administration, more disruption on campus, and, of most importance, accelerating tax referendum proposals," the handbills say.

MRS. WILSON in the past has charged it contains "blatant lies." She asserted yesterday she has no place in her campaign for smear tactics and it is the group's prerogative to lean on party politics, if they choose.

Moran, after several consultations with the Mount Prospect police, has threatened to complain to the State's Attorney on the grounds it is an anonymous publication.

He indicated that, unless Miller withdrew from the race last night, he will go to the State's Attorney today. He asserts that the "anonymous handbills were printed at Miller's orders by a print shop in Mount Prospect."

Hamill could not be reached Thursday afternoon to comment on the charges and statements. He was not present at last night's Harper board meeting.

MRS. NICKLAS said she had been active among her friends in the Inverness area, but that "groups overlap," and that she couldn't say if she attended the Friday meeting.

The handbill was distributed yesterday morning in Arlington Heights, and later in the day a slightly modified handbill was distributed at the Mount Prospect train station.

RICHARD COWEN, Wheeling Twp. GOP committeeman, said that his organization "has taken no stand and will not do so, it is not our policy."

Mother Of 2 Killed In Auto Crash

Killed was Mrs. Carlene Kunzie of 719 E. Ivy Ln.

She is survived by her husband, John P. Kunzie, and two daughters, Jane Elizabeth, 13, and Julie Lynn, 10.

Arlington Heights police said Mrs.

Kunzie was northbound on Arlington Heights Road when her car left the roadway about 82 feet south of Valley Lane. Police said the auto apparently went off the road about 12 feet south of a steel guard rail along a 12-foot ditch.

The auto traveled about 36 feet into the ditch before crashing into the drainage tile.

Police said a passing motorist, John Caldarazzo, 806 Valley Lane, discovered the car in the ditch moments later and hailed a police squad car at the corner of Arlington Heights and Rand roads at 3:04 a.m.

Witnesses said police had difficulty ex-tricating the woman from the wreckage. Mrs. Kunzie was pronounced dead on arrival at 3:29 a.m. at Northwest Community Hospital. She suffered injuries of the head, chest, arm and left ankle, according to police.

Workmen struggled for more than an hour to remove the car from the ditch, which is four feet wide, according to witnesses. There was four inches of water in the ditch, police said. The car, a 1971 model, was demolished.

Police also reported that Mrs. Kunzie's driver's license had expired on March 15. The Cook County coroner's office scheduled an inquest into the death for 9:30 a.m. today at Lauterburg and Oehler Funeral Home, 2000 E. Northwest Hwy.

Mrs. Kunzie was a saleswoman for Don Hager Realtors of Palatine.

The ditch into which the car crashed had been the subject of complaints by members of the Ivy Hill Civic Association in the past. At the time of construction of North Point Shopping Center, residents had complained that the open drainage ditch and the lack of sidewalks on Arlington Heights Road constituted a danger to school children walking in the area. "Safety busing" was later instituted by District 25 school officials.

Prank Victim Back On Critical List

One of the three Arlington High School seniors injured seriously during a prank at the school Jan. 20 has been returned to the "critical" list at Northwest Community Hospital.

Another of the injured students, released from the hospital several weeks ago, was readmitted to the hospital and is being treated in isolation for various infections.

Bill Horn, 17, of 345 N. Highland Ave., Arlington Heights, has been in the hospital since the accident and recently has been described as in good condition. He received a compressed fracture of the upper spine in the freak accident and has not recovered movement in his legs.

A hospital spokesman said yesterday that when Horn was taken to surgery Wednesday his heart stopped before the operation on his back had begun. The spokesman said Horn survived the failure and is now listed in critical condition in the intensive care unit at the hospital.

THE SECOND student injured, Brad Boice, 17, of 814 S. Ridge Ave., Arlington Heights, was readmitted to the hospital about two weeks ago.

The hospital spokesman said Boice received lung surgery Tuesday and is listed in good condition.

Boice received a compressed fracture of the upper spine, four broken ribs and a lacerated liver in the accident in which a washroom wall collapsed on the three students.

The lung surgery was said to be necessitated by a problem connected to the accident. Boice reportedly also has a staph infection and hepatitis.

The Arlington High senior received liver surgery at least twice following the accident. The day following the incident, the hospital issued an emergency call for type O-negative blood when the liver damage was discovered and the student received the initial surgery. During his first few days in the hospital, Boice received 18 pints of blood.

THE THIRD STUDENT injured was Bill Kelly, 17, of 751 S. Burton Pl., Arlington Heights. Kelly, who also received a compressed fracture of the upper spine, was sent home Jan. 30 with a corset to brace his back.

Eye on Arlington

Swim Night Idea Sunk By Board

by SANDRA J. BROWNING

If you've heard about the apathy of government bodies when citizens complain, you should talk to Mrs. Vincent Cunningham.

Mrs. Cunningham of 802 N. Harvard tried to complain about adult swimming nights at a meeting of the Arlington Heights Park Board and found she didn't get very far. When she presented her opinions, she was thanked and the issue was swept under the rug. Her suggestion to reevaluate the adult swim night proposal for this summer was essentially ignored by the park board.

The policy, if implemented as planned, would mean only adults (18 years old and older) would be allowed to swim in all five of the park district's outdoor swimming pools from 6:30 to 8 p.m. each weekday. Five days a week, one and a half hours each day at all outdoor pools is quite a bit of time.

The unpopular reaction to the policy, voiced by Mrs. Cunningham and later echoed by park board candidates, is based on a number of factors. Just the fact that local pools will be closed to children for that time every week night is one valid criticism.

As Mrs. Cunningham pointed out, one or two nights a week at alternating locations would be better because adults can hop into their cars and go. For the kids, it's a different matter. If their local park is closed five nights a week for an hour and a half, they're kinda trapped.

Another valid criticism of the proposal is the time itself. How many adults are ready to go jump into the pool at 6:30 p.m. when many commuter husbands are just barely home from work?

Last year, the park district offered the adult swim time at each pool the night a week. However, the time was from 8:30 to 9:30, the closing time of the pools.

This year, if the new program is implemented, the pools will be open for adults on the early hours and then open to general swimming from 8 to 9:30 p.m. The changing of the time slot doesn't seem to make any sense especially considering a recreation report made to the park board last July.

In this report, members of the recreation staff wrote, "the adult swims from 6 to 7 p.m. have not proved to be as popular as other times" at Olympic Park's pool. If the early hours were not popular at one swimming pool, does it make sense they will be popular at five pools five nights a week?

Another problem with the adult swim policy is related to an additional change which will be implemented this summer. Adults this summer are defined as people who are 18 years old and older. Last year, the definition was anyone who had completed one year of high school.

PARK STAFF MEMBERS say the change was made based on the overwhelming recommendation of swimming pool managers. The changed definition, in and of itself, is not that significant. However, coupled with the overabundance of adult only swim times, it's rather deadly.

As one Park Board candidate suggested, the reclassification of most high school students as non-adults may mean a significant decrease in participation during adult swim times. The recommendation for additional adult swim time this summer was based on the good response to the adult times offered last summer, according to park district staff members.

During the park board meeting and since, park board members and staff members have stressed the adult swim times are "flexible." In answer to questions, staff members have said if the response on a particular night isn't that good, then the pool can be opened to all ages at an earlier hour.

The problem with this flexibility is that no one would be able to count on anything. Should non-adults go and stand at the door and when no adults show up by 6:45, then they will be let in? Can an adult really go to the pool at 7:30 and expect to be able to swim or will the pool have already been opened to non-adults? The confusion would be monumental.

If the program was changed in mid-summer, allowing adult swim times just two nights a week at each location, confusion again would be the result. As Donald Boudrow, a citizen who appeared at an October recreation committee meeting, pointed out, mistakes and changes made in the park district brochure of activities make "a guy like me who comes off the train throw up his hands in the air." Because there are so many mid-stream changes in programs after the brochures are printed, you can never really count on anything, he said. He's right.

The adult swim policy is a bad one, not only because of the number of days it's offered, but also because of the early time slot. Obviously, someone wasn't thinking of the impact of the proposal when it was approved by the Park Board. Offering open swimming at the indoor swimming facilities at Olympic Park isn't enough to justify the policy.

THANK GOODNESS Mrs. Cunningham was thinking. She brought the issue to the board members who merely brushed it aside.

The park board should take a second look at the adult swim program and make changes immediately. Hopefully, the changes can be included in the park district's summer brochures. If changes aren't made, the Park Board members can blame only themselves if confusion and lack of participation result.

The board must consider the policy not in terms of who they're letting in the pools for the early adult swim time five nights a week, at five locations, but who they're keeping out.

Arlington Firemen Fight Wheeling Fire

The Arlington Heights Fire Department fought a fire for Wheeling Wednesday.

The fire, in an abandoned shack on Windy Lane near Hintz Road in an unincorporated area, was reported to the Arlington Heights firemen by an Arlington Heights resident.

When they got to the fire, they realized it was actually in the Wheeling Township Rural Fire Protection District, not in the area covered by Arlington Heights.

They put it out anyway, and then called the Wheeling Fire Department.

Many Issues On Tap For Area Voters

Voters in School Dist. 21 will vote tomorrow on two tax rate increases, a building bond issue and election of two school board members.

Polls will be open from noon to 7 p.m. Voters will be asked to approve issuance of $4.5 million in bonds to build two new elementary schools and additions to the three junior high schools.

They will also be asked to approve a 20 cent tax rate increase in the education fund and a 10 cent tax increase in the building fund. Approval of these two proposals would raise the educational fund tax rate from $1.60 to $1.80 per $100 assessed valuation and the building fund tax rate from 25 cents to 35 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

In the school board election, incumbents Ronald Weiner of Wheeling and Jeremiah G. Crise of Arlington Heights are unopposed for three-year terms.

POLLING PLACES ARE:

Pct. 1 — Walt Whitman School, 133 S. Wille Ave., Wheeling.

Pct. 2 — Jack London Junior High School, 1001 W. Dundee Road, Wheeling.

Pct. 3 — Louisa May Alcott School, 530 Bernard Drive, Buffalo Grove.

Pct. 4 — Robert Frost School, 305 Aspen Drive, Prospect Heights.

Pct. 5 — Edgar Allen Poe School, 2800 N. Highland Drive, Arlington Heights.

Only registered voters may cast ballots. Registration requirements are Illinois residency for one year, Cook County for 90 days and the precinct for 30 days.

Dist. 21 residents may register to vote at the Wheeling Township Hall, 1818 E. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights today from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and tomorrow from 9 a.m. to noon.

IF THE TAX INCREASES are approved, Dist. 21 should receive an additional $340,000 beginning in the 1972-73 school year. Educational fund money will be used to pay for teachers' salaries, books and supplies. Building fund money is used to pay for upkeep and daily operating and maintenance costs of school facilities.

yesterday. "There has to be community participation. The residents have to know what's going on through the whole process and have to be involved, or else the plan would not be accepted."

IN LIGHT OF Dyke's statements regarding the magnitude of such a study, the committee indicated that village planner Joe Kesler, even with a planning assistant, would not be able to produce the plan on his own.

Kesler said yesterday he was asked by the committee to prepare a report on his estimates of the staff, space and money he would need to do the job. Kesler was also asked to prepare a timetable for completion of the plan and report back to the committee before April 20.

Plan Could Cost $140,000

A complete, comprehensive master plan for Arlington Heights would cost the village about $140,000, according to what has been called a "highly reputable" consulting firm.

The rough estimate was presented Wednesday night at a meeting of the joint Village Board-Plan Commission committee studying the master plan, in the municipal building.

The figure was dropped by representatives of Harlan Bartholomew and Associates, with home offices in St. Louis. Tom Dyke, of the Chicago office of the firm, told committee members the study would involve the work of 15 staff members and would take about two years to complete. Dyke added that the firm would also continuously update the plan, at a cost of about $10,000 per year.

AFTER THE firm's representatives left the meeting, the subcommittee members discussed the alternative of having the plan done by an outside firm or by the village staff.

Although the committee reached no conclusion on the question, the general feeling was that the master plan should be handled locally and not by a professional firm. Committee members indicated they felt it should be handled in that manner in order to involve the community in the plan, which should reflect the desires of the community. An outside firm might not have the appropriate "feel" for the community and might superimpose plans made for other areas, some members said.

Plan Commissioner Madeline Schroeder, a member of the committee, said

A Herald Editorial

Vote 'Yes' Three Times Tomorrow

An issue of top importance — a tax hike and bond issue — will go to the voters in School Dist. 21 tomorrow.

Voters will be asked to authorize issuance of $4.5 million in bonds to construct and equip two new schools and additions to three existing schools.

Two other propositions will ask for authorization to increase the educational fund tax rate by 20 cents and the building fund tax rate by 10 cents.

We feel that all three propositions should be passed.

The need for additional school buildings is evident. Three separate surveys have projected an ultimate enrollment of 20,000 students, compared to the current enrollment of 8,000.

New elementary schools would be built in Prospect Heights and the Mill Creek subdivision of Buffalo Grove. Both sections are critical growth areas.

Issuance of the bonds will not raise the bond and interest tax rate because they will be issued again at new assessed valuation in the district.

However, passage of the other proposals would raise taxes $30 per year on a home assessed at $10,000.

Higher taxes are never popular, and the state of the economy makes additional taxes even less welcome. Nevertheless, Dist. 21 needs this revenue.

The district has not had a tax increase in seven years, though operating costs have risen steadily.

State aid has risen each year recently, but such an increase in aid will most likely not come this year.

Dist. 21 has demonstrated its willingness to economize. More than $500,000 has been cut from the 1971-72 budget.

Without additional revenue, further cutbacks in the educational program can be expected in 1972. Dist. 21 has nowhere to turn for this revenue but to its own residents.

Good Schools are important to all the residents of a community. By providing a sound education for its youngsters, a community is investing in its future.

Junior High At Stake In Referendum

Elk Grove Township Elementary School Dist. 59 residents will go to the polls tomorrow to approve or deny issuance of $2.3 million, in bonds and elect two candidates to the board of education.

Polls will be open from noon to 7 p.m. Voting "yes" on the referendum will be a commitment to allow the district to sell bonds for construction of junior high school, the fifth in the district, and the last one that will be needed, according to school officials.

A 5.4 acre site for the school was purchased by the district for $150,000. The site is on Janice Avenue in Des Plaines, near St. Zachary Catholic Church and school on Algonquin Road.

The district reported the referendum will increase the bond and interest fund

DIST. 59 SCHOOLS

Arlington Heights: Juliette Low.

Des Plaines: Brentwood, Devonshire, Albert Einstein and High Ridge Knolls.

tax rate about three cents per $100 for 1972 and 1973. However, the figure was calculated before a recent Circuit Court decision eliminating the corporate personal property tax. If the suit is upheld by the Illinois Supreme Court the tax rate will be higher.

THE DISTRICT HAS 20 schools in the Elk Grove Township portions of Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, and Des Plaines.

A sketch of the building was not prepared in order to avoid spending much money on the school before voter approval, according to Leah Cummins, district public relations specialist.

A preliminary sketch would have cost $20,000 and a detailed sketch would have been $35,000 to $40,000, she said.

However, if the referendum is approved, the building for 750 students will be designed beginning after the referendum with construction planned for October. The district is planning to open the building in December, 1972.

FOUR CANDIDATES are seeking two three-year terms on the board of education: Allen Sparks, 908 Spruance, Des Plaines; Albert Domanico, 7 Grange, Elk Grove Village; Theodore Stoddler, 1032 Brantwood, Elk Grove Village; and Erwin Poklaski, 1223 S. Fernandez, Arlington Heights.

Sparks is the only incumbent, serving on the board for three years. Domanico is a former board member who served for one year in 1969-70.

Stoddler has a background in industrial education. Poklaski ran for the board last year, losing by six votes.

All of the candidates have children in Dist. 59 schools.

Results on the school board election and junior high school issue will be reported by the district on their automatic 24-hour phone message. The number is 437-7837. Returns are to be available by 9:30 p.m. on election night.

A Herald Editorial

Our Choices For School Posts

Maine Township High School Dist. 207 will have a double mission during the next three years.

Two important questions must be answered. How can the district cope with its worsening financial condition without sacrificing academic quality and innovative growth? And in what ways will the relationship change between the schools and students?

The district goes deeper into debt each year. Recently released financial projections indicate the district would require a 28 cent increase in its tax levy rate, just to cover school costs by 1972. This year's budget was up 23 per cent, primarily because of the cost of opening Maine North High School, and because of higher teacher salaries.

The district has also been in the process of redefining its policies towards students. Policy changes have come in dress guidelines, student expression, awards for academic achievement, and rights and responsibilities of student athletes.

This redefining of relationships will continue as open campus proposals are discussed, and students push for more self-determination.

The candidates who we feel could best cope with these questions and changes are incumbent William Wuehrmann and John Gahala, both vying for three-year term seats, and Leonard Grazian who is running unopposed for the two-year opening on the board.

Wuehrmann, who is now vice-chairman of the Dist. 207 board, has proven himself well qualified and competent to cope with the district's financial problems. He has a fine rapport with board members, school administrators, and, most importantly, the teachers, with whom he negotiates on behalf of the board.

Gahala is a teacher, with a long experience in the day to day problems of high schools. He has been a leader in his field, and has a fine grasp of educational trends. His obvious liking and respect for students, and his insight into the problems of teachers would be of great value to the board.

Grazian is a lawyer with experience in the fine details of finance. He hopes to improve communications between the community and the board, a worthy goal.

Leaflet Furor In Board Race

by TOM WELLMAN

A handbill distributed by a group calling itself "Citizens for an Outstanding Harper College" has caused a last minute furor in the colleges' board of trustees' race.

The leaflet, which endorses three Harper candidates, charges the election of two other candidates, Hannah Wilson and Larry Moran, is directed towards a "student educator takeover" of the board.

It has been mass leafleted at train stations and will be handed out again to day. The leafletting has inspired a threat by Moran that he will take legal action against the leafletters.

Robert Faust, a Rolling Meadows resident, has asserted that James Hamill, sitting chairman of the Harper College board of trustees, is leading the group called Concerned Citizens for an Outstanding Harper College.

Faust said yesterday that the group, which he says includes current trustee Jessalyn Nicklas, and several local political figures, met last Friday at the home of Richard Snyder, a GOP precinct captain, in Palatine to plan the campaign.

SINCE THE ALLEGED meeting, a series of handbills have been distributed at railroad stations and through the mail to support the candidacies of Ross Miller, D. Eugene Nugent and Milton Hansen for the board.

The distribution of the handbills has angered Moran, a student at Northeastern Illinois State College, and Mrs. Wilson, a nurse in Dist. 54.

The handbills indicate Moran's and Mrs. Wilson's candidacy, and assert that, if the two win, "chances are relatively great Harper students and the majority of citizens in the district will not be served."

If they are elected and gain control of the board, "There is likely to be chaos on the board and with the administration, more disruption on campus, and, of most importance, accelerating tax referendum proposals," the handbills say.

MRS. WILSON in the past has charged it contains "blatant lies." She asserted yesterday she has no place in her campaign for smear tactics and it is the group's prerogative to lean on party politics, if they choose.

Moran, after several consultations with the Mount Prospect police, has threatened to complain to the State's Attorney on the grounds it is an anonymous publication.

He indicated that, unless Miller withdrew from the race last night, he will go to the State's Attorney today. He asserts that the "anonymous handbills were printed at Miller's orders by a print shop in Mount Prospect."

Hamill could not be reached Thursday afternoon to comment on the charges

Firm Aids Woman, Easter Greeting

A Des Plaines woman needed help and a company in Rolling Meadows found the solution.

The result was a happy, pre-Easter present for Mrs. Valerie Biestek, 72 of 1336 Brown St., who heard for the first time in 14 years the voices of her family living in Poland.

Mrs. Biestek's problem began on Jan. 14 when she received a letter from a radio station in Poland telling her of a special song that would be dedicated to her during a broadcast on Jan. 19.

Since she didn't have the necessary radio equipment to monitor the short-wave broadcast, she got help from The Hallcrafters Co., 600 Hicks Rd., Rolling Meadows, producers of amateur and short-wave radio equipment.

Hallcrafters president, Harrison Van Aken, told Mrs. Biestek the company would make a tape recording of the broadcast so the Des Plaines woman would have a permanent record of a song.

FOR THE NEXT FEW nights, several employees of the company, including Bud Drobish, of Arlington Heights, and Cleve Wiot, of Hoffman Estates, ham radio operators, monitored the frequencies given to Mrs. Biestek in her letter.

After failing to pick up the station, Bob Budler, manager of employee and public information, contacted the Polish Con-sulate General in Chicago and Radio Poland at the United Nations.

A letter was sent to the program manager of the station in Warsaw and not only was it decided to make a tape of the broadcast because Mrs. Biestek had missed it, but several interviews with family members were included.

The tape arrived March 19 at O'Hare Airport and Mrs. Biestek, and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Richard Biestek, were presented a copy of the tape, along with an English translation for other members of the family who do not understand Polish.

The 30-minute recording included choir and orchestral music dedicated to Mrs. Biestek, a message from the mayor of Konin, her home town, and interviews with various members of her family, including Mrs. Biestek's sister, Angeline.

Said Mrs. Biestek after she heard the recording: "It is such a good feeling to know that people who don't even know me would take this much trouble for me. What a wonderful Easter present I am so grateful to the people at Hallcrafters."

River Shuttle Service Set

Commuters can cruise to work starting Monday as the Chicago and North Western Railway begins its annual shuttle service on the Chicago River.

Two cruises will be under the direction of Captain Albert Bergstrom as they pick up commuters at the railroad's Riverside Plaza dock at Madison and Canal streets in Chicago. The 140-passenger Wendell and the 108-passenger Sunline will offer a seven-minute ride across the loop to the Wrigley Building dock under N. Michigan Ave.

A boat travels each way every 10 minutes during the morning and evening rush hours, Monday through Friday. The first morning sailing will be at 7:45 a.m. and the last morning sailing at 9 a.m.

Evening rush hour sailings from the N. Michigan Ave. dock will begin at 4:15 p.m. They will continue at 10-minute intervals through 5:25 p.m.

The fare will be 35 cents a ride in books of 10 tickets or 40 cents for a single ride. Tickets will be on sale at ticket windows of the North Western's downtown terminal and at the Riverside Plaza and Drigley Building boat docks.

While regular service will be limited to the rush hours, the boats will make direct connections with North Western trains through advance arrangements for a boat excursion at special group rates. Thousands of school children as well as adult groups have made such rail boat trips during the past eight years.

The cruises have carried almost three quarters of a million passengers since they made their maiden voyage in 1963.

OFFER A QUALITY PRODUCT

Ever since William Ladendorf signed his sales agreement with Oldsmobile in 1926, we have been more than pleased with the product and our customers have been extremely satisfied, too. In addition to Oldsmobile being a quality product, it has always been a product with innovative changes such as front wheel drive on our Toronado. The Toronados have been selling so fast that we can not stock them fast enough. As a matter of fact, there were more Oldsmobiles built the first quarter of this year than ever before. If a car is a GM make, that's good. If it is an Oldsmobile, that's better. If it is from Ladendorf, that is the best!

Harper Election Tomorrow

Voters will go to the polls tomorrow to elect three persons from a field of eight candidates to serve three-year terms on the Harper College board.

The election will conclude a hotly contested election in which a discussion of Harper's future has been mixed with a debate about the role of educators and students on the Harper board.

The eight candidates, in order of appearance on the ballot, are Hannah Wilson of Mount Prospect, Larry Moran of Schaumburg, Milton Hansen of Palatine, Ross Miller of Mount Prospect, Gene Berry of Palatine, Robert Fuchs of Prospect Heights, D. Eugene Nugent of Palatine and Larry Barry of Buffalo Grove.

THE CANDIDATES, with the exception of Berry and Barry, have spent the last two weeks attending candidates nights, speaking at neighborhood coffees and distributing literature.

By tomorrow night, however, there will be three winners. The 46 polling places in Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg and Barrington Townships will be open from noon to 7 p.m.

Returns will then be phoned into the college's business offices at Algonquin and Roselle roads, Palatine.

The six candidates made their last formal appearance as a group Wednesday night, as they addressed about 80 persons at the Schaumburg PTA at Jane Addams Junior High School in Schaumburg.

On Thursday, Martin Ryan, president of the college's Faculty Senate, asserted the idea of a faculty "conspiracy" to elect board members was "ludicrous." RYAN WAS responding to a charge made by James Hamill, retiring board chairman, who asserted a student-faculty "take over" of the board was under way.

Admitting Hamill was "sincere" in his allegations, he stated, "There's no cohesiveness among the faculty in regards to candidates for the board."

Ryan added he doubted candidates had gained a "significant" amount of money last year from donations, and he added that some faculty members have supported each of the candidates.

He commented that a 49 per cent figure of projected total budget increases for the faculty id the Faculty Senate's salary proposal is accepted was "grossly exaggerated."

He added he felt the faculty felt somewhat "insulted" as Hamill's charges "simply weren't true."

Last year's election drew 11,000 ballots. Observers are expecting a smaller turnout, as Sunday is Easter Sunday.

SIGNIFICANT factors in the outcome are expected to include the weather, geographical voting and the impact of the campaigning.

Mrs. Wilson, a nurse in Dist. 54, and Larry Moran, a student at Northeastern Ill. State College, have been prime targets of Hamill's charges. Both individually deny they are part of a "conspiracy" and both state they aren't working together.

Miller, Nugent and Hanson, the only incumbent seeking reelection, have been endorsed by a group calling itself Citizens Committee for a Better Harper College.

The forums which the candidates have attended have been marked primarily by a discussion of the college's future financial problems and the need for better public communications. The "takeover" issue has sparked some brief but heated exchanges.

College officials reported Thursday that 55 absentee ballots had been cast in the election. The actual vote-counting will begin Saturday evening.

There's A Quiet School Election

Suburbanites at the polls will vote for school board candidates tomorrow, also have an opportunity to vote for township school trustees.

The little publicized trustees election is to select persons who sit on a board, adding title to property owned by schools within their township.

The trustees also select a treasurer, authorized to sign checks for school expenditures within their township and in some townships, coordinates school district accounting.

The degree of activity in which the trustees and treasurer play a functional role is often contested by persons who say the school districts should be allowed to manage their own affairs, subject to audit.

Charges have been leveled that a duplication of services is created in the treasurer's position, and the jobs can be politically based with high pay benefits for minimal work.

DEFENSE HAS BEEN given that the treasurer and trustees provide necessary "checks and balances" over school spendings.

The coordination of money management for townships that have several small school districts within township boundaries is another defense offered.

Savings to small districts is available because the treasurer's office is computerized, said Harold Ahlbeck, Main Township Trustee who serves Districts 62, 63, and 64 and High School Dist. 207.

Robert Noonan, treasurer for schools in Palatine Township said he could make more money serving private clients and the job is not political.

Noonan said he does detail work, mostly dealing with banks holding school money and toward keeping those accounts straight.

TOWNSHIP SCHOOL trustees schedule regular meetings twice a year but meet on an average of once a month to take action of school property and money matters, Noonan added.

Trustee candidates are up for election in Schaumburg, Palatine, Wheeling, Elk Grove and Maine Townships.

In Schaumburg Township the candidates are incumbent Richard Ritchie of Schaumburg, being challenged by William Fitzgerald of Schaumburg. Other members of the Schaumburg Township School Board of Trustees are Arthur Wegner of Schaumburg and Harold Bond of Hoffman Estates.

POLLING PLACES in the Schaumburg Township school trustees race are the same as for the Dist. 45 school board elections.

In Elk Grove Township, Ned Basile of Elk Grove is seeking reelection and is opposed by Thomas Mayernick, also of Elk Grove. They are seeking a six year term.

Polling places are at Elementary School District 57 and 59 schools within Elk Grove Township.

Other Elk Grove Township school trustees are Fred Lambkin of Des Plaines and Ed Conlon of Mount Prospect.

Palatine Township has one school trustee candidate, James W. Johnson Jr. of Palatine on the ballot to replace retiring Donald Winter for a six year term. Other Palatine Township school trustees are Walter Vartanian Jr. and William Hesse of Palatine. Ballots will be at Elementary Dist. 15 polling places within the township.

Wheeling Township voters will be able to mark ballots in their precincts for two unopposed candidates at any school district polling place within the township boundaries.

THE CANDIDATES are Frank Alexander of Mount Prospect seeking a 6-year term and Raymond De Maertelaere of Arlington Heights, running to fill out 2 years of an unexpired term to which he was appointed.

Mrs. Joan Shelk of Arlington Heights is the third member of Wheeling Township's school trustee board.

In Maine Township, incumbent George Scharringhausen, seeking a six year term, is the only name on the trustee ballot. Residents can vote at West School in Des Plaines, Washington School in Park Ridge and Ballard School in Niles.

Arthur Behrens of Des Plaines and William Graham of Morton Grove are the two other trustees.

Board Annexes 54 Acre Tract

Annexation of a 54-acre site at Algonquin and Elmhurst roads was approved unanimously Tuesday by the Mount Prospect Village Board.

A $12 million office, apartment and recreation center — described as similar to New York's Rockefeller Center — is slated for construction on the site. The development will be known as the Mid-America Plaza.

The Des Plaines City Council objected to the project when it came before the Cook County Board, citing traffic problems that would result from the intense development. Up to 1,200 apartment units are planned for the site.

Owners of the property, Unity Venture Inc., approached Mount Prospect village officials with a request for annexation and rezoning after they were given permission by the County Board to develop the project on the unincorporated site.

William Alter of Unity Venture Inc., owner of the site, estimates construction will be completed within five to eight years depending on the economics of the country and the market for office space.

Alter said the complex will be basically an office park designed to accommodate big companies with enough space for regional or national offices.

If developed according to plan, the center will include several office buildings ranging in heights from eight to 16 stories, three 12-story and two 10-story apartment buildings with a maximum of 1,200 living units, theaters, restaurants, year-round recreation, underground parking, retail shops and a hotel with convention facilities.

A SPORTS ARENA, schools, churches and museums may be included at a later date.

The village board approved the annexation with commercial (B-3) zoning and special-use provisions permitting the construction of such facilities as apartments, a hotel and indoor-outdoor recreation.

According to the village board, the development will be "highly beneficial" to the village because it will "increase the taxable value of the real property within the village and the number of persons who will be counted for the purpose of obtaining state motor fuel tax funds."

The development will "also extend the corporate limits and the jurisdiction of the village, will promote the sound planning and development of the village and will otherwise enhance and promote the general welfare of the people of the village."

Annexation of the site, which was filed yesterday with the Cook County Recorder of Deeds, now allows the village to extend its boundaries further south with the annexation of Elmhurst-Algonquin Park II.

THE NINE-ACRE industrial park is located on Nordic and Carboy roads, just south of Algonquin Road and the Alter property. A public hearing on the pre-annexation agreement behind the village and the owners of the industrial park was held Tuesday following annexation of Alter's 54-acre parcel.

A decision on the annexation of Elmhurst-Algonquin Park II was postponed until April 27. The village is unable to annex the site until after Alter's plat of annexation has been recorded with the county. Otherwise, the site is not contiguous to village boundaries.

The industrial park, developed by Kenroy Inc. Realtors of Skokie, is currently unincorporated and zoned M-1 (light manufacturing). If annexed by the village, the site will be rezoned for light industrial (I-1) development — a zoning classification similar to the current county zoning.

A TRI-ORIFICE decorated goose egg requires infinite skill and patience to make. This one was made to order for an angel collector.

OUTSTANDING SHOWER gift or wedding remembrance is this tiny bridal party scene, complete even to the minister on the church steps.

Meet A Couple Of Good Eggers

by ELEANOR RIVES

Welcome to the enchanting miniature world of the eggers.

The goose that laid the golden egg was a clumsy amateur artist compared to the egg people who take the shells, embellish them with pearls and jewels, and set charming miniature scenes within them.

Two Des Plaines women who pursue this artistic craft both for pleasure and profit are Mrs. John W. Hull and Mrs. Herbert Larsen. The pleasure and satisfaction are unlimited; the profit compared to the hours of work involved is negligible.

In terms of the craft, the artists are actually called "eggers." In terms of quality, Mrs. Hull and Mrs. Larsen are more than that — they are good eggers.

LET'S TAKE A peek into the teeny, calcium-encased world, they have created.

Inside one of their vertical goose eggs, seen through its long oval opening, two tiny gold deer serenely graze in a bed of moss beside a little twig tree. Gold braid, opalescent sequins and rows of pearls embellish the outside of the egg.

In a horizontal goose egg, a small colorful pheasant in a mossy field watches over a tiny pine cone section nest. Three little pearls represent the eggs.

A third goose egg, perhaps the most difficult to create, has three vertical orifices, like heavenly oval windows, each framing a small gold angel playing a golden instrument. They seem to float on a base of angel hair, each backed in lace. The exterior is trimmed in gold braid and pearls, and crowned with overlapping circles of tiny seed pearls.

"I'd hate to estimate the time we put in on that one," said Mrs. Hull. "I think I'd faint."

EASTER, OF COURSE is a busy season for the two women, with both sacred and secular scenes dominating their egg world. Children delight in the tiny bunnies and chicks peeking out of egg bones.

Christmas is another busy time. Miniature crèches and tiny wooden figures tell the Christmas story within the confines of the egg.

The women have been experimenting with egg decoupage, decorating empty chicken eggs with cutouts of tiny delicate flowers and vines in pretty spring colors. Suspended by pipe cleaners from bare branches, these colorful little eggs make a gay spring centerpiece or room decoration.

Miriam Hull and Helen Larsen work as a team because it's more fun to work together than alone. "When there are two of you, you set a day aside and have a goal. You let nothing else interfere," said Helen.

"WE WORK together so well," said Miriam. "That neither of us is sure where the ideas hatch. One of us can start a sentence and the other finish it."

"And one of us can start an egg and the other finish it," added Helen.

Mrs. Hull and Mrs. Larsen were backdoor neighbors 15 years ago. Both have a flair for artsy crafts pursuits. Helen has been creating three-dimensional dried flower pictures for many years. Miriam had at one time made 40 decorated eggs for a church bazaar. They began decorating eggs together right after Christmas 1968, getting an early start for the following Christmas.

In October, 1969, they launched a series of home boutique parties called the "Arts and Crafts Showcase" in which they showed and sold the work of six artists. Their own decorated eggs were a feature of the boutique.

THE TWO WOMEN now market their artistic eggs in the Sugar 'n Spice Shop in Des Plaines and in Hearthside Interiors in Barrington.

One of their biggest problems is finding a good source of supply. Goose eggs, which they use most often, are readily available only in the spring. Chicken eggs seem to be getting more flimsy all the time. Quail eggs, petite and highly valued by collectors, are difficult to get any time.

"We learned the hard way," said Mrs. Hull. "We practiced on chicken eggs. The shell is really not as delicate as you think each thing you add to it — glue, fabric, braid — makes it stronger."

The egg is emptied through an opening in the shell that will later be enlarged to frame the interior scene. A curved manicure scissors is used not so much to cut the outline of the desired opening as to control the way the shell is breaking.

PAINT, GLUE, tiny cutouts, velvet pieces in soft colors, burlap, lace, gold braid, jewelry of all types, especially pearls and sequins may be used to adorn the outside. Jewelry findings in gold or silver are used as a decorative base to support the egg.

The interior scene utilizes natural materials as much as possible — sedum, moss, mushrooms, strawflowers, parts of pine cones — all dried and treated with a fixative. Miriam and Helen are always on the lookout too for tiny men, women, children, animals to populate their egg homes.

Special occasions may be forever captured in egg artistry: a wedding, a graduation, a special trip, even a ski weekend. A small family heirloom may be mounted in a most imaginative way, memories of childhood may be preserved in a tiny mounted toy.

It's a small world when you're an eggger. It takes infinite patience and a great deal of time. But the results are artistic, tiny and absolutely delightful.

Her Memories Of Easter

by MARY B. GOOD

Easter, Washington, D. C., 1941. The annual Easter egg roll on the White House lawn meant that every adult had to be accompanied by a child.

The story gets better as the years roll on. With the fabrication that my sisters and I sat on President Roosevelt's lap with our fabulous collection of egg rolling race trophies.

Several years later, when the family moved to Chicago, we took part in swensonka (sven SON ka). That's when people took their Easter food to St. Hyacinth's Church at 3636 W. Wolfram so the priest could bless it. (They still have swensonka there, too!)

It was traditional with our Polish people to line a basket for swensonka with straw and lovingly set in the baranek (butter shaped like a lamb). The butter lamb was a symbol of Jesus, but the idea goes back to the Jews, who sacrificed a lamb during their Passover ceremony. Some connect the Jewish paschal lamb sacrifice with Christ's sacrifice on the cross.

THE BARANEK in the swensonka basket was surrounded by homemade beet horseradish and kielbasa sausage, hard-boiled eggs and bread. The basket was always covered, of course, with a white linen napkin. Every bit of the blessed food had to be eaten, every crumb. All remains, including the egg shells, were burned.

I have memories of hauling the food to the church in a little red wagon, but mother says it wasn't as arduous all that.

These isolated incidents carry personal significance as very vivid symbols of childhood Easter warmth. And what are yours?

In the old neighborhood, the Polish babushkas (grandmothers) made hot cross buns on Shrove Tuesday and often during the Easter season as well. Each special little cake had a cross of icing on its top. The Greeks and Portuguese have a similar goodie, but theirs is a round, flat, cross marked loaf decorated with Easter eggs.

THE REASON PEOPLE use eggs is because they symbolize nature awakening, the new life of spring that returns about Easter time.

Dying eggs is nothing new. The ancient Persians often dyed eggs as gifts to friends. It is said that they believed the earth had hatched from a giant egg. People in Germany color eggs green on Maundy Thursday and carry the eggs around with them for good luck. In some European countries, folks prefer red colored eggs, to represent the joy of the Resurrection.

That the Easter bunny brings eggs is a belief sprouting from a German legend. The story goes that a poor woman dyed some eggs during a famine and hid them in a nest for her children. Just as the children discovered the nest, a big rabbit leaped aside. The story spread that the rabbit brought the eggs. Chocolate marshmallow eggs and jelly beans are an extension of the egg legend.

ALMOST EVERY FEMALE has little girl memories of some pretty Easter

dress she once wore, perhaps made by her mother. Maybe she had a wide-brimmed white hat or a pair of black patent leather shoes. New spring clothes used to be a part of the Easter parade to church, especially before hippies. (Father used to call the clothes horses who only came to church once a year. "Easter chicks.")

Many customs connected with Easter emerge from pagan festivals of spring. In Sweden, for instance, houses are decorated with birch twigs trimmed with chicken feathers.

A game of fire between boys and girls in Hungary sends lighted sticks flying through the air like pinwheels in a fireworks display.

The meanings of some old customs have been lost through the years. In early days, English children, dressed in their Easter best, enjoyed "clipping the church" on Easter morning. They formed a circle around the building with their backs to it. By joining hands they clipped or embraced the church.

NEW LITURGICAL WAYS have all but eliminated extensive penance and self-denial as a means of increasing virtue. But in strictly religious Catholic households, adults used to undertake a 40-day Lenten fast and prayer period (to recall Christ's 40-day fast in the desert). Mother anticipated breaking the fast with a beautiful, big Easter breakfast. The feast made the whole family feel proud that they had accomplished a strenuous physical and spiritual preparation for Easter.

Will your own children have a set of Easter memories?

WHEN SHE GROWS UP, will she remember the Easter egg hunt that is a cherished part of so many childhoods? Mary B. Good in the adjoining article reminisces about her own childhood Easters and relates some of the customs that have the egg as their basis.

The Potting Shed

by Mary B. Good

Last weekend was made to order for gardening buffs.

All the neighbors made it their first day out this season raking debris from the lawns and checking the place for winter damage.

I got shamed into the garden.

The first garden thing I did was to clean out the fireplace for wood ashes compost ingredient for soil building.

I hadn't yet put away the Christmas tree ornaments, so I salvaged a straw wreath also for use in the compost pile.

Since my husband has intimated that I'm going to burn the house down with the heat of my compost pile (it rests against the house) the first order of business was relocating it.

I DECIDED TO USE the Ruth Stout method of composting. Mrs. Stout is the queen of the organic mulch gardeners. I located the goodie heap underneath the suckiest tree on the lot. (And stood back waiting for it to take off.)

The biggest problem this time of year is the five or six inches of green matter necessary to get the soil making operation percolating.

I was forced to chop and strip pine branches, yucca, newly sprouted tulip leaves, and dig up old sod. One other source I finally resorted to was mowing the grass on what sprouts I was nurturing indoors. That's how much importunate I attach to a compost pile. And if you saw my compost grown lawn and flowers, you might do it too.

DON'T RUSH TO BLAME the seeds man if the flower seed you bought doesn't germinate. There's a good possibility that you rather than the seed — are at fault.

Did you (a) overwater? (b) plant the seeds too deeply? (c) let the seeds dry out? (d) have the soil too cold?

Was there (a) poor air circulation? (b) just plain neglect involved?

Small fragile flower seeds, like petunias, can easily dry out and die during the critical germination period. Conditions in a window of your home aren't likely to be ideal for germinating. A hot bed or mini greenhouse is better. You can also use fluorescent lights to germinate and keep the seedlings growing.

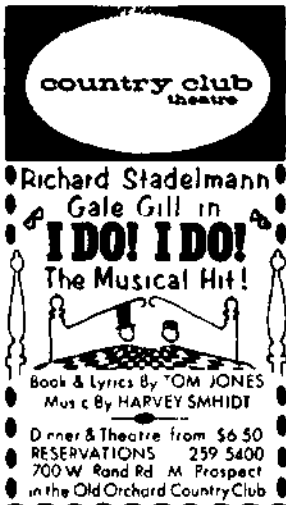

DAMPING OFF is the greatest hazard in growing seeds. Ground rot caused by too much moisture is the problem, so water seeds sparingly. Sprinkle them once or twice a week with a cup of vinegar in a quart of water. (But don't use all the concoction at once, naturally. Make it in volume and use a little as you go along.)

A good starting mix indoors is vermiculite and sand.

As you can guess, germinating is tricky, and if you are impatient or lacking in motivation, chances are you might be better off to buy started plants. Flats establish quickly and flower sooner than those started from seed now. Also, you can estimate your needs ahead of time, eliminating expense and the time you've invested in growing your own transplants. But planting time is still a month away, so cool it.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: Is the spring the only time one can know there are termites around — when they start swarming? — Marian K.

If termite damage was only discovered because they were swarming, that would be much too simple. You would get an exterminator at once to check. The exterminator could tell you quickly whether or not you have them — and act accordingly. The trouble comes when they work silently and do extensive damage before being discovered. One friend had an area under a dining table fall in before knowing there were termites in the house.

Unless one knows how to look for traces of termites — the tiny tubes they build in which to travel — experts should be called in periodically to check. No termites, no charge. A new house can be just as vulnerable as an old one. The only new house we ever lived in was attacked. The workmen dumped all the excess wood scraps under the concrete porch. It was a direct invitation for termites.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope. Write to Dorothy Ritz in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

EN GARDE. Notre Dame's fencing team had another fine season in 1970-71 as it finished with a 13-1 dual meet high school season and finished fourth in the state meet. The members of the squad were, from left to

Dons Fall To New Trier

Some day the hits are going to start falling in and Notre Dame is going to pour on the score.

Wednesday night against New Trier West, the Dons struck out only four times but managed to get only five hits as they lost 4-1 in a non-conference game at Notre Dame.

The case was the same against Ridgeview a day earlier when the Dons only managed two hits but struck out only twice.

So far this season Notre Dame has scored only six runs while posting a 1-3 record.

New Trier West could have made Wednesday's score much higher if the Cowboys had taken advantage of numerous opportunities. New Trier left 13 runs on base in the contest.

The Cowboys went out in front 3-0 in the fourth inning on a single, a stolen base, a walk, a passed ball, a sacrifice, an error, a single, another passed ball, two more walks and a fielder's choice.

New Trier West tallied another run in the top of the fourth to make it 4-0 on a walk, a stolen base, a fielder's choice and an outfield error.

Fred Buczynski started for the Dons and pitched three and one-third innings and gave up three runs. Hugh Carmichael hurled one and two-thirds innings and gave up an unearned run. Doug Kurzylo finished up for the Dons and pitched two shutout frames.

Notre Dame's only run came in the bottom of the fifth inning when Randy Kamowski singled and went to second on an outfield error. Kamowski took third on a fielder's choice and scored when Dan Foppeler slapped a single up the middle.

The Dons had a chance for a big rally in the sixth inning when Tom Les singled, Tom Czarnik singled and Rich Pedit walked but they were unable to score.

The Dons will face St. Joseph in a doubleheader at home Saturday starting at 11 a.m. The first game will count toward the Suburban Catholic Conference standings and the second game will be a non-league clash.

A NEW LOOK IN PLAYOFFS

Dear Sir:

I was wondering if the playoff system in the Mid-Suburban League will apply to baseball as it did in football and basketball. I feel that such a system helps to spread interest on the final standings and restores the incentive for an upset. If so, how will it work?

Edward Syzecki
Wheeling

As in football and basketball, the final baseball standings will also be governed by the playoff system, but in a different manner. An example may best describe how the system will work. Every North Division member plays each of its own teams twice while crossing over against each team in the South only once. If Team "X" wins the North and Team "Y" wins the South, the regular season game between the two schools will constitute the first of what boils down to a three-game playoff between the winners. If team "X" beats "Y" during the regular season and duplicates the feat in the first game of the playoffs, Team "X" would be declared the conference champion. If however, Team "Y" wins the playoff game after losing the regular season contest, the playoff would move to a third game to decide the eventual winner. — Jim Cook.

UNHAPPY WITH NBA

Dear Sirs:

I must express my disgust with the National Basketball Association for two things which I feel cost the Bulls their playoff series against the Los Angeles Lakers. My complaints are against the officiating and the league's system of assigning sites for the playoff games.

I feel that one man alone, referee Jack Madden, killed the Bulls' hopes with two horrible calls in the last 30 seconds of the first game in L.A. First, he gave the Lakers possession with them leading by one point on a ball obviously off a Laker's foot (every Chicago writer agreed on this). Then, after L.A. missed a shot with 10 seconds left, Gail Goodrich shoved Jerry Sloan out of the way for the rebound. No foul was called. Time ran out and the Bulls lost 100-99. Obviously this cost them the series since they lost it four games to three.

Second, why did the Lakers get the home court advantage with the extra home game (including the seventh and deciding) when their record was three games worse than the Bulls' for the regular season? The fact that L.S. was first in their weaker division and the Bulls second does not erase the fact that the Bulls earned the extra home game with their superior play throughout the season.

I also feel it is very "bush" of the NBA commissioner Walter Kennedy to take out his personal dislike of bulls coach Dick Motta with an outrageously high fine, $1500 for Motta's conduct during the third game. Motta did not lay a hand on anyone and a little profanity is no cause for such an outlandish fine. Other coaches get away with just as much or more than Motta without a fine or even a technical foul.

All of this may sound like sour grapes, but there's no doubt that it was the difference between winning and losing — with a lot of money involved — for the Bulls.

Nicholas Christopholis
Hoffman Estates.

The officiating is a matter of judgment, though Chicago writers at that first game concurred with your view on the two calls in question. The Bulls may have deserved the home court advantage but the league wants to reward first place above all. Motta's fine did see a little high, but there may have been more involved there than the incident which provoked it. Motta's behavior has been far from good for some time. But even if the fine were justified, it did not seem necessary for Kennedy to make a public announcement of the amount. This is usually kept secret in such cases. — Larry Everhart

HAIR-RAISING DISCUSSION

Dear Sir:

While watching the Bulls and the Lakers in the playoffs I couldn't help but notice the length of some of the players' hair. Players such as Keith Erickson looked atrocious with their long hair and they sure didn't benefit the idea of what I have always held as athletes.

Why doesn't the Laker coach enforce some rule about long hair and why don't the coaches of such "athletes" as Pete Maravich, Joe Pepitone and Joe Namath? Mrs. Ann Duimstra

I am sure that coaches Joe Mullaney of the Lakers, Richie Guerin of the Hawks, Leo Durocher of the Cubs and Weeb Ewbank of the Jets have their own reasons for allowing their players to wear their long locks. They probably figure that if the player can perform on the court or the field, why rock the boat over long hair.

Though the players you mentioned do not represent the type of athlete we have come to know in past years, times are changing and so are styles and long hair just happens to be "in" right now.

Personally, as coach, I would put some restrictions on long hair. Maravich's long hair seems to be constantly getting into his eyes and bothering his play. Pepitone's batting helmet does not properly protect him because of his hair and Namath's football helmet does not protect him properly because of the poor fit over his hair.

As soon as the hair interfered with a player's performance (such as in Maravich's case) and as soon as a player's safety was put in jeopardy (such as in the case of Pepitone and Namath), as coach, I would have them cut some of the locks off, at least. — Larry Mlyneczak.

LAMENTS SECTIONAL LOSS

Dear Sirs:

Arlington's recent loss in sectional (basketball) play was unfortunate for two reasons. First, a well-balanced and talented team was eliminated. Second, Bob Frisk once again made his annual sojourn to Champaign sans local talent.

The best-coached teams make the Elite Eight. Witness Rockford Boylan, coached by Dolph Stanley. The Titans were just about the smallest team in quarter-final play with no player over six feet, three inches. But throughout the year they gave opponents a run for their money. They never gave up and their coach had the experience to change the teams' playing strategy when things took a turn for the worse.

My next observation is better stated as a question. When in the IHSA (Illinois High School Association) going to stop letting teams stall? This well-used tactic is boring to the fans, puts a stop to exciting finishes and comebacks (as it did in the Arlington-New Trier East game) and can't possibly instill anything in young athletes.

In my opinion, five 40-year-old men, given one hour of practice time, can play "keep-away" from another team all night long. It's a shame that a clock of some kind wasn't in use at Fremd. If it had been Bob Frisk may well have made a trip to Evanston, avec local talent.

R. S.
Wheeling

I appreciate your comments. Yes, I've been waiting a long time to follow an area team to Champaign for the state tournament, and now I'll wait another year. But with big guys like Roger Wood and Andy Pancratz around next winter, maybe . . . just maybe. Stalling in basketball offers some intriguing discussion at both the high school and college level, but it's not as easy to play "keep away" as you might think. I personally favor a 30-second clock in college ball. Anyway, I seriously doubt that five guys on the Herald sports staff (and we're not even 40-year-old men), given one hour of practice time, could have kept the ball away from lightning-quick Thornridge. My guess here is that Quinn Buckner alone could have given us problems! — Bob Frisk.

Ward Experiments In Demon Setback

Maine East coach Herb Ward is still experimenting with his lineup and getting a good look at his pitching staff.

Wednesday morning Ward used three different pitchers as the Demons lost 4-1 to Glenbrook South in a non-conference game on the road.

Rick Miller pitched the first three innings for the Demons and gave up two runs. John DeCardy hurled the next two innings and gave up a pair of runs and Frank Knopf pitched one shutout inning.

Glenbrook South opened up a 2-0 lead in the first inning with a triple, a fielder's choice, a single, a stolen base and another fielder's choice.

In the fourth frame the Titans put together two more runs with four consecutive singles.

The only Maine East run came in the top of the fourth when Bill Kilmer walked, went to third on a single by Mike McDonnell and scored when Gary Shuman's ground ball was errored.

Maine East will take a 1-2 record into Saturday's game at home against Maine South at 10 a.m.

The Demons have managed to score only three runs in the three contests which concerns Ward.

"We're not striking out very much," Ward said, "but we're not getting the key hits, either. Faulty base running has also taken us out of a number of opportunities."

"I didn't think we played well against Glenbrook South mostly because we weren't playing heads up baseball. We're just going to have to cut down on some of our mental mistakes if we're going to win ball games."

Glenbrook South	200	200	X-4-8-1

FENCING IS an up and coming sport in the Chicago area and at Notre Dame High School fencing is big — with a capital B.

Notre Dame's fencing program began just four years ago and since that time the Dons have finished no lower than fifth at the state meet, have a 44-8 dual meet record and recently had a 28-meet winning streak.

Much of this success can be traced to the originator of the program — and the current fencing coach — Rev. Lawrence Calhoun.

Rev. Calhoun was not a fencing expert himself when he originated the program. "I saw some boys fencing in an intramural program and I took an interest in it."

"I had not fenced much before so I read books on the subject, attended clinics, took lessons and learned all that I could about the sport."

I then went to Fran Willett (Notre Dame's athletic director) and asked him about starting a fencing program. He gave me the go-ahead."

"Many people credit me with getting fencing started at our school," Willett said, "but all I have done is give the okay for it. Father Calhoun has done all the work for it, he raised much of the money for the program and got the ball rolling."

It's Father Calhoun who deserves all the credit, not me."

In Notre Dame's first fencing season, the Dons went 5-3 in dual meets and went on to finish fourth in the state. That was in 1967-68.

The following year Notre Dame went 11-1 in the dual meet season finished fifth at state.

After a splendid 15-0 season in 1969-70 Notre Dame was again fifth in the state and in this past season the Dons were 3-1 and were fourth in the state meet.

Not only do the Notre Dame fencers compete in high school dual meets, they also participate in a number of tournaments, invitational and nation-wide meets during the season. Some of these meets involve Notre Dame fencers against others of their own age but in the "open" meets, they take on fencers of all ages.

"The best way to build your program is to get a strong schedule," Rev. Calhoun said. "When our boys go against good competition and more experienced competition they are going to learn a lot. This has to help them when they go against high school competition."

Not only do the Dons learn in "open" meets they probably do a great deal of "teaching." Notre Dame fencers have done extremely well in the "open" meets and have taken home an unaccountable number of trophies.

Rev. Calhoun believes that fencing has much to offer high schoolers and should be an integral part of any school program.

"Fencing has a lot to offer the school," he said, "particularly in the fact it gives the students another chance to participate in interscholastic athletics."

"There are many boys who would like to compete in athletics but they're too small for basketball, or don't like the contact of football and such."

"But fencing provides these boys with the opportunity to compete."

"I'm not saying that the fencing program gets the bottom end of the athletes in the school," Rev. Calhoun went on. "It takes a great deal of skill and some natural ability to compete in fencing."

The idea of trying to stick another person with a sword does not appeal to many people and many believe that fencing involves a great deal of risk.

"Nothing can be farther from the truth," Rev. Calhoun remarked. "If the boy wears the proper equipment and the equipment fits the boy the way it should, there is less chance of injury than in probably any other sport."

In fencing there are three types of blades — foil, epee and saber with foil being the lightest and the heaviest. On the high school level the foil is used.

Rev. Calhoun says that fencing can only get bigger in Illinois.

"I think you are going to find more schools and more boys competing in fencing as the years go by," he said. "We have a long way to go before we catch up with the East, where fencing is very big, but I think fencing should continue to grow in this area."

West Germany Gymnasts Visit

The top finishers in the Illinois State Gymnastics Meet have made a few changes to bolster their confrontation with a visiting West Germany contingent Saturday evening at 7:30 at the Prospect High School gymnasium.

According to Rich Chew, head gym coach at Prospect, two specialists in each event except trampoline, have been recruited to challenge the international competitors.

Jeff Farris (the state's second-place finisher in the all-around competition), Gary Oldeen (sixth) of Evanston, Pat Neelan (fifth) of Homewood-Flossmoor, and 11-year-old Tim Slotow, also of Evanston, will test the college-aged West Germans in their all-around ability.

Aiding the area cause are specialists Leonard Henderson of Waukegan and Tom Fogel of Evanston, first and second in the state free exercise event, respectively.

On the side horse, besides the all-around performers, the West Germans will have to tackle Mark Adams of Rich East and Howard Beck of Prospect, the state's third and fourth place finishers in the state meet.

Prospect's Jim Lutz (third) and Thornridge's Bill Karpen (sixth) will join the all-around performers on the high bar event, while Bill Fergus handles the parallel bars.

On rings, the West Germans will have to cope with the state's second best performer in Elk Grove's Jim Malmendahl and eighth rated Don Liston of Prospect.

'Anything' In Vending Machines

by CYNTHIA TIVERS

People will throw almost anything in a coin-operated vending machine or a pay telephone.

Northwest suburban area vendors say they have gotten everything in their machines from slugs and bent coins to, in one case, a live worm.

But neither the vending machine operators or spokesmen from the telephone company could say that the problem with bad coins is a major one.

Matt Cockrell, who runs the Cockrell Coffee Service in Schaumburg, which operates more than 600 coin machines in the northwest suburbs, said usually his company has no problem with bad coins.

Park Employees Study Management

Two Mount Prospect Park District employees recently returned from a week-long course in management of parks and recreation at Indiana University, Bloomington.

Paul Caldwell, assistant park director, has completed the two-year course which teaches management theory, speed reading and ideas on political and social behavior. Dale Johnson, recreation supervisor, will complete the course next year.

It cost the park district $450 to send both men to school for a week. Caldwell said that one of the benefits of the course, sponsored by the university and the National Park and Recreation Association, is the informal sessions with park district officials from across the country and parts of Canada.

"We found we do not have as many problems as other park districts," Caldwell said. Tom Cooper, park director, finished the course last year. "It renews energies and gives us a new perspective," he said.

The Mount Prospect Park District serves most of Mount Prospect, parts of Arlington Heights and Elk Grove Village, and the Eighth Ward in Des Plaines.

"Needless to say we do get slugs," Cockrell commented, "but you wouldn't believe how small a problem this is for us. The percentage of slugs put in our machines is so small that I would question if it could be calculated on a per cent basis."

Cockrell did say that he has a problem with Canadian coins because the difference in metal content jams a coin machine. "But the most unusual case we've had," Cockrell said, "was the live worm that had been pushed down the coin slot. He got battered a little from the coins that followed him but he came out of it a live worm."

Don Hesch, manager of the Arlington Heights Entertainers Inc., a coin machine company which also operates in the Northwest suburbs, said their biggest problem of late has been with Canadian money.

"IT'S MADE OF metal that adheres to magnets in the coin equipment," Hesch explained, "it jams up anything that comes up behind it."

Hesch said 15 to 20 per cent of his service calls stem from the Canadian coins which jam up machines.

"We don't get too many slugs," he added, "but mutilated money which also jams up our equipment is a nuisance."

A representative of the Bell Telephone Co. in Arlington Heights, which serves Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Prospect Heights and Rolling Meadows, said the problems of slugs and bent coins is fair sized, "but not nearly the same problem as they have in Chicago."

He added that when a bad coin is used and it jams up a coin phone "someone else will be deprived of the use of that phone possibly in time of an emergency."

Spokesmen for the Central Telephone Co. in Des Plaines, which serves Des Plaines, Park Ridge, Rosemont and some of Prospect Heights, said their biggest coin problem is in industrial areas.

"WORMS AND SLUGS are more readily available there," one spokesman said, "but the problem is in all pay telephones. The biggest problem on the street is vandalism."

According to Martin Brown, public relations superintendent for Central Telephone, the company operates about 11,500 outside stations and eight men are employed to maintain and repair the company's pay phones.
